DeKalb County Families

DEDICATED TO

MY HUSBAND

ORRIS A. WISE

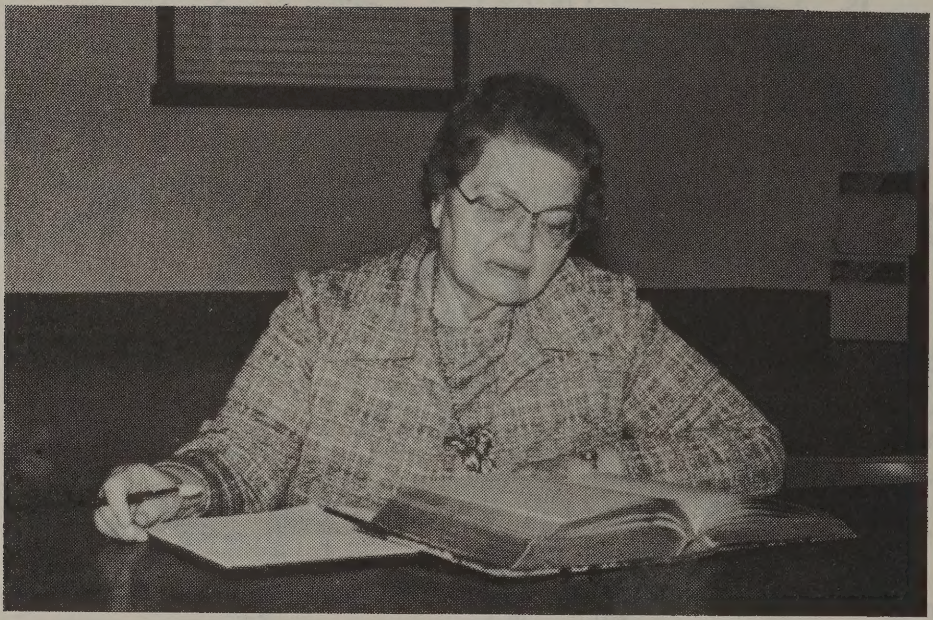
who has supported and encouraged me in this undertaking as well as my many years in pursuing genealogical research.



Troas May Wise
Editor of Volume Two, DeKalb County Families, editing the family histories contributed by people interested in preserving the memory of those who were, and are, a part of DeKalb County.

A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR

This volume is a collection of family histories contributed by persons whose roots and lives have touched DeKalb County at some time, past or present.

These family histories have been solicited by newspaper articles, word of mouth, and mailings. Some were fully written when submitted. Others were submitted in outline form and were written by me. About half way through the project, a ''fill in the blank family history form'' was devised. This form made it easier for those who were uncomfortable with writing to include family information. Family histories were limited to about five hundred words per generation. We encouraged including personal information such as employment, hobbies, organization memberships, and places of residence.

We also encouraged the families to submit photographs. Old photographs were copied by Albert Witt of Ashley. Contemporary photographs were taken by David Etter of Etter Studio in Garrett. All photographs were used except for a few which, regrettably, would not reproduce. In a few cases, more than one person in a family submitted a family history. These were sometimes combined. Obvious inconsistencies were corrected, but it was impossible to verify information which was submitted.

Editing was done to the best of our ability; however, time did not allow correction of some flaws and deviations from section to section which were the result of variations in writing style. Some of the family histories were intentionally left primarily as submitted to preserve local flavor and document colloquial syntax and idioms.

Family histories are randomly arranged, although family groups have been kept together to the extent possible. The index will enable readers and researchers to locate names and family groups. The index includes only names of people, not concepts.

This project would not have been completed without the willing assistance of volunteer typists and proofreaders. The help given me by Arlene Goodwin, Sue Carper, Betty Dilgard, Dorothy Capen, and many others who so generously volunteered their time and talents is very much appreciated. Though space will not allow mention of all others, I sincerely thank all.

My special thanks goes to those who have submitted family histories. Without their interest, this volume would not have been possible.

FRANK AND SARAH (DOTY) AMSTUTZ retired to "The Farm" in 1962 and it was not to be a take it easy time, it would be a working one. Conservation and preservation with wood to cut, land to drain, soil to be restored and new friends to make, was their retirement plan.

"The Farm" at the Village of Spencerville on County Road 68 and 61 just over the Covered Bridge was to be their new home. This was "Lake Land" and Sarah's mother was a Lake. Minnie Lake, daughter of Emma and John Lake. Minnie and Elmer Doty her husband came with their family to this very house for Lake Reunions when Sarah was just a little girl some 60 years ago. Elmer Doty's family settled in Northeast Indiana as did the Lakes in early 1800's.

From Fort Wayne Post Office and the Home Making Trade, Frank and Sarah came. Memories were shared of 60 years past when as a girl, Mom and Dad Doty hitched old Jim and drove some 20 miles to this very house now to become their new home. It too was is disrepair. Way back then on a hot July Sunday afternoon on the river at the clear St. Joe in the old swimming hole great fun was shared. The beach at the sand bar in the small bend of the river was behind Kraft's Gravel Pit was where fun really began. On to the hay rope tied to a huge limb extending out over the water we could either dive or drop for a splash into the cool of the river. The waters too, have now changed and no one swims in the old St. Joe.

Lake reunions continue as an enjoyable time because family love is a gift from above.

Frank was a planter and loved nature. His teachings of their family continues. Frank died in 1973 and with His Lord, but his work goes on. In 1985, "The Farm" was honored as one of Indiana's "Tree Farms" also is soon to become an "Indiana Century Farm" for as you see the land has always been within the Lake family.

Frank's mother too, a DeKalb County person Queen Lawhead and their home farm was property now where many planes land. The Lawhead land is now DeKalb County Airport, a runway running through it. The beautiful wooded land south of that field was replanted by Frank during his Purdue School days and later. The tall beautiful stately forestland restored too, by a caring younger man. Franks parents lived on the Amstutz road which to many of us was County Road 35 depending on which side of the county line we lived. The Lakes - Doty -Lawhead - Amstutz and now Lichtsinn's are farm people and loving the land.

St. Peters Lutheran Church was their new church home and in the south wall of that old brick structure are two beautiful stained glass windows. One with the open Bible and the other with The Ark and a Dove in flight. The first was donated by Barnet Chapel the other by Erich Chapel Sunday School Classes. Sarah's family worshiped at Barnet Chapel and Frank's the other. Surprised they were to find it so, but so rewarding too, as they both had taught and worked through the years in Sunday Schools.

Two daughters they were given, Betty Ruth and Lois Mae.

Sister Betty R. Amstutz a renown Lutheran professional of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania devoting her life to the Lord's work. Officially she is Dr. Betty R. Amstutz, a Lutheran Deaconess with a B.A. from Whittenburg University, a Masters of Social Service from Bryn Mahr - also an honorary LHD from Gettysburg College.

Mrs. Lois Amstutz Lichtsinn and Robert "Bob" C. live on "The Farm". He retired and she a homemaker - retired to the Farm also and continue the practice of Conservation Restoration.

Three grandchildren and 7 great grandchildren. Nancy (Lichtsinn) Fish, Mrs. Russell, Charles E. and Jennifer Ned Lichtsinn & Sandra, Michelle, Melanie, and Elizabeth Nina (Lichtsinn) Hill, Nathan David and Jason.

New memories were built as the years have passed by. Sarah, now 86 lives on "The Farm" and having a wonderful time. Enjoying new growth as the years pass by through family and friends on "Lake Land."

His early memories include a trip to Corunna, Indiana, to watch the engine of a train scooping up water on the run. Another was of going to Auburn, Indiana, to watch Art Smith fly his plane. The weather was not right for the first two scheduled flights and a third trip was necessary before the plane finally got off the ground. Also watching a Mr. Bassett get clams out of the St. Joe River. Mr. Bassett had a device which enabled him to look down into the water. When he saw a clam he put down a rod which the clam clamped onto and was pulled up and deposited into a boat. He then cooked the clams; the meat was fed to hogs and the shells were used to make buttons.

Willard attended the Cheestown school until midterm of the seventh grade when the school was closed. The children were taken to school in St. Joe, Indiana. The county provided a horse drawn conveyance, which had been used to haul pallbearers at funerals, to take the children into town until they finished their grade school education. When they went into high school, they were required to furnish their own transportation.

After graduation in 1924, Willard went to Ball State University, which was the called the "Eastern Division Indiana State Normal School Ball Teachers College". He then accepted a teaching position in Rudyard, Michigan, in the upper pennisula, a Finn community where he taught for two years, then moved to Cornell near Escanaba, Michigan, for one year. During the summer, while attending Marquette, Michigan school he received an opportunity to enter the Post Office Department Railway Mail Service. After substituting on mail trains and the Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania terminal, he accepted a permanent assignment in the Cincinnati terminal.

He found living quarters in Covington, Kentucky and while living there met Ruth Agnes, daughter of John Joseph and Caroline Josephine (Lammert) Fichlie. On 7 August 1934 they were married by the Rev. Joseph Scholes at Hamilton, Indiana.

The couple was only housekeeping in Latonia, Kentucky two weeks, when Willard was detailed to the Toledo, Ohio office and it wasn't until December, 1934 that his position was made permanent and the couple moved to Toledo, Ohio.

Three children were born while the couple lived in Toledo: Beverly Joyce 12 March 1936; Sharon Rose 6 June 1940 and Paul Floyd 20 September 1941.

After nine years Willard transferred to a position on the New York Central mail train running between Chicago, Illinois and Cleveland, Ohio and the Maxwell family moved to Waterloo, Indiana.

Maternal grandparents were Charles and Barbara (Arter) Oster. McDonalds and Bowers families were from the Corunna area. The Osters were from Hamilton area and the Arters from Ohio.

Mary Ellen Roop, born 23 April 1916 in rural route Auburn, Indiana, daughter of Murvin and Laura Janette (Cochran) Roop both from Auburn, Indiana. Her paternal grandparents were Frank and Emma (Talbert) Roop. Her maternal grandparents were Joseph and Mary Ellen (Miser) Cochran. Paul lived ten of his boyhood years of a farm south west of Corunna. Eight years of grade school were spent at West Richland school. The first two years of school the children were transported by a horse drawn hack. In cold weather the hack was heated by a coal or wood burning heater, in the center of the hack, and the driver had to go outside to stoke the fire. When snow came we rode in a grain box mounted on a bobsled, filled with straw to help keep the children warm. Heated bricks and Irons also helped to keep hands and feet warm. Four years of High School were spent at Waterloo. Students from Corunna were transported by Railroad to and from Waterloo during the 1928-29 school year. Busses were used after that.

Mary Ellen Roop lived on a farm across the road from the East Richland school where she went for eight years. Three years of High School at Waterloo and one year at Auburn. Paul and Mary Ellen married 12 June 1935 in Corunna united Brethern Parsonage by the Rev. Vern Keller.

During the first year of their marriage Paul was making $7.00 per week. A cow, several chickens and some rabbits helped greatly during those tough depression years. The second year of marriage Paul lost his job at the feed mill. His father was bumped out of his job at the water station, where the trains take water on the run, and he had to go to Toledo, Ohio to work.

Paul has one sister, Irene B. (McDonald)

Francis. She married Newton Francis, deceased. Paul's folks had moved to Toledo, and while there Irene got Polio. With the burden of caring for her placed on the folks and Paul being out of work, a decision was made to close the home in Corunna and move to Toledo to help care for Irene and to look for work. A sight to behold was the little '31 Chevy roadster, with the rumble seat packed full, a crate of chickens and a crate of rabbits tied to the running board, and Toledo or bust.

During the winter of 1936-1937 a job was found with the Sherlock Baking Company on Detroit Avenue. For three and one half years Paul peddled bread and pastries from door to door driving a horse drawn truck before finally getting new International trucks.

The New York Central Railroad called during these years in Toledo and Paul worked for then 23 years. Sixteen years as Telegraph Operator and seven years as signal mechanic. After retiring from the Railroad Paul was employed by Stanadyne Distributing Center Garrett, Indiana and worked there as a Dispatcher for 12 years. He retired in March 1978 still living in the old homestead in Corunna.

Three children were born to them, Brenda Kay, Roger D., and Janice D. They with their families are all living in Corunna, all active in church work, helping one another. There are seven grand children and one great-great grandchild. Archie is 96, doing fairly well, living with Paul and Mary.

Samuel and Caroline Olds

SAMUEL N. AND CAROLINE (ROBINSON) OLDS, were both in Franklin County, Vermont, on 24 June 1818 and 1 February 1826 respectively. Their 1866 arrival in DeKalb County, from Ft. Wayne, followed Samuel's purchase of the old Dawson General Store on Spencerville's South Main Street and a home adjacent thereto. Their five living children, of eight born up to that time, were George 20, Mary 18, Mort 9, Lena 6, and Will 2. Nellie and Arthur were yet to be born, in Spencerville, in 1868 and 1871 respectively.

The move to Spencerville was the last of many moves that Samuel and Caroline had made following their upbringing in Vermont. Samuel first left there as a 20 year old bachelor in 1838 to migrate to Fort Wayne and learn the hatmaking trade from his brother-in-law Henry Sharp. He returned to Vermont by 1844 to marry Caroline and remained 11 years, in St. Albans, to make hats and caps and start his family. In 1855 he returned to Ft. Wayne, this time with a family, and for the next 11 years was engaged in his hatters trade in that city, except for a few years, 1859-1861, in Allen County's Eel River Township where he farmed.

After moving to Spencerville in 1866, Samuel prospered in his new retail venture there and three of his four sons later followed his lead by having their own retail operations for varying periods of time. Samuel sold his store and retired in 1883 and in 1890, with all children out of the household, Samuel and Caroline moved to the nearby Saint Joe where they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary; four years later and where Samuel had died in 1899. Caroline spent her remaining years staying in the homes of her children.

The youngest son, Arthur, was an Auburn Variety Store partner with his brother Will by the early 1890's and in 1905 became a LaGrange area farmer as Will had become about four years earlier. Their oldest brother George had also become a farmer, in southwest Minnesota, but had died young in 1882, survived by a wife and two children. The other brother, Mort, was a merchant and newspaper publisher in Saint Joe until about 1902 when he became a retailing partner to his sister Nellie Bishop's husband, John, in Bluffton; this partnership lasted until 1912 when Mort moved to Clinton, Michigan to where John continued in retailing until his death in 1926, after which his wife Nellie returned to Bluffton. The eldest Olds daughter, Mary, married farmer John Dills and lived near Saint Joe for many years before they retired to Hicksville, Ohio; her younger sister, Lena (Mrs. Will) McClaran, a railroader's wife, lived in Argos and Frankfort, Indiana, then Fostoria and Lima, Ohio.

Arthur B. Olds Family

ARTHUR B. OLDS, born 26 August 1871 in Spencerville, son of Vermont-born Samuel N. and Caroline (Robinson) Olds; Samuel was a retail merchant in Spencerville from 1866 until retirement in 1883. Arthur's wife-to-be, Rose Wildred Kline, born 29 January 1874 near Corunna and was the only child of a short-lived marriage between J. Frank Kline and Arminnie Britton who were both born in DeKalb County and grew up on farms near Corunna; Wildred was raised by her maternal grandparents, Lewis D. and Martha (McCague) Britton on their farm, southeast of Corunna and west of where Martha's parents, James and Elizabeth McCague had settled in 1848. Wildred's paternal grandparents, Michael and Anna (Summers) Kline, and great grandparents, John and Elizabeth Summers, all of whom were early Auburn area settlers.

Both Arthur Olds and Wildred Kline were relocated in Auburn by the early 1890's. By the time they met, about 1894, Arthur had joined his brother Will in a variety store venture north of the courthouse on Seventh St. and Wildred was a recent Auburn High School graduate, class of 1893, and courthouse clerical employee. They married, 30 April 1895 at 711 N. Jackson St., which had been the home of Wildred and her widowed maternal grandmother, Martha Britton, since their early 1890 move from Richland Township a house next door, where they remained for the next ten years; in this house were born the couple's first five children, Ruth in April 1896, died, February 1901, George, born August 1897, Esther, born January 1900, Frank, born July 1902, and Herbert, born March 1904. The births of two more children, Charlie in December 1909 and Mary in May 1912, occurred after the family's move to a LaGrange County farm in the summer of 1905; only Charlie and Mary survive today.

By 1900, Arthur was the sole proprietor of the Olds Variety Store in Auburn, but in the summer of 1905 an illness caused him to sell it and move with his family to an uncle's farm a mile east of LaGrange, Indiana., then farmed by his brother Will. After a year of recuperating, Arthur bought an adjacent farm and was thereafter a farmer at that location. Only a daughter Esther would again live in DeKalb County, teaching grade school in Auburn from January 1926 until June 1938; her 1937 marriage to farmer Fred Forst of near Stroh, however, returned her to LaGrange County where her brothers all farmed and where her divorced sister Mary Anderson, like Esther. Arthur and Wildred lived to witness their 60th wedding anniversary, 15 days before Arthur's death on 15 May 1955. Wildred died on 23 March 1967.

FRANK BRITTON OLDS, born in Auburn, 7 July 1902, son of Arthur and Wildred (Kline) Olds. Although he would spend only the first three years of his life in DeKalb County, his heritage here is noteworthy. Ten of his ancestors, bearing the surnames Olds, Kline, Britton, Summers, and McCague, arrived in DeKalb County between 1841 and 1866 and his parents and maternal grandparents were born and raised in the county. During the latter half of the 1800's and until as late as 1908 they were to be found in Richland Township, in Auburn, and in the Spencerville/Saint Joe area.

Frank Olds' childhood move from DeKalb County occurred in 1905 when his Auburn merchant father, Arthur, became ill and was moved with his wife Wildred and their four surviving children to the farm home of his childless brother Will and wife Bertha a mile east of LaGrange. After recuperating for a year, Arthur bought an adjacent farm and from then on was a full-fledged farmer. Frank and his three brothers also eventually became LaGrange area farmers, each raising registered Jersey dairy cattle. In 1928, Frank bought his uncle Will's farm, which Will, who then moved to Hicksville, Ohio, had inherited from his and Arthur's childless uncle, George P. Robinson.

Frank Olds married 26 November 1931 to 25 years old LaGrange grade school teacher, Gail Stephens, born and raised in Banquo in Huntington Co., Indiana. Their union produced two sons, James W., born in 1936 and Richard A., born in 1938. Frank died of Lou Gerig Disease, 25 September 1956, by which his son Jim had assumed the operation of the family farm which is both owned and farmed by him today. The other son, Dick, pursued an accounting career and has been employed by Upjohn Company of Kalamazoo, Michigan. since his 1966 graduation from Western Michigan University. He was previously employed by the Kroger Company in LaGrange and United Air Lines in Chicago and also spent two years in the U.S. Army, stationed most of that time at Ft. Huachuca, Arizona.

Frank's widow, Gail, lives across the road from her former home, which has been occupied by son Jim since his 1961 marriage to Rochelle Harris of LaOtto; that household also now includes their two children. Casey, born 1969, and Jamelle, born 1971. Jim's brother, Dick, married in 1973 to Nancy Oswalt, a native of River Forest, Illinois. They live in Kalamazoo, Michigan. and have daughters Becky, born 1975 and Carrie born 1977.

Michael and Anna Kline

MICHAEL KLINE, born 23 May 1822 in Perry County, Pennsylvania, son of John and Sophia (Frownfelt) Kline. When he was only 6 months old, his family moved to Mansfield, Ohio and then later to neighboring Crawford County, New Washington area, where Michael grew to manhood and learned the carpentry trade from his father. Michael married Mary Wallace in December 1844 and moved to Auburn in January 1850 with her and their two daughters. Mary died in the following month as did one of the daughters. Michael and the other daughter, Sophia, remained in Auburn until 1855, during which time Michael married widow Anna (Summers) Brown and they had their first two children.

Anna Kline, born Anna Maria Summers in Lancaster Co., Pennsylvania daughter of John and Elizabeth (Smith) Summers. After living in Shelby County, Ohio for most of the 1830's, her family moved to a farm on the southeast outskirts of Auburn in August 1841 when Anna was 13. Anna married Henry Brown in September of 1846 but he died the following year so she was a widow for the next five years until marrying Michael Kline, 16 February 1851.

Michael and Anna Kline lived in Auburn until 1855 when they purchased 160 acres of land in Richland Township near Corunna. Here Michael built a brick house and other buildings and took up farming for the next 18 years. Here also were born four additional children, three of them to die there in young childhood. Michael and Anna remained on the farm until 1873, probably then passing it on to their only surviving son, John

Franklin, who married in February of that year. The senior Klines, Methodist and Republican, then returned to Auburn, where Michael again took up his earlier carpentry vocation and possibly built the home where he and Anna would spend the rest of their lives; that home currently bears a 610 N. Main Street address and is at the southeast corner of Main and North. Michael died 16 July 1904 and Anna died 15 September 1908; both are buried in Evergreen Cemetery in Auburn

The Michael and Anna Kline children to survive childhood were John Franklin, Mary and Etta. J. Frank, 1852-1903, his only child by his short-lived marriage to Arminnie Britton in the early 1870's would become Wildred Kline Olds, 1874-1967. Mary, 1855-1905, married Amos Miller in 1880 and lived in Auburn and Hicksville, Ohio; they had children Nina, who became Mrs. Tracy Little of Garrett, and Owen. Etta Kline, 1865-1930, married Frank Fluke of near Auburn and they had sons Phillip and George. Several descendants of Mary (Kline) Miller and Etta (Kline) Fluke live in DeKalb County.

John and Minnie Kline

JOHN FRANKLIN "FRANK" KLINE, born 3 March 1852 in Auburn, Indiana, son of Michael and Anna (Summers) Kline. At age 3, he moved with his parents to a farm southwest of Corunna where he would grow to manhood and meet his bride-to-be, Arminnie Britton. "Minnie" Britton, daughter of Lewis D. and Martha (McCague) Britton who settled on a farm, southeast of Corunna in September 1850; Minnie, born 2 August 1854 and resided there until her marriage to Frank Kline, 6 March 1873.

Although the marriage of Frank and Minnie Kline lasted only four years, a divorce sought by Minnie was granted 10 February 1877, their only child, Rose Wildred Kline, born 29 January 1874 near Corunna, would survive her father's court-ordered estrangement from her and her mother and grow up a reasonably happy child under the loving care of her maternal grandparents, the L.D. Brittons.

Perhaps a year before he was divorced by wife Minnie, Frank Kline returned to his town of birth, Auburn, where his parents had also moved back to in 1873. Here Frank apprenticed as a newspaper pressman, his occupation thereafter, for about two years before leaving for Butte, Montana, where he would work for the Butte Miner newspaper for the next seven years. A few years after returning to Auburn about 1885, Frank married Florence Pipes in November 1889. From 1890 to 1895, they were Michigan residents, before settling down in Angola, Indiana where Frank worked for the Steuben Republican and where he died on 21 December 1903. They only child born to Frank and Florence, a son Wayne, died in infancy in 1894.

Minnie (Britton) Kline also remarried, in April 1883, to Marion Franks, 1854-1922; Marion, like Minnie's first husband, had been a childhood friend and neighbor in the Corunna area. After their marriage, Minnie moved to Marion's farm east of Kendallville where they had three children, Mae, 1884-1970; John, 1886-1982; and Carl, 1888-1975. Following Marion's death, Minnie moved into Kendallville and built a house on Mitchell St. where she would remain until her death at age 91, 2 December 1945.

JOHN SUMMERS, born 8 April 1795 in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, son of George and Elizabeth (Dotts) Summers; he moved with his parents and siblings to Chester County, before 1814 when he married Miss Elizabeth Smith, 22 February 1814. Elizabeth was born in Chester County on 23 October 1797.

John and Elizabeth Summers moved to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania by 1882 where their first five children were born and in the early 1830's moved west to Shelby County , Ohio where their last three children were born. In August of 1841, the entire family moved to DeKalb County where they settled on the southeast outskirts of Auburn in Union Township where John continued his farming vocation. John and Elizabeth remained there for the rest if their lives which ended 5 July 1873 and 18 July 1879 respectively. It is believed that one of the oldest frame houses still standing in the Auburn area, was the last home John and Elizabeth built and occupied on their farm property. They were charter members of the Auburn Presbyterian church per John's obituary.

The John and Elizabeth Summers children were Jacob, 1822-1902, who never married and was a farmer near Auburn all his adult life; Margaret, 1824-1906, who married Abram D. Goetchius and with their nine sons moved to Montana in the 1870's; Eliza 1827-1891 who married farmer Lyman Chidsey and raised a daughter Auriila who married John Ashleman; Anna, 1828-1908, who married Michael Kline ; Mary Jane, 1830-1901, who married farmer James McClellan and lived south of Auburn and raised three children to adulthood; Rebecca, 1832-1901, who married a Harrison Jones and had several children in the Auburn area; John Clelan, 1834-1909, who married and went west at an early date and ended up a building contractor in Pueblo, Colorado; and James F., 1836-1857, who was killed in the erection of a barn on his father's farm.

JAMES MC CAGUE AND ELIZABETH (ENGLISH) MC CAGUE, were born in Pennsylvania on 21 October 1795 and 6 May 1795 respectively. James was of Scotch-Irish heritage, his Presbyterian parents, James Sr. and Jeanette (Cochrain) McCague having been born in Ireland and Scotland and probably arriving in this country in the mid-1780's.

James and Elizabeth McCague were married, 26 May 1818, possibly in Washington County, Pennsylvania, where all of their eight children were allegedly born. James was allegedly a blacksmith in those days before becoming a farmer later in life. The family moved to Holmes County, Ohio by 1840 and several of the children married there. The parents and several of the children moved to DeKalb County in 1848. where the parents bought farmland just south of the town of Sedan in Richland Township. Here the parents lived until their deaths, 15 December 1879 and 5 August 1880 respectively.

The James and Elizabeth McCague children all ended up in DeKalb County except possibly daughter Margaret and all married and had at least one child each. The children were Samuel, 1819-1852, whose only child J.P.McCague, would become a lumber dealer in Waterloo; Jane, 1821-1893, who married sometime minister James Barton before moving from Holmes, County, Ohio to Richland Township in 1849; Martha, 1822-1904, who married Lewis Britton; George, 1824-1899, who married before arriving in DeKalb County in the 1840's; James Jr., 1826-1862, who married in DeKalb County after 1850; Margaret, 1828-1862, who married George Cameron in Ohio and possibly remained there; John, 1831-1898, who married and farmed the old McCague homestead near Sedan; and Mary Ann, 1833-1884, who married Nelson Chaney and also lived south of Sedan.

Lewis D. and Martha Britton

LEWIS DUWERT BRITTON, born 8 October 1820 in Lycoming County, Pennsylvania, son of Amos Britton, Sr. and Elizabeth (Cosper) Britton. When Lewis was 2 years old, the family moved to Wayne County, Ohio, then south to neighboring Holmes County, Ohio, in the 1830's where both of the parents died in the 1850's.

Martha (McCague) Britton, born 6 December 1822 in Washington County, Pennsylvania, daughter of James and Elizabeth (English) McCague. The McCague family moved from Pennsylvania to Holmes County, Ohio in the 1830's and in 1848 the parents and several of the children moved to DeKalb County, the parents settling in Richland Township just south of Sedan. Martha married Lewis Britton 15 June 1843, in Holmes County, Ohio and they remained in that county for seven more years.

Lewis and Martha Britton migrated to DeKalb County, Richland Township in September 1850 with their two surviving daughters, another daughter had died earlier that year and settled on a farm southeast of Corunna. Here they remained to farm and raise their family that increased to four daughters and one son who survived childhood. Lewis also taught school some and was elected to the state legislature in 1868 and 1870 on the Democrat ticket. Although both Lewis and Martha were raised as Presbyterians, they joined the Corunna United Brethren Church in 1870 and Lewis was a superintendent there for 17 years. Lewis, died 29 October 1889 at his farm home and Martha then moved the following year to Auburn, with a grand-daughter Wildred Kline whom she and Lewis had raised, and lived there until near the time of her death, 29 November 1904, at daughter Minnie's home near Kendallville. Both Lewis and Martha are buried in the cemetery south of Corunna.

The Britton children to survive childhood were Elizabeth, Frank, Annette, Arminnie, and Rose Ellen, all of whom married and had three or more children each. His father was a locksmith by trade, but he later entered the mercantile business, and continued in that the remainder of his life. His father served in the revolution of 1848 in Germany under General Seagil, and was forced to leave the country on this account. Five children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerner.

Karl Gerner was educated in the public schools of Pittsburgh, and he continued his education in Meadville, Pennsylvania. He moved to Boston where he completed a law course. Feeling that the West offered the best field for the practice of his profession he moved to Storm Lake, Iowa, where he continued practicing law for four years. Later he went to South Dakota and entered a government claim at Iroquois. He continued his law practice in South Dakota for fourteen years, and was elected a member of the South Dakota Legislature upon the admission of that state to the Union.

He was one of the founders of the Iroquois Chief in South Dakota, and continued that paper until he moved to Indiana in 1896. Paul and Gwendolyn Ankney

PAUL HUBERT ANKNEY, has been a resident of DeKalb County for over 70 years, moving to Auburn with his sister, Ethel, in 1915 to live with his grandparents after his mother's death.

Paul was born 12 June 1908, in Grand Rapids, Michigan , the son of Lewis Benjamin and Maud Mae (Likens) Ankney, both of DeKalb County, Indiana. His paternal grandparents were Isiah and Mary (Koble) Ankney of Paulding, Ohio; his maternal grandparents were George and Mary Jane (Antrup) Likens of Auburn.

From ages 7 to 14, Paul lived with his grandparents, George and Mary Jane. While attending high school, he lived with Paul and Martha Smith of Waterloo. In 1934, he attended Indiana Central College and, while living in Indianapolis, he met and married Mary Frances James on 1 January 1935. She was the daughter of Orville and Marie Thuneman James. Paul taught school after graduation from college and eventually moved back to DeKalb County to live on the farm he presently owns in Smithfield Township. He has taught at the following schools: Northside, in Fort Wayne. Corunna, Orland, Pleasant Lake, Butler and Shipshewana.

Three sons were born to Paul and Mary Frances. Don Ankney, born 11 November 1939, lives in Fort Myers Florida; Paul H. Ankney II, or "Skip", born 1 July 1941, lives in Portland, Oregon; James W. Ankney, born 19 June 1944, lives on the family farm in DeKalb County. On 28 October 1966 Mary Frances died as a result of injuries suffered in a traffic accident in Ohio. Paul remarried on 9 June 1973 to Gwendolyn Moore of Auburn. Paul's step daughter, Pamela Weimer, and stepson, Rick Moore, also live in DeKalb County.

Mr. Ankney can trace his family back to the 17th century on both his father's side and his mother's side of the family. Paul's great-great-great-great grandfather Ankney came to America in 1746 aboard the ship Neptune. The family was French Hugenot, but had fled to Germany in 1670 to escape persecution. The first Ankney in America, along with his two sons, fought in the Revolutionary War. After the War, the family settled in Sommerset County in Pennsylvania, and the town of Somerset still has a section of town called Ankney Square. One of the grandsons moved to Iowa and founded the town of Ankney, Iowa. Paul's branch of the family moved to Tuscarawas County, Ohio, and later to Paulding, Ohio.

On his mother's side of the family, Paul can trace the Likens family back to the late 1600's when Rev. Matthew and Catherine Likens came to Pennsylvania from Germany. One unusual aspect of the Likens family is that several of its members lived to be over 100 years old. The family tree included several ministers.

Paul has been an active member of the Waterloo Methodist Church since the time of its merger with the United Brethren Church, which he had attended since he was a young boy. He has also been an active member of the following clubs and organizations; Lions Club, Masonic Lodge, Eastern Star, Scottish Rite, Shriners, and DeKalb County Historical Society.

Julia G'Nell Seely, born 30 July 1922 at Detroit, Michigan, daughter of John Amzi and Alta (Swanger) Seely. Her paternal grandparents were William and Ellen (Stager) Seely of Newville, Indiana. Her maternal grandparents were William Sanford and Mellie (Arnold) Swanger of Wayne County, Ohio. Julia G'Nell has one brother, J. Kent Seely of Orrville, Ohio.

Homer and Julia married 30 July 1944, in the Church of Christ in Auburn. They moved to the John Carper farm in the near N.E. corner of Jackson Township, in September of 1944. A son, George Allen Abel, born 19 October 1945 to them, in Auburn, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel were dairy and crop farmers. Homer was the sexton of Roselawn Cemetery, Auburn, which was platted by his father in 1918. The preference of outside work, the repairing of machinery on the farm and the need for lumber were the beginning of a business.

In 1948, Homer purchased a one-man Belsaw sawmill. The first logs sawed were apple tree bodies from the Leichty Orchard, North of St. Joe, Indiana. Farming was changing to larger more expensive equipment and the decision was made to rent the farm ground out. Homer worked at carpentry, building farm fences and with a ditching crew, as well as custom sawmilling.

In September of 1961, George Abel was injured in an accident at the sawmill, breaking his left leg above the ankle. Nevertheless, this did not discourage them from continuing the business.

Homer bid successfully on shipping skids at the Dana Corp. in Auburn in 1962. The result was Abel's Sawmill which grew into a successful pallet and sawmilling business. Homer was a fair and honest business man and gave the credit to the Lord.

George worked with his father in the business and together they sawed the framing for a new sawmill building equipped with steam equipment moved from Hoagland, Indiana in 1968. On 1 August 1968 the first boards were sawed with steam power. In March on 1969 this adventure with steam ended with total loss in a fire. During the summer of 1969 another sawmill was bought from the Shoudel's, south of Auburn. By this time the business had 5 full-time employees and was shipping over 1200 pallets a week. Building materials were still being sawed, one example is the shelterhouse building at the First Christian Church. Homer lost his life in a sawmill accident on 20 January 1977.

The Brumbachs are descendants of a line that gradually assumed the name of their farm "in der Brombach" near Muesen, Westphalia, Germany, in the 16th century. Muesen was in an ancient mining and metal working area where the family continued to reside and where Johannes, son of Christophel and Maria Elisabeth (Helman) Brymbach was born in 1711. He married in 1733, Anna Julianna, daughter of George and Anna Maria (Waffenschmidt) Kemper. To them were born Johannes Maria Elisabetha, Johann Henrich and Anna Magdalena. Johannes Sr. died in 1744 and in 1750 Anna Julianna migrated to Lancaster County, Pennsylvania with her children, settling near one of her half brothers, Henry Kemper.

There Johannes married and had one child, a girl and died shortly after. Anna moved to the south fork of Shendoah River near Luray, Virginia, where she and her family members were of Mennonite Faith. Here Maria Elisabetha married Jacob Heistand and as a widow moved just after 1800 to Fairfield County, Ohio with a religious group, primarily ex-Mennonites.

Johann Henrich married Ann, daughter of Martin and Barbara (Stauffer) Kauffman in 1761 and by her had 7 children while living near Luray, Virginia. After her death in 1778 he married in 1779, Anna Catherine, daughter of Jacob and Nancy (Kauffman) Strickler, by whom he had 8 more offspring and died in 1799 on his farm near Harrisonburg, Virginia, where Anna Catherine died in 1817.

The 12th child, Daniel, born in 1789, received an early Ohio land grant in Fairfield County and in 1816 married Sarah Culp. In 1818 he bought 220 acres in Ripley Township on the Huron-Richland County Line north of Shiloh.

They were parents of David C., 1817, daughter Maria, Henry B., 1821, Jesse M., 1823, Rebecca L., 1826 Asa M., 1827, Daniel M., 1831. Daniel Sr. died in 1838 and Sarah in 1845 and both are buried in Pioneer Rest Cemetery in Plymouth. Over 100 acres of the original property remained in the family until the 1950's.

David married Matilda Hines, born in New York State in 1844 and their offspring were Daniel David, 1845, Asa Freidus, 1846, twins Edward Sherman and Edwin Austin, 1849, Legrand M. 1852, infant 1854, Charles C., 1856, and Oliva I., 1859. David died in a fire which destroyed their home in 1861 and Matilda in 1903 with both buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery in Shiloh.

Edward Sherman married in 1878, Carrie, daughter of Andrew and Mary Truxell. Children were Inez, 1879, Earl M., 1881, Cora died young, 1883, Alto Blaine, 1884. The journey was difficult due to the condition of the roads. It took them almost six weeks to make the trip.

Jeremiah was a mail contractor and with his sons Marvin and Mason he delivered the U.S. Mail by horseback in the counties of Northern Indiana, Western Ohio and as far north as White Pigeon, Michigan. Marvin and Mason were also employed in the building of the Erie Canal which started in 1832.

The older three children were born in the Los Angeles, California area. Roxann, was born in Wyandotte, Michigan and Randall in Syracuse, New York. Other places the family lived include Denver, Colorado, Moorestown, New Jersey and St. Louis, Missouri.

Many hours were spent studying all available information on the new area into which the family was moving in order to help the children accept the upcoming changes. For the most part they anticipated the new experience although it was difficult to leave their friends and classmates. They were enrolled in the Catholic parochial schools as much as possible which was a big help. Now that they are grown, it is not hard for them to make a change or to travel when their employment demands.

During Robert's lifetime he helped with the invention and development and production of the Cherry rivet, which was used extensively in the manufacture of airplanes. It was the first of its' kind to be out in place with a gun. He also worked on the Titan, the first Missile in space.

JOHN HOFFELDER, born in 1843 in south Bavaria, Germany, son of Francis Charles Hoffelder and wife. He was reared in his native land and received a good, practical education in the school of the locality, remaining home until 1870. In the meantime, he had followed the vocation of a farmer and also learned the trade of a weaver, raising flax and hemp in summer and spinning and weaving it into cloth in the winter.

In the summer of 1870, Mr. Hoffelder came to America and reached Castle Garden in New York harbor on 7 August 1870. In November of that year he moved to Smithfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, coming directly to the German settlement.

Mr. Hoffelder married Frances Miller 27 January 1873, who was born in Chicago, Illinois, daughter of Francis Antone and Magdalene (Schmidt) Miller. Her parents were natives of Germany who came to America and settled in Smithfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, where they spent the remainder of their lives. To Mr. and Mrs. Hoffelder were born nine children: Francis Charles, 1874; Catharina, 1875; John, 1978; Maria Magdalina, 1880; Frances, 1882; Maria Anna, 1884; Peter, 1887; Agnes, 1890; and Catharina, 1892.

Mrs. Hoffelder, died 29 January 1895, after twenty-two years of married life.

In October of 1878, John Hoffelder purchased one hundred twenty acres east of the present St. Michael's Church. He erected a comfortable and attractive residence, a commodious and well-arranged barn, while the big yard surrounding their home was set out with beautiful shade trees and shrubbery which added greatly to the attractiveness and value of the place. In the spring of 1912, John Hoffelder planted six thousand nursery forest trees of various kinds. The following summer was extremely dry and many of these trees were lost. However, three thousand four hundred more were planted in the spring of 1914, altogether covering about six acres of land.

Politically, Mr. Hoffelder was a life-long Democrat, and in 1888 he was elected a member of the board of county commissioners. He was re-elected to this office, thus serving six years. While serving his two terms, he and his fellow commissioners were responsible for revolutionzing the methods of doing business. They insisted on expert advice and exact and complete specifications, competition on bids and inspection of the work being done, which would be approved before being paid for. All these things tended to not only secure a better quality of work, but also saved the county many thousands of dollars. For this work alone Mr. Hoffelder deserved the everlasting regard and commendation of his fellow citizens. Three new iron bridges were erected during this time.

John Hoffelder died at the age of 86 in 1929. He was a man of unquestionable integrity and unblemished honor and he did nothing which would lower himself in his own esteem or that of others.

Charles Peter Falka, better known as Peter Falka, was in big demand in Auburn for paint and varnish jobs. He and his wife had two children, Weir and Martha, but neither ever married. Martha had a popcorn stand on the downtown streets of Auburn for many years, and was still there until she moved the stand to West 9th Street.

George W. Anstett (1833-1877), married Mary Jane (1844-1913), daughter of Wm. H. and Ursula Jane (Haskins) Wilsey, and most of their several children settled in Steuben County, Indiana.

John Anstett (1835-1908), married Joanna Elizabeth Catherine Putt (1844-1922). They were farmers in Smithfield Township in DeKalb County, and raised three children, John George, Sarah Ann and Charles Sherman Anstett.

Susan Anstett (1837-1919), married the widower Chauncey Ringler (1822-1887) in 1855 and they had twelve children, raising to adulthood John, Caroline, Adeline, Mary E., George, Chauncey, Susan and Nellie. They family lived in Fairfield township, DeKalb County.

Elizabeth Anstett, born 1838, married in DeKalb County, John Peter Parr (1826-1902) in 1857, and she died a year or two later, apparently without issue.

Caroline Anstett (1844-1876), married David Irish. After her death, Mr. Irish after marrying Mary Deats in Steuben County, Indiana, took his four little daughters to Becker County, Minnesota.

Harriet Anstett (1846-1940) married Levi Putt (1840-1914), son of George and Sarah Ann (Gettz) Putt, and lived on a farm in Fairfield Township, and had five children, with descendants still living in DeKalb County.

Ringler Farm

SPENCER RINGLER, (1880-1954), was the son of Israel (1849-1896) and Louisa (1859-1942) Ringler, daughter of Adam and Maria (Long) Deetz. Spencer's grandfather, Chauncey Ringler came to Fairfield Township in 1849 and by 1880 had acquired 160 acres and across the road in Salem Township, Steuben County, an additional 20 acres. Chauncey was the son of Henry and Martha (Keller) Ringler of Somerset County, Pennsylvania, and both Henry's father, Jacob, and grandfather, John Ringler, served in the Revolutionary War from York County Pennsylvania. John's father, Matthias Ringer (not then Ringler), appears on Bonfield (now Bad Rappenau) church records, as the son of Wolfgang Ringer, a citizen of Rappenau, and that he married on 27 June 1717, Maria Magdalena, daughter of Heinrich Nischicker, and widow of John Jacob Schneid (er), and they emigrated in 1717. On 20 November 1717/18, Matthias was warranted 500 acres of land on the west side of the Schuykill River. They were active members of the New Hanover Lutheran Church, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and are buried in the church yard. Matthias died 8 March 1749, age 56, and Magdalena on 6 April 1764, age 74.

Spencer's paternal grandparents, Chauncey (1822-1887) and Elizabeth (Almendinger) (1822-1854) Ringer were married 1845 in Holmes County, Ohio and were the parents of four children. In 1885, Chauncey married second Susanna Anstett (1832-1919), and they were the parents of twelve children. When Chauncey died, his son Israel took over the farm and raised their children -Spencer and Etta. Spencer married Dessa (1885-1968), daughter of George and Etta (Gonser) Clink, and they remodeled and made additions to the original Ringler house, making it one of the most modern homes in rural DeKalb County. They installed their own electric plant, hot water heating system, and a bathroom about 1915, luxuries only common to city folk. By hard work and good management, the land became more productive; the fence rows and back 40 acres bordering Story Lake were aggressively attacked with hoes to keep them thistle and burdock free. On the big barn was painted Never Idle Farm.

Spencer, better known as Spen, and his wife are buried in the Fairfield Ceme[illegible] as were his parents before them. His Ringler grandparents are buried in the County Line Cemetery which is a couple miles east of the homestead. Spen and Dessie had no children, but always took a lively interest in Bertha and Floyd, the children of his sister Etta's marriage to Minor Perkins. Mr. Perkins helped establish a bank in Stroh, Indiana, and their descendants are active in the banking business to this day.

The compiler is a great granddaughter of Chauncey and Susanna (Anstett) Ringler, through their son, Chauncey Jr. (1871-1940) and his wife, Flora Parr (1878-1961), and then through their daughter Berniece Ringler who married Charles Rowe of Hudson, Indiana. The latter couple had four children, namely Wava, Charletta, Ruth and Larry. The compiler, Wava, married Richard A. White, and in the 1940's they lived on the Ringler homestead making her the last Ringler descendant to occupy the old family place.

WAVA J. ROWE, born 14 August 1923 in Hudson, Indiana to Charles E. and Berniece (Ringler) Rowe. Wava was married to Richard A.

White on 1 June 1941. He was employed by her mother's cousin, Spencer Ringler, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County. Richard was born 24 February 1918, in Flint, Indiana, the son of Roscoe and Blanche (Wigent) White. When Spencer retired about 1945, Wava and Richard lived for a time on the Ringler farm. It was here that their home was blessed with two sons, Jack Ferrier Foster, and Max Douglas, born 1945, adopted. Jack is single and lived in Coldwater, Michigan. Max married Diana Majewski and they live in West Palm Beach, Florida. They have three sons, Jacob, Shawn and Joshua.

The Rowes who came to Fairfield Township in the early days, were children and grandchildren of George Row (1774-1848) who died in Holmes County, Ohio. Shortly before he died, his oldest son, John, who was married to Elizabeth Raush died, and it appears that this John, earlier the same year 1848, had been granted land in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County. The eldest son, Christian, was a grantee in 1852, and in turn granted to his mother Elizabeth in 1853. She brought the rest of the family to Fairfield Township, where she died in 1882, and is buried in Fairfield Cemetery.

Jacob Row (1802-1873), son of the Holmes County, Ohio pioneer, George Row, was granted land in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana on 21 November 1848, by Peter Row — presumably the Peter Row that was his brother and the husband of Mary Deetz. This Jacob Row had married Magdalene Guttery/Guthrey on 26 December 1830, in Holmes County, Ohio, and most of their large family of children were born in Ohio. Jacob is buried in the Fairfield Cemetery.

Another son of the Holmes County pioneer who came to Fairfield Township was Samuel Row and his wife Elizabeth Olinger. They were married in Holmes County in 1833, and in the 1840 census were living in Coshocton County, Ohio, and in the 1850 census in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. They also had a large family of children.

While George S. Row (1800-1865), son of the Holmes County, pioneer, George Row, stayed in Holmes County, two of his sons came to northeastern Indiana: John Frederick Row (1826-1887), married in Holmes County his first wife, Mary Margaret Roush in 1847. After her death married Mary Bickle in 1869, in DeKalb County, Indiana. They lived for a short while in Fairfield Township, after she died in 1874, apparently it was about this time that John Frederick moved to Garrett, where he lived out the rest of his days with his third wife, Mrs. Eleanor (Butler) High. John Frederick (usually known as Fred) had a large family of children by his first two wives.

John Frederick's brother, John Adam Row (1839-1917), was never known to live in DeKalb County, Indiana, but spent the last 17 years of his life across the county line in Hudson, Salem Township, Steuben County, Indiana. However, they frequently visited the Fairfield Township kin. John Adam had married Mary Lidy in 1859, Holmes County, Ohio. Both he and John Frederick lived several years in Monroeville, Indiana, and it was there they enrolled in the Civil War. John Adam had only one son who had children to carry on the Row name. He was George Wesley Rowe (1874-1923), who married Nancy Alberta Lowe of St. Joseph Township, Allen County, Indiana and they moved to Hudson, Indiana about 1905. Their children were Glenna, John, Charles, Georgia, Hazel and Dorothy.

His paternal grandfather was a blacksmith and did the horseshoeing and blacksmith work for the neighborhood. His grandmother raised onions of their 20 acre farm. His maternal grandfather George H. Abel, was founder and caretaker of Roselawn Cemetery. His maternal grandmother was Alda Viola Shafer of near Spencerville.

George's father was engaged in farming from 1916 to 1922, in the Butler, Indiana area. They family moved to Auburn and resided at 718 North Cedar Street. His father ran a John Deere implement store on south Main Street, just south of where the Moose Lodge is now.

George's recollection of his early days in Auburn go back to 1925. He remembers John Muhn watering the dusty, dirt streets of Auburn with a horse drawn tanker, and all of the kids following barefooted, not only did they get wet but also feet and legs got muddy. The interurban tracks went down the middle of Cedar Street. There was a dump, where a present Little League ballpark is, behind the house and it had old abandoned cars that we used to play in, sure had a lot of fun. Used to bathe in Cedar Creek, could not swim then, only dog paddle. The Murray family lived on Main Street, and the lot went clear to Cedar Street and they had a beautiful yard with a pond. The pond contained fish in summer and in the winter the kids who had ice skates skated on it. Remember when the Moose Lodge had a picnic at the Silvermoon Dance Hall north of Auburn. Remember the silent pictures at the Court Theater, the woman playing the piano before the show and during the picture to highlight certain things? Also, remember the twinkling stars in the ceiling? My sisters told me about this before we got there and that is the first thing that I did was look up. The Klu Klux Klan held their meetings above the implement store.

The Mansfield family moved to Garrett, in the fall of 1928, and lived at 517 E. King Street. George attended St. Joseph's School graduating in 1939. As there were no factory jobs available, he worked on farms until the fall of 1940, when he went to Toledo, Ohio and obtained a job as Multilith operator printing the luncheon and dinner menus, complete change of daily entrees daily. In 1941, he went to work for the B & O Railroad at Willard, Ohio as secretary to Dr. Glenn Edwards, the Medical Examiner. He then got his first train ride, this job required about 3500 miles of train travel a month. In the fall of 1942, he started to work for E.H. Barnhart the Division of Engineer at Garrett, Indiana. George left the railroad in the fall of 1943, and went to work for Studebaker aviation in Fort Wayne. After the war he worked for IHC and Capehart Farnsworth in Fort Wayne, and as things slowed down after the war he then went to work pumping gas for Keith Kratzer, and bartending for John's Tavern.

In 1947, George and Rosie E. Thompson of Butler, were married and they were the parents of seven children: Jerry E., George J., William, James, Joseph, Diane and Denise. Rosie's parents were George N. and Frances (Hilbert) Thompson.

George started to work to Dana Corporation, Auburn, (Auburn Clutch) in 1951. George started to work in the receiving Department for $40 per week and during his tenure held various positions with Dana. George retired in 1979, and held the position of Facility Engineer.

BUFORD CARLISLE AND MARGUERITE ALEANE (DIRR) SMITH, Buford was born February 23, 1914 at 407 South Walsh Street in Garrett and was the third child of Carl Arlington and Dora Ethel (Barrone) Smith. Carl had come from a Tiffin, Ohio farm and he hired out on the B & O Railroad in 1904 in Garrett. Dora Ethel came to Garrett in 1900 from Wisconsin to reside with an aunt and uncle, Violet and Tony Burke, and assist with their Rooming and Boarding House. Other children born to Carl and Ethel were Dorothy, Eunice, Phyllis, Delmer and Cleo.

The town of Garrett, Indiana and its thriving young railroad industry attracted many young men from the farmlands of Ohio, among those men was James John Dirr, who with his wife, Clara (Waterbeck) Dirr and infant daughter, Grace, arrived in 1902 to settle in Garrett. Little did they realize the hardships that railroad employment could bring — with long hours on coal fired engines and separation for many days from the family. To supplement the often low oncome, Clara took in washings and ironings.

Buford and Marquerite Smith

The following 17 years there were five more children added to household who were Amelia, Pauline, Barbara, James and last on 26 November 1919, Marguerite Aleane was born in the family home at 112 South Guilford Street where she resided until her marriage in 1940.

Marguerite grew up in the era of Saturday nite band concerts and when a trip to the ice cream parlor was an eagerly anticipated event. Also, in her recollection were the many hoboes and tramps who were fed at their home — sometimes a plate of food to be eaten on the back porch and occasionally at the kitchen table. The rag-man always has a few pennies in exchange for old newspapers. There was no radio nor television to warn people to beware of strangers. It was a time of trust.

A graduate of Garrett High School and Tri State College, Marguerite later assisted her father at Dirr's Liquor Store. Due to a 1929 factory accident he had lost both hands and the liquor store provided income and independence.

Monday, 4 November 1940, Marguerite and Buford Carlisle Smith were married in the Garrett United Presbyterian Church with Reverend Joe Jordan officiating.

Buford was an outstanding athlete during his four years at Garrett High School, lettering in football, basketball, track and tennis. A year following graduation he enlisted in the U.S. Navy for four years. In September 1939, he started work for the B & O Railroad as a locomotive fireman and retired 6 August 1976 as No. 1 Engineer on the seniority register. During his 37 years as a railroader, he worked on more than 1500 engines, the majority of which were steam.

In the mid 1940's he was player coach with the American Legion basketball team and four years in the same capacity for the Garrett Eagles team. He served on Boy Scout Troop 162 committee and for several years on Mayor Feick's Children Christmas Party. He was Brotherhood of Locomotive Fireman and Enginemen Financial Secretary for 14 years and he is a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He served several terms as Elder, Trustee and Deacon in the Garrett Presbyterian Church where he was baptised June 1914.

Marguerite has served as Elder and Trustee in the Presbyterian Church as well as president in two organizations of the church. She served as vice president and president of PTA and the Ladies Society of Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. She was the woman representative on the Garrett School Reorganization Committee during the 1960 State Mandated Reorganization. In 1964, she had the honor of becoming the first woman elected to the Garrett-Keyser-Butler School Board and served as President during her second term. In 1970 she was a candidate for Joint State Legislative Representative as an Independent. When Garrett observed its Centennial in 1975, Marguerite was general chairperson for that successful celebration and later was the recipient of the Citizen of the Year Award given by the Chamber of Commerce. She presently serves on the Morrill Foundation Board which awards financial loans to worthy students.

Buford and Marguerite have lived their entire lives in Garrett, DeKalb County, Indiana and resided 44 years at their present address, 506 South Guilford Street. They are the parents of three children who are Aaron D., graduate of Garrett High School, Indiana University, served in the U.S. Navy as meterologist, is an Eagle Scout, a charter member of the Garrett DeMolay and presently resides in Chicago where he is a gemologist and Counsel for Creative Investment; Stephanie Sue King, graduate of Garrett High School and is a homemaker living in Fort Wayne; Melanie Ann Steiner, graduate of Garrett High School, Indiana University and a homemaker residing in Indianapolis. FREDERICK ARTHUR THOMAS, was a well known and respected minister of the Gospel in DeKalb County from 1897 until his death 25 February 1932. Frederick Thomas, born 18 April 1860, to Vincent and Cecelia (Oaks) Thomas in Porter County, Indiana, the fifth of nine children. He had a beautiful voice and musical talent, so entered the Northern Indiana School for Music at Valparaiso. At the same time Blanche Gates, who was born 18 June 1862, daughter of Ransom and Abigail (Ellis) Gates, of Steuben County, Indiana, enrolled in the same school. They graduated together with degrees in music, and were married a week later, 8 August 1886.

Frederick Thomas Family

For a period of about three years they conducted concert tours in the West and Midwest. After the birth of their first child, Princess, they turned to other pursuits. Mr. Thomas taught music at Sherwood College in Michigan, served as a singing evangelist, and conducted music schools. Music schools were eagerly sought and attended, and Professor Thomas conducted many of these in neighboring localities. The History of Steuben County says that the first music school to be held in Metz was by Professor Fred A. Thomas.

When he accepted the call for his first ministry — at Hamilton, 8 July 1896 — he was a well prepared man for the position. He was thirty-six years of age at this time. The Thomases' second child, Harry Otis, has been born and their third child, LuReign, was born two years later.

The mode of travel in those early years was by horse and buggy. None of the churches had parsonages so preachers found their own places to live. Also, by dividing their time with two, three, and four churches, it was impossible to live near all of them. This was the situation with the Thomases. During his first fifteen years in the ministry, Mr. Thomas traveled by horse and buggy in every kind of weather — ice, snow, thunderstorms, wind, and intense heat — in order to minister to his congregations, seek the lost, perform weddings, and lay the dead to rest. The dirt roads in those days were rutty and dusty in hot weather, muddy and slippery in wet weather, and often impassible in winter. While Mr. Thomas harnessed the horse(s), Mrs. Thomas would heat the soap stone on top of the kitchen range so that the family could have some heat for their cold feet during the winter journeys. They also had a buffalo robe which afforded shelter from the biting wind and cold.

A notation in his record book shows his thoughts when he began his second ministry, which was with the Butler Church of Christ — Second Charge. First sermon September 12, 1897. Report at Sunday School. Collection $.56. Attendance 62, twelve at Endeavor, nineteen at first prayer meeting. Good. Eight in Sunday School class — four gents, four ladies. He kept a record of calls he made for a while and then ceased to keep a record, probably for lack of time.

The house was left early in the morning so there was no heat in the house when the family returned at about midnight. During the winter a basket of corn cobs and dry wood was left by the stove in the morning so that a quick fire could be started. Mr. Thomas soon had the old Wilson Heater red hot and the children were tucked into their feather beds which felt like ice cubes until warmed up by their chilled bodies. While the children slept, the father and mother fed the tired horses, milked the cows, fed the hogs and tended to other chores before finding rest for their own tired and weary bodies.

His first automobile was a second-hand Overland which was delivered by rail to the Angola depot. It turned out to be a bad bargain. He then bought a used 1912 Cadillac which was a real jewel. It took him over mountain roads as well as the deep ruts in muddy roads. The big wheels with wooden spokes became impossible to fit with tires, so then he bought a Ford.

Blanche Thomas died 25 November 1920, apparently from after effects of the influenza epidemic. This left Mr. Thomas with a broken heart, and the following year he took his Cadillac and went West, retracing some journeys they had made on their concert tours. He also held some revival meetings with Pyrl O. Gates, brother of Blanche. At one of these meetings he met Hattie (Jacobs) Botts Davis, a widow, at Colville, Washington. They were married there 6 March 1922. He preached at Colville until the summer of 1923, when they accepted the call to minister the churches in southern Indiana.

He held several ministries in that area, in DeKalb County, and back to the southern part of the state before returning to DeKalb County to stay, in October of 1930. For many years, Mr. Thomas had been having health problems but tests did not show that it was cancer. He was determined to preach the Gospel for as long as he could.

His last ministries were with the West Milford (Ohio) Church of Christ and the Newville Church, who each offered him $5.00 per week for half time. He began at West Milford 7 July 1931 and Newville 2 August. His 31 January 1932 sermon at Newville brought two to be baptized — Vivian Richmond and Berniece Killian (now Sechler). His last sermon was delivered 14 February 1932, at West Milford. The Lord called him home 25 February. Both Fred and Blanche are buried at Riverside Cemetery at Newville.

Hattie Thomas remained for sometime in the area but later returned to Clarkston, Washington, near her daughter, Josephine Johnson. Hattie died there 9 August 1966.

The children of Frederick and Blanche Thomas were: (1) Princess, born 29 April 1889, who married Homer Casebere, son of Solomon and Florence Casebere, 9 March 1909. The date of the government patent for the first 80 acres taken out by Daniel B. Strong in section seven was 14 July 1836. On this farm the first frame house in DeKalb County was built. It was also used as a school house and Eunice Strong, daughter of Daniel B. Strong, was the first school teacher in DeKalb County. Later a three-story 14 room house was built near the first dwelling.

Daniel B. Strong served as commissioner, trustee, supervisor, enumerator and treasurer of the township. He also served on other committees and in meetings of importance in helping to establish the new community. He was listed as a charter member of the Coburn Corners Church of Christ, which had been established before the church at Newville.

Eunice (Bundy) Strong died 23 January 1847. Daniel then married Sara Totten, he died from the fall from a tree near Newville, 21 September 1847. His son Ephraim carried on the farming duties and bought additional acreage.

EPHRAIM STRONG, born 5 July 1819. He married Marietta Elvira Robison, 28 May 1840, she was born, 26 March 1820, in Trumbull County, Ohio, daughter of Ralph F. and Elizabeth (Pryer) Robison. The Robison family moved to Newville Township in June 1839, and Marietta taught school at Auburn that fall, being the first licensed school teacher in DeKalb County. Her pay was $1.50 per week. She also taught school in Newville Township before and after her marriage. Marietta was listed as one of the charter members of the Newville Church of Christ, and Ephraim became a member soon after the church was established.

Four children were born to Ephraim and Marietta: Henry B., born 28 April 1843 and died 13 July 1930, at Aberdeen, Washington. He married Anna L. Leitch and they had one daughter, Sarah Louisa; William Leslie, born 11 November 1849, died 22 March 1940. He married Lydia Ellen Scoville and they had three children, Hugh, Mary and George Leslie; Ida Gertrude, born 4 September 1852, died 3 May 1875. She married Andrew C. Harrod. No children were born to this marriage; Lisbon Emerson, born 25 February 1857, drowned in the creek near the house, 19 May 1858.

Ephraim Strong was active in the affairs of the community, and letters and diaries indicate that Ephraim and Marietta were very hospitable people, as they were always entertaining and housing people. Ephraim died 11 November 1900 and Marietta died 13 January 1905.

William Leslie married Lydia Ellen Scoville, daughter of William and Mary Scoville, 14 April 1889. She was born 12 December 1859. Lydia Ellen had taught school for many years. Leslie was a farmer and gardner all of his life. He attended the Newville Academy and also served as township trustee. Lydia died 12 April 1935 and Leslie died 22 March 1940.

Brothers Hugh, born 8 August 1890 and George L., born 17 May 1894, farmed with their father on the homestead after the death of Ephraim. Except for the period of 1865 to 1882, when Ephraim and family lived near Edgerton, Ohio, the homestead has been farmed continuously by the Strong Family for 150 years.

GEORGE STRONG, son of William Leslie and Lydia Ellen Strong born 17 May 1894, married LeReign Thomas, born 2 January 1898, daughter of Frederick Arthur and Blanche (Gates) Thomas, 17 May 1918. GEORGE WASHINGTON SQUIER, born 22 February 1890, at Orange, DeKalb County, Indiana; son of Isaac Allison Squier and Francis M. Frederick. His paternal grandparents were Daniel Wesley Squier and Anna M. Robbins and his maternal grandparents were William Frederick and Christina Mountz.

Bessie Vera Beber, born 27 December 1892, at Garrett, Indiana, daughter of Perry E. Beber and Florence I. Funk. Her paternal grandparents were Nathaniel Beaber and Elizabeth Walter, of Noble County, Indiana and later of DeKalb County.

George and Bessie were united in marriage, 30 January 1910 in DeKalb County. Mr. Squier attended school at Orange in Concord Township and Mrs. Squier attended school in Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Squier lived in Garrett in a home on South Peters Street that he had built. He was a contractor and excellent cabinet maker. Bessie was a homemaker and seamstress. In 1925, Mr. Squier moved his family to Florida as that state was going through a building boom. When the depression hit in 1929, construction stopped overnight. They left everything they had worked so hard to acquire in those few short years and returned to Garrett, Indiana with just a few pieces of clothing for each family member.

The Depression was devastating. There was no work and no money. George and his sons cut wood for a dollar a day. Bessie took in sewing and laundry. She was an excellent seamstress, cutting all her own patterns and creating her own designs. The younger children worked in onion fields, weeding and topping the onions for $.03 per crate.

The Squier family had large gardens in which they raised all the food for their yearly needs. The children all worked in the gardens, getting up at 6:00 a.m. to weed and pick the crops before it would get too hot. Mrs. Squier would can over a thousand quarts of fruits and vegetables each summer. She made jams and jellies from strawberries, blueberries, their relishes, catsup and chili sauces. A hundred bushels of potatoes and fifty bushels of apples were stored in bins in the cellar. Mr. Squier was noted for his dill pickles and sauerkraut. Each year he made 50 gallons of each and these were shared with friends. Mr. Squier raised chickens and animals for their meat and did all his own butchering. The children always enjoyed butchering time because they would have cakes of cracklings for snacks! Bread, rolls, buns, and doughnuts were made three times a week and stored in lard cans with tight lids to keep them fresh.

In later years, George had a trucking company with his sons. They would haul potatoes south and bring coal back up north. Bessie worked at the Auburn Automobile Company sewing upholstering for the cars. The company gave her material that was scraps, from which she made coats for all the children. They always had beautiful coats! She then worked at the Fort Wayne tailoring Company until the time of her death.

Early family transportation was a horse named Maude and a buggy with a surrey on top. When touring cars came in, Maude and the buggy were retired and replaced with a new eight seat Studebaker with jump seats.

Sundays were always special for the Squier family. They were members of the Christian Church in Garrett. After church they either had relatives for dinner or they would go to one of their homes for a family gathering. During the week they ate from an oil cloth table covering and paper napkins, but on Sunday the table was always set with a nice white linen table cloth and napkins, the best china and silverware.

Family recreation consisted of everyone congregating around the large dining room table to play cards, dominoes or other games. A large dish pan of pop corn and bowls of apples were always enjoyed. Other times the family would all participate in making and pulling taffy. The player piano added entertainment. The children all enjoyed pumping the pedals and watching the music roll go around with the words on the side; everyone sang. The family was close and communication was good; there was no television to distract the conversation.

The family was poor, but rich in many ways. Being poor added to the riches of closeness and helping one another.

Bessie Squier died, 23 September 1950, in Fort Wayne, Indiana from a sudden heart attack while recuperating from surgery. George Squier resided at Newyago, Michigan and married a second time. He died, 20 September 1966, at Anderson, Indiana following a traffic accident.

Sponhower. Besides raising their own family, Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith received into their home Grant Shreaves, Peter Ankney, Christian Eicher and Enoch Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith maintained their German heritage by teaching all of their children to speak fluent German as well as the English language. A great-granddaughter, Sheron Conner Littlejohn, remembers sitting on her grandmother's, Emma Goldsmith Conner's, lap, rocking in the family rocker and asking her grandmother to talk to me in German.

Mr. Goldsmith died, 22 April 1917 and Mrs. Goldsmith died, 12 April 1922. Both are buried in the Leo Cemetery, Leo, Indiana.

RANSOM MONROE, we have known for years that Ransom Monroe's grave was in the Cosper Cemetery but as yet I know little about him. He probably was born in Scotland and came to Indiana during the early 1850's after a stop in Ohio where his oldest child was born. Ransom died at the age of 33 on 4 February 1864.

Catherine Kines and Ransom were married and they had 11 or 13 children. After Ranson's death, she continued to live in Wilmington township with five of the children. Two children, Oliver, born 25 July 1850, in Ohio, and died 18 April 1864. He died from typhoid fever. Sarah, born 8 March 1854, died 10 January 1864, she died from falling in a kettle of boiling water. Both are buried beside their father. So far, nothing else is known about Catherine.

The following are the known children: Emily, born 5 April 1846, in Ohio, she married James Ballentine, 17 January 1866; Lucinda, born 16 August 1847, in Ohio, she married George Howey, 14 May 1865.

Lewis married Sarah Eakright. James, born March 1856 in Indiana and died, 23 July 1920. He married Luella Ella Reaver, 21 December 1884. They had one child, Hattie. After her death, he married Clara. All are buried in the Cedar Chapel Cemetery, south of Garrett. Riley, born 8 March 1858, in Indiana and died, 24 January 1936. He is buried in the Butler Cemetery. They had one son, Lloyd, and possibly a daughter named Myrtle. Elizabeth, born 3 October 1860. Silbina, Jane and Norah, there may be at least one more child born between Riley and Elizabeth. The name is either Vinah or Uriah. Silbina Sabrina, Bina was born 23 March 1863. She married a man by the name of Stroh and they moved west. They had a son, Claire. The last known address for the family was in California.

Jane was born in 1861 and died in either 1947 or 1948. She married Will Brown, born 1856, died 1942. They had a son, John, whose wife was Bertha Bird. John and Bird had two children, Harold D., who married Rebecca Irene Olin, and Frank. John and Bird lived east of Auburn on SR 8. They are buried in Roselawn Cemetery, Auburn, Indiana. Norah married a Ballentine.

LEWIS MANROW, born to Ransom and Catherine (Kines) Monroe. He was born 15 May 1852, in Ohio. The family came to DeKalb County while he was still very small. He died in Corunna, Indiana, 24 January 1929 and is buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

Lewis was raised in Wilmington Township, DeKalb County and except for a few years spent in Camden, Michigan he spent his life there and later in Richland Township. He was a farmer and worked for several farmers in this area including Ed Wicks, north of Sedan near the Hesse Castle School.

Sarah Sake Adeline Eakright became the bride of Lewis, 28 September 1873. She was a daughter of Abraham and Susannah (Miller) Eakright of near Moore, Indiana. She was an energetic woman, who in her eighties and on crutches, was able to shock wheat, cut by her son, Lester. She was born 7 July 1854 and died 2 April 1950, at the age of 95. Sarah had a good singing voice, wrote some poetry, liked outdoor work, but also knitted, and pieced quilts, one of which we have that was made in the 1940's.

Lewis and Sake had three sons: Lawrence, who married Nora McConnell of Garrett, Indiana; Clarence Edward, who married Ona May Finch; and Lester LeRoy,who married Flossie Means.

Lawrence Manrow Family

LAWRENCE MANROW, son of Lewis and Sarah A. (Eakright) Manrow. He was born 24 October 1874, near Monroe, Indiana and died near Turkey Lake, 6 October 1940. He is buried in the Corunna Cemetery. He was a victim of tuberculosis.

Lawrence's maternal grandparents were Abraham and Susannah (Miller) Eakright and Joel and Sarah (Eichelberger) Eakright. All lived in the area around Moore, Indiana, in Wilmington Township. The Millers were probably from Pennsylvania and the parents of ten children. Joel and Sarah are buried in the Cosper Cemetery.

Lawrence's paternal grandparents were Ransom and Catherine (Kines) Monroe.

Lawrence lived in Garrett, Indiana for 16 years, he also lived at Pleasant Lake, Turkey Lake and in Michigan between the towns of Camden and Montgomery. He farmed and worked in the B & O Railroad shops in Garrett, Indiana.

Elnora Nora McConnell of Garrett, Indiana became his bride in 1893. She died 10 January 1953 and is buried in the Corunna Cemetery beside her husband and son.

Three children were born to Lawrence and Elnora: Jessie R.; Marie (Manrow) Sullivan; and Alva G.

Marie lived in Garrett, Indiana, Jackson, Michigan and in Toledo, Ohio where she died and is buried. She operated a beauty shop. Marie was married twice, her first husband was Leo Smith and the second husband's name was Sullivan. Jessie worked for the Garrett Street Department and resided at the Garrett Hotel. He was a WW I Veteran having served in the Indiana 19 Spruce SQ according to his tombstone, in the Corunna Cemetery. He was a member of the Garrett American Legion and died at the Veteran's Hospital in Fort Wayne, Indiana, February 1955 at the age of 60.

Alva and Mary Manrow

ALVA G. "JACK" MANROW, son of Lawrence J. and Elnora (McConnell) Manrow, born in Corunna, Indiana, 2 July 1900. He died 1985, in Toledo, Ohio. Jack had a sister Marie

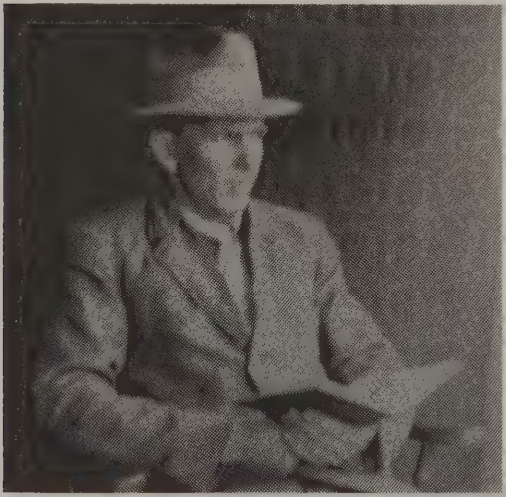
Sullivan and a brother Jessie R.

Jack attended school through the 8th grade. He started to work at the age of 16 at Hayes Wheel in Jackson, Michigan. From Jackson, he went to Elkhart, Indiana, where he worked on the New York Central Railroad until 1920.

Alva married Mary L. Kemerer in Nutwood, Ohio in 1920. He was employed by the Interurban lines from Kendallville to Fort Wayne. In the fall of 1927, Jack started at the Auburn Auto, in Auburn, Indiana. They transferred to Toledo, Ohio in 1928. The Auburn Sales and Service was started at Madison and 22nd Street in Toledo. It was owned by Wade Hammon and Lester Schnizer. Jack was an excellent mechanic and stayed with the business through several owners and makes of cars. Jack retired in 1960.

Mary Lavina Kemerer, daughter of Comer F. and Mary Jane (Brown) Kemerer. She was born 12 November 1901, in Ohio and died in 1984 in Toledo, Ohio. Mary's mother died while she was young. Her father lived for a time in DeKalb County. Her sister married and lived in Garrett most of her life.

Mary worked outside the home as well as raising their five children, most if not all of whom were born in DeKalb County. Toledo, Ohio is home base for Dale Lewis, Mariam Jeanette Peggy Hill, Lawrence Jerry, Alva Jack Jackie and Quenton Wilber.



Lester L. Manrow

LESTER LEROY MANROW, was born 8 June 1887 to Lewis and Sarah A. (Eakright) Manrow. They lived east of Auburn. He died 12 May 1956 at his home in Corunna, Indiana. He is the youngest of three sons.

Lester was a life long resident of DeKalb County except for a short period of time spent near Camden, Michigan where he farmed. In DeKalb County, he farmed the Means and Triplett farms. He also worked on the New York Central Section Gang for Itha Stonebraker in the Corunna Hardware.

I think Lester is the only one of the three brothers that went to high school. He roomed in Auburn in order to do so.

Lester married Flossie Means, at the parsonage of the St. Mark Lutheran Church in Auburn, Indiana 5 September 1908. her parents were John and Rebecca (Farver) Means and they lived in Jackson township. Flossie was born 19 August 1886 and died 25 June 1962 at the age of 74. I believe Flossie attended Boots School. She helped with the farming while raising their one child, a daughter Bertha who married Peter Sebert.

Lester and Flossie are buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

Clarence and Ona Manrow

CLARENCE EDWARD (NIG) MANROW, son born to Lewis and Sarah A. (Eakright) Manrow. At the time they were living in Wilmington Township near Butler. He was born, 5 March 1879 and died 3 July 1964 and is buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

Clarence graduated from the eighth grade in 1897. He attended school in District #2. Part of the time he stayed with Grandma Moody and attended school. She lived east of Corunna, at the railroad crossing, in a large brick house. His future wife also graduated in 1897.

Clarence worked at a variety of occupations in his life time. Around 1909, he worked on a dairy farm owned by McCleland near Montgomery, Michigan. Then he worked for a lumber company and lived in Waterloo, Indiana. About 1912, they moved to Corunna, Indiana and he worked for the New York Central Railroad on the bridge gang. This job took them to Nutwood, Ohio. Nutwood is north and a little east of Youngstown. Later the railroad work sent them to Elkhart, Indiana. In 1918, Clarence was back in Michigan near Camden where he cleaned up the woods after loggers left. The next few years were spent farming near Corunna, Indiana, part of them on a farm owned by his wife's cousin, Robert Bob Johnson. One unusual vegetable they had good luck with was celery which they raised in muck. While living with Bob Johnson, Clarence had an ice route and peddled fish. He kept the ice in an ice house, in the backyard, covered with saw dust. He purchased the ice in Kendallville, Indiana. His granddaughter, Dorothy Kemerer enjoyed keeping him company on these trips. An old hearse was used for a while to haul ice. The family also went to Toledo in it. During this time Clarence received a start of a hibiscus. We still have descendants of this plant and have given many away.

While Clarence was janitor at the Corunna School he filled the windows with plants and wondered if the Health inspector would object. When the inspector came around he said the plants give off what the children need and the children give off what the plants need. Only one time did anyone object to them and that was when he put manure on them for fertilizer. I guess school almost had to close for the day.

Clarence also butchered, sheered sheep and helped Wid Feagler build barns. He worked at the Kendallville Foundry and in 1956 he was a night watchman at Howard Sobers in Fort Wayne. One morning after leaving work, he was hit by a car while crossing the street. Eventually, he lost his leg as a result of the accident.

Clarence was called Nig by everyone. We do not know where he received the nickname. His grandchildren and great-grandchildren called him Grandpa Nig, Paw Paw, and Paw Paw Nig.

Ona May Finch and Clarence were married in April 1900. She was the youngest living child of James and Helen (Dearborn) Finch of Corunna, Indiana. She was born, 11 June 1881 and died, 3 December 1949. While basically a homemaker, Ona did work for families having need because of new babies or illness. At one time, she sold magazine subscriptions to Woman's World and also sold moth paddles. She obtained a rocker from this work which we still have. Ona loved caring for her grandchildren and regretted her poor eyesight limited her ability to care for her youngest Harold Werkheiser.

Clarence and Ona had four children: Helen Lucille Bower; Harry Richard; Ralph Ellsworth; and Mary Margaret Werkheiser.

Harry Manrow

HARRY RICHARD MANROW, was born on a farm just south of Corunna, 26 October 1903. He was the son of Clarence and Ona (Finch) Manrow. He passed away at his home near Corunna, 21 January 1953 at the age of 49. He is buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

Harry Bub started school at Montgomery, Michigan. He also attended school in Waterloo and Corunna, Indiana. Arithmetic was his favorite school subject. Harry was brought up in the Corunna Methodist Church. He loved doing anything that kept him out of doors; hunting and fishing were his favorite activities.

He worked for many years on the section gang for the New York Central Railroad, becoming a foreman. During this time, he constructed two garages and one house. The garages were made from railroad ties. One is still on Tiptop Street in Corunna and the other is just outside the town limits to the south.

All children loved Harry even though he made them behave. He also could get a lot of work out of them. He was great tease and loved to take the young children of the family to get ice cream just after they had been cleaned up. This did not make him popular with his wife and sister.

Harry was married twice. First 27 December 1922, to Martha Bethina Osborn. She was the only child of Benjamin F. and Verna (Porter) Osborn. They have a daughter, Patricia Ann Mrs. Clyde E. Whitson II.

Later he married Thelma (Pence) Marks. She had two sons by a previous marriage. Harry raised Robert Eugene Marks and Cleo Lemoin Marks like they were his own. They both live near Corunna at this time.

PATRICIA ANN (MANROW) WHITSON, the only child of Harry and Martha Bethina (Osborn)

Clyde and Patricia Whitson

Manrow, born 12 December 1925, on a farm owned by her great grandfather, James Finch, of Corunna, Indiana. Her maternal grandparents were Benjamin F. and Verna (Porter) Osborn, Jr. Her paternal grandparents were Clarence Edward and Ona Mae (Finch) Manrow of Corunna, Indiana.

Patricia grew up in the Corunna area, attending the Corunna grade school and graduating from Waterloo High School. She has always been a member of the Methodist Church, where ever she lived.

During WW II, Patricia worked at National Can, Fort Wayne. Her activities and interest have revolved around her home, children and her husband's work. She is an excellent cook and enjoys sewing and gardening.

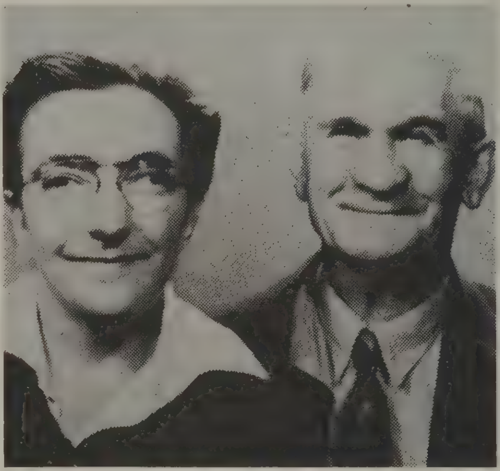
Patricia and Clyde E. Whitson, II were married 1 March 1948. Clyde is the only child of Clyde E. Dr. Cheir and Edna (Owens) Whitson, of Kendallville, Indiana.

They are the parents of four children: Diana Lynn, married Ramon Luis Laguna and they are the parents of two children, Leslie Ann a Sophomore at Orlando Community College and Raymond Lewis, a High School Junior. Ramon is employed with United Airlines and operates his own sailboat business. The Lagunas reside in Orlando, Florida; Lana Daion, graduated from High School in New York City, New York and attended Rockland Junior College. She graduated from George Mason College, University of Virginia. In 1985, she obtained her master's degree in business and is planning to move to Florida.

Clyde E., IV, born in Kendallville. Indiana and attended school all over the United States and its territories. He graduated from high school in New York City, New York and attended Rockland Community College, New York. He also graduated from George Mason, but by now it is an independent college, no longer a part of the University of Virginia. Following college, Clyde joined the Marines and after completing his tour of duty, he joined the FBI.

Darcy Lee, born in Kendallville, Indiana and graduated from high school in New York City, New York. She then attended George Mason College near Washington D.C. After graduation, Darcy worked in the Washington D.C. area until her marriage to Jeramiah Behan. They are the parents of one daughter, Alexis, and they live in Lusbarg, Virginia.

The Whitsons have lived in many areas of the United States, as a result of Clyde's work. They started out in Kendallville, then Lafayette, Indiana; Birmingham and Huntsville, Alabama; Monteray, California; Del Rio, Texas; San Juan; Puerto Rico; New York City, New York; Arlington, Virginia; and Butte Montana, from there upon retirement to Orlando, Florida.



John and Helen Bower

HELEN LUCILLE (MONROE) BOWER, born to Clarence and Ona (Finch) Manrow. She was born 22 November 1900 at the home of her grandparents, James and Helen (Dearborn) Finch, where she was to spend much of her youth.

Helen started school at District #4 which was located just east of her home. This is the same school her mother attended. When it fell down she finished at District #3. This school was about 2 miles west of her home on what is now CR 28. She rode a horse drawn buggy bus to this school. After this her grandfather Finch took her to Corunna, daily, so she could take the train to Waterloo, Indiana, where she attended high school on Van Vleek Street. She attended Normal School at Tri-State college, Angola, Indiana and also took classes at Winona Lake, Indiana. She became a teacher because her family did not think nursing, her first love, was an appropriate occupation for a woman. She taught in the Corunna School and in Antwerp and Youngstown, Ohio. Although she did not teach in the public schools for more than a few years, she made good use of her training in the Sunday School of the Corunna Methodist Church of which she was a life long member. She was also very active in the Ladies Aid. Helen served as precinct committee woman and was active in the Democratic Party. She belonged to the Corunna Pythian Sisters, Emanual Temple #176 and the Corunna Home Demonstration Club. It was through her and the Home Demonstration Club that the family started refinishing furniture and learned to cane chairs.

Helen loved swimming and spent many happy summers with her grandparents at the cottage at Rome City, Indiana. She loved to read and after she married, she often read cowboy stories out of the Grit to her husband.

Before her marriage, Helen was a housekeeper for a Jewish family in Bethesda, Maryland. She would have liked to return there where her nieces, Patricia Whitson and Dorothy Werkheiser were in that area.

Helen died 20 November 1973 at the DeKalb Memorial Hospital after spending several years at the Sheehy Nursing Home in Butler, Indiana.

She married John Tyler Bower 26 November 1938. John and Helen never had children but they sure enjoyed John's grandchildren and her nieces and nephew. Their home was always open to the youngsters and it was fun for several to spend the night after seeing a free show in Corunna. The first time Helen heard John whistle was while rocking their nephew, Harold Werkheiser.

John was born 14 July 1877 and died 25 February 1962. He is buried in the Corunna Cemetery. His father was Layman Bower and he is buried in the Fairfield Cemetery, DeKalb County, Indiana. John's brothers and sisters were William, Emmanuel, Elmer, Dallas, Mrs. Jim (Delia) McDonald, Ida Bower and Elsie Ikeman.

John told of swimming in Turkey Creek near a curve on SR 327 north of US 6. When they came out of the water he put the clothes on his brother, Elmer, backwards. This was how their mother discovered their adventure. I imagine it had been forbidden, but never heard of the punishment. This same brother lived with Helen and John and is buried with them in the Corunna Cemetery.

John could turn his hand to most anything. He tired of making changes to the house and threatened to put the walls on casters so Helen could change them at will. I think John farmed and I know he worked at the Kendallville Lumberyard.

Ralph Manrow

RALPH E. MANROW is the third child of Clarence Edward and Ona May (Finch) Manrow. He was born, 13 January 1906 in the house across the road from where he now lives. Ralph lived in a house built by his grandfather James Martin Finch. It is located on the northwest corner of SR 327 and CR 28. He has lived there since he was 16 years old.

Ralph attended school until his junior year in high school in Corunna. Then he rode a Harley Davidson motorcycle to high school in Auburn. He attended Ball State Teacher's College, Muncie, Indiana; Tri-State College, Angola; Manchester College, North Manchester and Indiana University where he obtained his Masters Degree in Education.

Ralph, though sickly as a child, has out lived all of his family and is the eldest of Ranson Monroe's descendants living that we know of.

People are surprised to learn Ralph worked on the New York Central Railroad and taught on the Blackfoot Reservation in northwestern Montana (1927-29). He also worked at Auburn Auto the summer and fall of 1929. During WW II Ralph worked at National Can in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Ralph taught at Tamarack School north east of Butler, Richland and Corunna before going to Garrett in 1947. Superintendent of Garrett-Keyser-Butler Schools E.V. Minnear and Elementary Principal Jessie Ober encouraged him to obtain his principal's license and upon Jessie Ober's death a short while later, he became the principal of the elementary schools. He was the first principal in the J.E. Ober building, retiring from there in 1971.

Ralph's interests in school and ever since have been History, English, Ancient Greece, Egypt and reading. He has many beautiful books on these subjects and on England, where he was sent as a retirement gift from his friends and fellow workers. At one time, he wanted to teach Latin. He also enjoys refinishing furniture and caning chairs. He watches most of the sports on TV.

Ralph is a member of the Knights of Pythias, Garrett Lions club, Methodist Church, Phi Delta Kappa, and the local, state and national Retired Teachers Association.

Benjamin came to DeKalb County in the early 1840's from Canandaigua, New York area, having first purchased land here in 1838, his father and brother came with him. They found tomatoes growing in the garden, they did not eat any as they feared the might be poisonous.

His father's name was Ira. They came from near Pen Yan, New York. This was revealed in a letter we have which they sent to John in 1849. John was a wagon maker and James learned the trade.

When James was small, his family went often to Rome City and after he married he owned a cottage there. The family went from DeKalb County to the cottage first by horse and buggy and then by train. I suppose eventually they used the car Grandpa Finch owned and put up on bricks, in the livery stable in Corunna, during the winter. James returned to Corunna each week to mow the lawn. Once his wife requested that he check the sauerkraut, he remarked that it always smelled spoiled so how could he tell if it was spoiled or not.

The James Finch family consisted of Helen (Ella) Augusta Dearborn, James' wife, and their three children: Minnie Bell, Frank Jay and Ona May. Three children died — Leona, Robert and an unnamed infant son. All are buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

James was a farmer and a buyer and seller of livestock. They shipped from Corunna to Buffalo, New York. The average price for one shipment of hogs was $3.75-$4.00 per cwt. He was township trustee for a while.

Minnie Bell, born in Corunna, Indiana 2 November, 1870 and spent most of her life on the family farm south of town. She was active in the Corunna Methodist Church and in the Pythian Sisters, her mother having been a charter member. Edwin M. Hall Family

EDWIN MARION HALL, born 6 May 1897, in Lawrenceburg, Tennessee, son of Edwin Marion and Mary Alice Hall. He had two sisters; Marcia Pearl and Mabel.

In 1898, the family came to Poneto, Indiana, moving to Ashley in 1910 when Eddie was thirteen.

As a young man, Eddie worked for DeLucenay's in Ashley. It was on his South Milford route that he took a liking to Irene Vail, whom he married in Hillsdale, Michigan on 4 June 1924. At that time, he was a railway clerk for the Wabash Railroad.

Irene, born to Jacob and Elsie Jane (Kirk) Vail. Jacob and Elsie were the parents of five children: Charles, died as an infant; Rachel, born 6 December 1892; Arthur, born 17 September 1895; Odessie, born 10 February 1904; and Irene, born in Pleasant Lake, 20 May 1906.

Four children were born to Edwin and Irene, all in Ashley. Mary Jane, born 1 March 1925 and now resides in Oak Harbor, Washington; Charles Edwin, born 30 May 1929, living in Auburn; Jewell Joan, born 20 April 1935, residing in Parkdale, Oregon and James Robert, born 7 February 1939 and now living in Marrero, Louisana.

For approximately twenty-seven years, the Halls owned Hall's Produce purchasing the old hotel Lenox in Ashley until 1944, when Eddie began to work at Rieke's where he remained until his retirement.

Eddie ran five different routes, picking up cream, eggs and chickens. He would then truck his produce to Detroit to sell.

Charles and Mary Jane accompanied their dad on his route near South Milford. On the Louie Liebing farm was a big rooster who chased Mary Jane all around the truck while Louie, Eddie and Charles held their sides laughing. Finally the fun was stopped by shouting "Boo."

Mary Jane recalls going with her father, taking soda crackers, County Line Cheese and sometimes liverwurst or bologna and stopping by a creek to have a picnic lunch. Wolcottville Park was a favorite spot as was a place on the Pigeon River in LaGrange County.

Eddie served as a Private, fifth Company, 155th Depot Brigade in WW I. He died in DeKalb Memorial Hospital, 28 December 1977 and was interred in the family plot of Circle Cemetery in Hudson. Irene presently resides in Waterloo.

They sold fresh baked goods, confections, cheeses, pickles and vinegar from barrels. Shirley met relatives she had never seen, completing a long time dream.

During their stay in London they worshiped in Westminster Abbey, listening to the strains of the great organ and the beautiful clear voices of the boy's choir. Shirley's grandfather Smith also worshiped there.

Mochamer, settled in 1864.

David D. Hall Family

DAVID DUANE HALL is the son of Charles Edwin and Shirley (Cramer) Hall. He was born at McCray Hospital, Kendallville on 1 December 1958 and was baptized Easter Sunday, 29 March 1959 at the Salem Center Presbyterian Church by Reverend Thomas Heinline.

At that time, the Hall family lived at the Lake of the Woods, LaGrange County, Indiana, so David and sister Debra Kay attended the Prairie Heights Schools.

While growing up, David was active in scouting and Little League, and played cornet in the school band.

In 1973, the family moved to DeKalb County where David graduated with the class of 1977 at DeKalb Central High School. He also played cornet with the Marching Barons for 4 years.

After graduation, Dave completed courses at Transport Careers, Garrett, and worked as a laminator operator for Reeves Brothers, Auburn.

He enlisted in the U.S. Air Force, 20 January 1981. Dave received his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base where he was selected to play cornet in the prestigious Drum and Bugle Corps. His first assignment was in the Transportation Department at Randolph Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas.

While stationed at Randolph, David met and married Rose Marie Bearcraft who also serves in the Air Force in the Supply Department.

She is the eldest daughter of Walter and Patricia (Luskin) Bearcraft of Beaumont, Texas. Rose was born in Schenectedy, New York, on 5 March 1963.

Dave and Rose were married in the base Church on 12 January 1985 during the worst recorded snowfall in San Antonio's history. They received a whooping 15 inches of snow that weekend and the only people who could manage were transplanted Northerners. Since there was no snow removal equipment, the base was closed and the wedding reception was hastily moved to the apartment of one of the groomsmen.

This made an already memorable event an unforgettable experience.

Joshua Gailard was born to the couple at Wilford Hall Medical Center, Lackland Air Force Base on 2 October 1985. He was named for his Great grandfather, Gailard Cramer, who died on the same date as Josh's birth.

David is currently a Sgt. having re-enlisted in 1984 and is an instructor in heavy equipment and tractor trailers in Transportation.

His military papers describe him as being light complected with light hair, blue eyes and being 5' 3" tall. He was mustered out, 28 June 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee.

Jane and Jacob became the parents of Charles, who died as an infant, Rachel, born 6 December 1892, Arthur, born 17 September 1895, Odessie, born 10 February 1904 and Irene, born 20 May 1906.

Rachel and Arthur each married and moved to Michigan, while Irene married Eddie Hall and remained in DeKalb County.

1900 proved to be a very trying and difficult year for Jacob. He and Jane lost their 6 year old daughter, Odessie, after a long bout with bronchial pneumonia. Jane was an accomplished seamstress and sewed a white satin burial dress for her daughter.

On 11 September 1910, Jane died at the age of 36 after a long illness of cancer, just 2 weeks after Jacob lost his brother in death.

Odessie is buried in Woodlawn Cemetery beside her parents, Jacob and Jane Vail.

Jess and Jessie Cramer

JESS OWEN AND JESSIE CRAMER lived their entire married life in Altona, DeKalb County.

Jess was born in Steuben county, near Fremont, the sixth child of Andrew and Lavina (Mochamer) Cramer, on 17 June 1878.

After moving several times during their early married life, Andrew and Lavina settled in Altona where Jess spent most of his childhood.

Jessie Marie was born to Wallace and Lutheria Caroline (Powers) Cooley, in Bloomingdale, Van Buren County, Michigan, on 1 June 1896.

Her father was a farmer and her mother was keeper of the house as the census related. Jessie had two brothers, Leonard and Elbert. After her mother's death when she was about 13, Jessie was raised in an all male household.

Jess was a drayman and horse trader. He often went up into Michigan and this is where he met his future wife. Jess and Jessie were married by a Justice of the Peace on 16 May 1903, in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

They came to Altona to raise their family. Out of five children, only two lived to adulthood. Their first daughter, Verda, was born 22 October 1904 and contracted scarlet fever and died when she was just 1 year and 11 days. She died in the morning and was buried that same day because of the dreaded fear of the disease. All bedding and clothing were burned.

Their second child was Norman Wayne, born 27 February 1907 and died before he was 11 months of age.

Another daughter was stillborn.

Two sons, Everett Jess, born 19 November 1908 and Gailard Owen, born 4 August 1911, grew to manhood, married and settled with their families near Garrett and Altona.

Jess and Jessie resided in the same house in Altona until Jess died on 6 June 1950.

The house was sold soon after, when Jessie went to live with Mrs. Howard Mountz of Garrett as a companion.

Jessie lived her remaining years at the Lake of the Woods, LaGrange County, near her two sons and families. She died, 8 January 1970.

Both Jess and Jessie died at Sacred Heart Hospital, Garrett and are buried in Christian Union Cemetery.

Jessie was a member of the Garrett Presbyterian Church.

Gailard and Nora Cramer

Gailard became an employee of the B & O Railroad and earned the rate of carman after attending apprentice school in Omaha, Nebraska. He learned how to build box cars, flat cars, the mechanics of the air brakes and how to make detailed scaled drawings. Several of his drawings were published in the B & O magazine.

Nora was born in Awsworth, Derbyshire England on 9 June 1913 the daughter of Edward Booth Smith and Sarah Jane Chapman.

Nora's father was a Nottingham lacemaker, but after serving in the British Royal Army, there was no demand for lace, so he decided to immigrate to America. At age 31, he sailed on the U.S.S. Hallenbook arriving at Ellis Island Thanksgiving day 1921. He joined his Uncle Thomas Booth in Clarksburg, West Virginia where he found work as a coal miner.

May 8, 1922, Nora arrived with her mother at Ellis Island on the U.S.S. Olympic. They bid farewell to Nora's Grandfather Chapman in Southampten, England, never to see him again.

Nora had her arm in a sling during the journey as she was given 5 smallpox vaccinations on one arm. She remembers Ellis Island with horror, being herded like animals. Nora saw her first black man who was a porter on the train bound for West Virginia.

After living in New Castle, Indiana, where Ed worked at the Maxwell car plant, the family moved to Fort Wayne where Nora attended North Side High School.

Nora left school to help the family out financially and worked at the Wayne Knitting Mills.

It was during this time that she met Gailard at the Trier's Ballroom. During their courtship, they spent many hours dancing there and became engaged over hot dogs at the original Coney Island Restaurant downtown Fort Wayne.

They were married in Reverend Urich's living room on 4 August 1932 and set up housekeeping in a little house in Altona.

They became the parents of Shirley Ann on 9 November 1935, Gene on 17 June 1940 and Linda Sue on 10 April 1946.

Gene is a computer systems analyst in Oak Ridge, Tennessee after spending 23 years in the U.S. Air Force and Linda is the wife of Dr. Joseph Hammons and a Realtor.

Nora has 10 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

Andrew Cramer Family

ANDREW CRAMER AND LAVINA MOCHAMER were married in Waterloo by Justice of the Peace, B.B. Long.

Lavina was the daughter of William and Anna Mochamer, born 18 July 1844, in Williams County, Ohio. She came to DeKalb County with her parents in 1845 and remained in this area until her death on 27 February 1894, at age 49.

Andrew was born to Jacob and Jane (Harris) Cramer, of German descent near Hillsville, Lawrence County, Pennsylvania, on 9 October 1841. His father was a mason by trade. There were 7 children in the family.

Andrew and his brother, John, walked to Poland, Ohio, just across the Pennsylvania border to join the Ohio Infantry to serve in the Civil War. He enrolled on 8 June 1861 and served in Company E., 23rd Regiment as a Private until he was given a medical discharge by his commanding officer and surgeon on 21 February 1862 in Fayetteville, West Virginia. John was transferred to the Drum and Bugle Corps.

He apparently wanted to serve again, so this time he enrolled in the Indiana Infantry at Michigan City on 23 February 1864. He served with Company B. 129th Regiment as a Corporal.

On the 29th day of August 1865, the regiment was mustered out of the service at Charlotte, North Carolina and started for home. The Regiment reached Indianapolis early in September with 503 officers and men and were present at a reception to returned soldiers in the State House Grove. The regiment soon received final payment and discharge and its members returned to the peaceful vocations of life.

His discharge papers describe him as being 22 years of age, having black hair and eyes and 5 foot 10 inches tall.

The fork and spoon which he carried with him during the war and his 2 honorable discharge papers are in the possession of his great granddaughter, Shirley Cramer Hall of Auburn.

Andrew drew a pension for his military service receiving $30 per month beginning 9 October 1916 at age 75. After his discharge, Andy married Lavina Mochamer on 21 September 1865.

They became the parents of nine children, but no two children were born in the same place. Andrew was a laborer so perhaps they lived where he could find work.

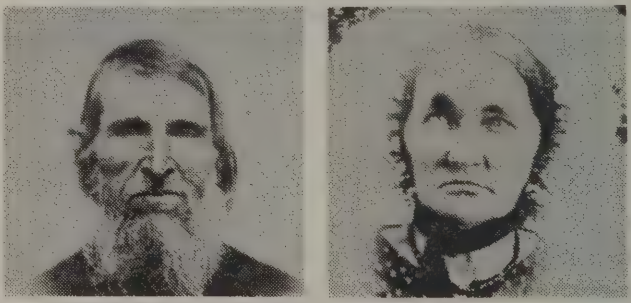
Ophelia Alizona, born 1867 in New Haven, Allen County.; Nancy Madella in 1868, Lowelville, Ohio; George Andrew 1871, Delphos, Ohio; Ira Emmett 1875, Jackson Township, DeKalb County; William Etney, 1876, Cedarville, Allen County; Jess Owen 1878, Fremont, Steuben County; Howard Matheny, 1881, Auburn; Ada Gustana, 1886, DeKalb County; and Lillie Mae 1888, Waterloo.

Andrew loved playing the violin. He played with a group entertaining at parties, weddings and square dances. His great grandson Gene Cramer has the violin which Andrew made in 1910.

After Lavina died someone suggested to Andy that he remarry. He commented that when his Viny died, so did he. He was soft spoken, kind and gentle and never smoked, swore or drank.

Lavina is buried in Evergreen in an unmarked grave near her parents and her sister, Caroline Shreve.

Andrew was buried from the Altona Methodist Church with ex-serviceman as pall bearers and interred in Christian Union Cemetery with a Civil War headstone. His daughter, Nancy, and sons, Ira, Howard and George lie nearby.



William and Anna Mochamer

WILLIAM AND ANNA (YOCKEY) MOCHAMER, were early settlers in DeKalb County. They purchased 40 acres for $110 in November 1844 near State Road 8 and County Road 35.

William was born in Berks County, Pennsylvania, 8 April 1808. He came to Starke County, Ohio with his parents and then to Wayne County, Ohio, where he married Anna Yockey, 19 July 1833. They were married 53 years.

Anna was born in Cayuga County, New York, 4 February 1813. She died in her home in Jackson Township, 11 March 1886.

The couple purchased 80 acres of farmland for $1800 in Jackson township near County Road 60 and County Road 39 in August 1864.

The land was sold to Josiah Farver after William's death 25 October 1891. The records show all his 7 children signed the papers.

The neighbors of Mr. Mochamer in Jackson Township met together and hustled up his winter's wood. The old man is ill and the duty of chopping wood fell to his daughter, Eliza. We are glad to note the kindliness of the Jackson Township boys. (The Garrett Clipper, 20 January 1887..

Funeral services for William were held in Rehobeth Church by the pastor S.S. Stanton. Both William and Anna were interred in Evergreen Cemetery in Auburn.

William and Nancy became the parents of nine children. Shirley Hall, the great granddaughter, possess the sheet on which all nine births were handwritten.

The first five children were born in Sugar Creek Township, Wayne County, Ohio. Samuel, born 1834; Mary Ann, born 1836; William, born 1837; Sarah, born 1839; and Caroline, born 1841.

Lavina was born in Williams County, Ohio, in 1844 and Elizabeth born 1849, Pricilla, born 1852; Eliza Ellen, born 1854, all in Union Township, DeKalb County.

Mary Ann and William died as small children, but the rest of the children grew to marry and raise families in the area in DeKalb County.

Samuel married Margaret Reed, 25 December 1862. Samuel was single at age 57 when his father died. Sold his 40 acres in Jackson Township for $900 to Benjamin Bailey and no records were found about Samuel after that.

Sarah and Moses Masters were married 5 October 1871, and lived at 216 Baxter Street. Moses had a blacksmith shop near his home.

Caroline married Hugh Shreve, had 2 sons, Oral and William and as a widow married Ira Barger. They lived in Jackson Township and later lived at 219 Center Street, Auburn.

Lavina lived in Altona with her husband, Andrew, whom she married, 21 September 1865. They had 9 children. She is buried in an unmarked grave in Evergreen beside her parents.

Elizabeth Ann married Hugh Antrup, mother of George and lived in Union Township 1874, Jackson township 1886 and Auburn Junction in 1908.

Pricilla Ann and George Davis were wed 23 October 1873 and lived in Altona. They were the parents of Orton, Clyde and Almeda.

Eliza Ellen was single at age 37 when her father died and no records have been found for her after that.

With William's passing "another of the old pioneers has gone from our midst."

Moses and Sarah Masters

MOSES BALDWIN AND SARAH (MOCHAMER) MASTERS, pioneers of DeKalb County. Also about my parents, Frank and Anna Reesch.

Grandpa was an interesting individual. He wore his hair longer than usual and a full beard. He was proud of his appearance as he loved having his picture taken by professional photographers who came to the house as this was before the popularity of home cameras.

Another idiosyncrasy was that he didn't trust banks and he liked having his money in gold, which was then very available. Because he paid for most purchases with gold coins, people got the impression that there must be gold buried on his land. However, his income was just ample for a comfortable living in those times; so I am sure there was nothing to stash away.

As a momento, I still have two $5 gold pieces which he gave me when I was a child, which was many years ago as I am 80 years old. He also liked to tell of his many varied experiences.

Grandpa was born in 1834 in Portage County, Ohio. At age 6 he came to DeKalb County and walked two miles each way to and from school through the unbroken forest. To protect themselves from animals and snakes, children carried weapons and he told of occasions when he had to use them. He only attended school 4 or 5 years, but his hand writing was very good and he was an ardent reader — especially of the Bible.

At age 17, he went to Michigan and worked in the pine woods and on into the lumber camps of Wisconsin, where he killed a bear with a knife in a hand struggle.

In 1861, he enlisted in the Union Army in the Civil War and fought in several battles around Virginia, ending up in a Pennsylvania Hospital. He was honorably discharged for disability 28 January 1863. He must have sufficiently recovered to re-enlist 2 September 1864, in the 29th Regiment of Indiana Volunteers, and was honorably discharged 19 May 1865.

In 1866, Grandpa started working in Auburn as a blacksmith journeyman. In 1871, he married Sarah Mochamer, who was born in 1839 and came with her parents from Ohio to Jackson Township when 2 years old. They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. Three children were born to this union, two of whom died of diptheria when very young. A daughter, Anna Ellen, born in 1875 survived.

In 1887, Grandpa bought 3 lots in Auburn at the end of South Baxter Street. There was a large house and barn, and he built a blacksmith shop and went into business for himself.

My grandparents were devout followers of the 7th Day Adventist Faith. They were of high morals and considered a debt almost a sin, as also did my parents.

Grandpa was an active outdoors man and stayed in relatively good health, but succumbed to pneumonia at the age of 87.

This is a quote from the Evening Star: "In the death of Mr. Masters, the city has lost an honored resident and the community a kind neighbor and friend."

Anna Ellen Masters had a talent for oil painting and for writing poetry. She spent two years in nurses training at the Battle Creek Sanatarium in Michigan. She was not only a good homemaker, but was a leader in the WCTU.

In 1900, she married Frank Reesch and grandpa insisted that they live with them, which they did for a long time. All three of their daughters were born there: Beulah Gushwa, deceased; Amber Myers, Evansville; and Betty Stewart, Marion, Indiana. We girls always had several animal pets. A gray mare named "Pet" pulled a fringed top surrey to give us transportation. We especially loved to watch Grandpa pump the bellows and pound the red hot metal into shape on the anvil.

My father served in the Spanish-American War and was honorably discharged. He was a carpenter and worked for the Kiblinger Buggy Company. He was a most ambitious and good person. Even with a 10-hour-a-day job, he always raised vegetables on 3 lots to assure a bountiful table for his family.

He later worked for a contractor and was in charge of the finishing work on the McIntosh High School Gymnasium. He helped to build the house on South Cleveland Street for our family when we left grandpa's. He later built the house at 220 Baxter where we lived until the death of grandpa when dad remodeled the old homestead and we moved back to care for Grandma.

Grandma loved us grandchildren, but it was in the Roaring Twenties when she last lived with us and it was most difficult for her to accept the short dresses, bobbed hair and jazz music of those times. In fact, she interpreted a passage of scripture to mean that a curse would be on anyone who cut their tress. In respect for her feelings, I was about the last of my peers to cut my hair, and when I did, it caused her needless worry, as I have been blessed with an exceptionally good life.

Grandma had no special infirmities, but she spent most of her time just rocking in her chair by the window, as she had no outside interests and seldom anyplace to go. What a comparison with us old folks today, who drive hither and yon and have outside associations almost daily. Grandma lived only a day after suffering a stroke in 1928.

My parents, Frank and Anna Reesch, lived on in the homestead until the death of my father in 1943, at the age of 75. After which mother came to Marion, Indiana and lived for 18 years with our family. She kept a keen interest in world affairs and enjoyed the activities of many organizations and the church until her sudden death of a heart attack at age 86.

Betty Stewart

BETTY REESCH, born 21 January 1907, has seen and felt a part of more dramatic changes in the world than could ever take place again. She feels privileged to have lived in such an interesting period.

Her childhood was very good, but uneventful, as she was raised in a home with loving parents, Frank and Anna Reesch, and loving grandparents, Moses and Sarah Masters. Betty has two older sisters, Beulah and Amber.

Betty attended DeSoto School, which was only two blocks from her house at 216 Baxter Street. For her 8th year she had to walk a very long distance to the Jr. High in the extreme west end of town. Theirs was the first freshman class to enter McIntosh High, which was then considered quite luxurious.

Betty graduated in 1925 with a class of 57. She has always been grateful to have attended a small school, as she had the privilege of participating in activities of the music department and being a member of the girls basketball team, despite her amateur skills. This gave her self confidence that was most valuable in later life.

Following graduation, Betty was offered a stenographic position with the Auburn Automobile Company. She worked there from 1925 to 1937, being one of the last employees when the plant closed in Connersville.

Those years were some of the most interesting of her life. They were like one big happy family, proud of their company and willing to work overtime without thought of compensation. It was this attitude that allowed the company to be creative to such an extent that today Auburn is famous as Capitol of the Classics.

Betty married Everett Stewart in 1931. He had come to Auburn with his parents in 1922, as they had retired from a farm near Avilla and had bought and were operating a grocery store on East 9th Street.

Everett also graduated in 1925 and started working in the Trim Shop, but was soon advanced to the Cost Department office and later he became a Purchasing Agent.

During the depression years when the company was consolidating and retrenching, both Everett and Betty were lucky to hold their jobs. We were shifted back and forth between the Auburn and Connersville offices - often not at the same time. however, just to have jobs compensated for all the inconveniences. finally, in 1937, everything closed, but within a month Everett was offered a job with the Marion Malleable Iron Works at Marion, Indiana and he remained there for 30 years when he retired at the age of 60. He was active in volunteer work until he suffered a heart attack and died within a few hours at the age of 71 in 1978.

When in Auburn, Betty was a member of Sigma Beta Sorority and held most local offices. In 1936, she was elected National President and was awarded "Life Membership."

After moving to Marion, she became involved in the work of many civic and social organizations and the Presbyterian Church. Her most noteworthy job as a volunteer was that of Public Relations Chairman for the Girl Scouts. She wrote a pageant and with the help of leaders and volunteers produced it. Almost 600 girls participated; all dressed in costumes of various countries and performed native dances.

Everett and Betty organized the first Duplicate Bridge Club in Marion with a membership of about 50 players. This was affiliated with the American Bridge League. Several organizations asked Betty to teach the game of bridge, so she took a teachers course in Chicago under the direction of Charles Goren, world expert, and earned a Master Bridge Teacher's license. She is a Charter member of the American Bridge Teachers Association. Everett and she both held players' rating of "Life Master." Periodically for over 35 years Betty has conducted bridge classes for organizations in Marion and surrounding towns.

In 1974, Everett and Betty were Bridge Directors on the S.S. Michelangelo on a Caribbean Cruise, which was a most exciting experience.

Traveling was another hobby and they have been in every state, including Hawaii, but not Alaska; also most of Canada and quite a number of the Caribbean and Bahama Islands.

Their only child, Judith Ann, was born in 1941. She graduated from Ball State with a nursing degree. Judith married William Bishop and lives in Marion. They have a son, a Freshman at Ball State, and a daughter, a junior in high school. Like her ancestors, Judith is involved in social and civic activities.

JOHN MARTIN MUHN AND ROSIE ANN ELLEN MUHN came to Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana some years after they were married, and lived several places in the county on farms prior to purchasing ten acres on North Eckhart Avenue, Auburn, where they lived for the rest of their lives together.

John, son of Ellen (Hartzell) and Michael Muhn, who had eight children; William, Perry, George, John, Myrtle, Emma, Minnie and James.

Michael died shortly after the last of the children was born and Ellen lived in the South end of Auburn and made her living as a widow doing laundry and herself raising her children without help from outside sources.

Due to family circumstances and lack of financial resources, John left school when he was only twelve years of age and worked in the lumber camps as a boy-helper to the teamsters who in those days had horses, not trucks. He fell in love with teaming and his lifelong goal was to own the best team of horses he could afford to buy, and then year by year, buy the best possible team of horses available anywhere as his own personal team.

John remained a teamster, hauling gravel, sand, and such for many, many years to the people of Auburn and vicinity, and only retired after his wife of many years, Ellen, died.

Ellen, daughter of Mary Ann (Kistler) and Harris Hensinger, who were rather well to do farmers and prominent church and community leaders, parents of six children: Rosalda Ann, Sarah Jane, Mary Ann, John, Michael, Rosie Ann Ellen and Michael Muhn.

John and Ellen had nine grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren.

Rosie Ann Ellen Hensinger lived with John Martin Muhn, her husband, some eleven years after their marriage in Allen County, when they then moved to DeKalb County where they spent the next 48 years of their lives.

Rosie Ann Ellen was truly a feminist and emancipated woman, although in those days the terms were unknown. She established a fine home based on the Holy Scriptures, lives in peace with her friends and neighbors, and in addition ran a small business of her own which included her chickens and eggs, her butter and milk sales, her orchard of apples, pears, plums, and cherries, her berry patch of gooseberries and other such berries and her sales of corn and beans and other garden produce. She did her own canning, managed her home and business, and still found time to be a good mother, a good neighbor and a good Christian.

Rosie Ann Ellen Muhn was in good health most of her life, worked hard and kept long hours. In later life, she was injured in an automobile accident, recovered, and did her own work with help of a cane. On 10 February 1947 she fell on the ice at her home and broke her hip. This resulted in various complications and she died 2 April 1947.

John married Bertha Wimer, born 25 December 1902. They became the parents of Esther May, Ruth Alice, Willis Irvin and Paul Jacob.

Life was quite primitive when he was young. He climbed a ladder to his sleeping quarters in a loft and often found snow on his bed covers. As a teenager, John rode horseback to Fort Wayne with grain to be ground into flour.

John's parents moved to a farm, near Waterloo around 1900, of which he received twenty acres on which he built their first house for helping clear the land.

He received no more than a fourth grade education in the public schools but was industrious and had an inventive mind, having designed and bulit several potato harvesting machines, before any such implements were on the market. He improved his early manufactured potato digger to be the first machine which would put potatoes in bags instead of them having to be picked up by hand. John also designed and built a chain brusher which cleaned and graded the potatoes, an elevator to move bales of hay to upper barn loft, etc. He raised many acres of potatoes on their muck land in Jackson Township.

The rafters for the round roofed barn which stands on that farm were made by John personally. He first built a large wooden floor then nailed blocks onto it to make a form into which he wound several one-inch boards of green lumber probably five or six inches wide which had been recently sawed from trees out of the woods on the farm. These he nailed together while they were in the forms and allowed to dry there.

The Souders later moved west of Auburn for twenty years. His hobby in later years was using his wood and metal lathes to turn out lamp bases, what-not shelves etc. and fishing.

Bertha, born 27 August 1885, in Hudson, Wisconsin to John and Lydia Alice (Coats) Wimer/Wymer/Weimer. She was valedictorian of her class in 1902. GEORGE FREDERICK and his wife, Anna Marie (Fryberger) Frederick, sold the family farm in Stark County, Ohio, in 1864 and with their nine children: Charlotte; David; John; Frank; Henry; Ruby; Rachel; Adella; and William Joseph, left the area in Stark and Columbiana counties that had been the home territory for the family since the mid 1700's when Nicholas, George's great grandfather, had arrived from Germany. They migrated to Indiana and bought 44 acres in Fairfield township, DeKalb County, and 80 acres directly across the county line road in Salem Township, Steuben County. Only a log house and several crude buildings graced the homestead. Very little of the land had been cleared and improved. In the ensuing years, most of the land was cleared, and fences built with rails that had been split from the logs of trees fell to clear the land. A sizable barn had been built, and in 1870, they built a large house. In the meantime, five more children had been born: Lidia; Mary; William A.; Tim; and Amos, making fourteen in all. George was an ordained minister and served the Evangelical Church that had been built on the corner of their farm. In later years, Amos, the youngest of the family, married Ona Shuman, youngest daughter of George and Maria (Beck) Shuman, who lived across the lake in Salem Township. At that time Amos took over the duties of the farm, and later, following the death of his father in 1905, and his mother in 1916, in Hudson, where they had moved at the time of their retirement, Amos and Ona bought the home farm. Meanwhile, through intensive home study and practical experience, he became a self-educated veterinary, or "horse-doctor" as they were called in that day. In August, 1894, a daughter, Beatrice, was born to them, and grew up to young womanhood. Graduating from Ashley High School in the class of 1914. A year later married Karl Miller, the eldest son of Monte and Pearl Miller, nearby neighbors. Two years later they moved to Gary, where Karl worked as a carpenter and later as a contractor. Four children, Robert, Lois, Wilda, and William were born to them. Karl died at their retirement home in Constantine, Michigan in 1975, aged 86, and Beatrice in Valparaiso, Indiana in 1978, aged 83. In 1904, a son, Trevor, "Ted" was born and grew up on the farm. He attended Indiana University, a short time before returning home to take over the operation of the farm at the illness and death of his father, in 1928. In 1936, he left the farm to work in the accounting department of the Sheet Mill division of U.S. Steel Company in Gary. In 1938, he and Olive Deihl, eldest daughter of Harry and Bertha Deihl of Garrett were married. Olive had attended Indiana State before transferring to Butler University to receive her degree. She taught in Garrett school system for 14 years, and in the Hobart schools for 26 years, where they moved after they were married. After the death of Ona Frederick in 1949, they bought the home farm, making this the third generation of ownership since 1864. After their retirement, Trevor, in 1969 and Olive, in 1972, they completely rebuilt the farm house and returned there to live. They have rebuilt and modernized the buildings on the farm, and divide their time between this and their winter home near Leesburg, Florida, which they bought in 1976.

"The Farm," as they now call it, is listed in the rolls of the Indiana Homestead Farms, having been in continuous family ownership since 1 April 1864.

FRANK ALBRIGHT, born in the Northeast corner of Grant Township in a log house. The farm was divided equally to each Elmer, brother of Frank, South and Frank North. Elmer and wife had several children. He ran a saw mill, threshing machine and farmed.

Frank and wife Anna had six children: Milan; Leona; Elmer; Lennie; William; and Eva.

Frank and Anna drove in a covered wagon to Kansas at a very young age. Milan was born in Kansas. Coming home to Indiana in the same covered wagon, they were followed by two horse riders who followed them two days and two nights. The riders would camp back a few hundred feet. On the third morning Grandpa thought it was time for them to leave so he took his rifle and shot their frying pan off their fire. The riders left and Frank and Anna came on to Indiana where they settled in a wooded area, east of Moore. They cleared some of the land and farmed and also farmed where Frank was born. Their first home was small. The outside walls were filled with clay for insulation, later a two story addition was added. The barn was built in 1878.

Later, Granddad bought a cement block machine. He and the boys handmade cement blocks and built the house that is still there in the woods. George Burns was carpenter on all the buildings.

Frank built a blacksmith shop and did lots of work for the neighbors and also taught the boys how to blacksmith and how to work.

My grandparents on mother's side, Virgil and Mary (Speaker) Blauvelt, had four girls: Lulu; Bessie; Bertha; and Samantha.

Milan married Bessie Blauvelt and had three girls: Lola; Iva; and Mildred. William married Bertha Blauvelt and had two boys: Ivan, of Plainfield; and Albert, of Auburn. Elmer never married, he did farming and helped Granddad. Milan build a blacksmith shop. Later, he built a cement block home at Moore. William built a cement block house on the southwest corner of Frank's farm, where he did construction work and worked at the blacksmith in the winter. Ivan was born in this home of William and Bertha.

William and Bertha, with Ivan, moved to Mishawaka, Indiana. Ivan married Veda Partridge. They had two boys: Jack and Jim, both married. John Boyd and Alice Brown had a large family. There is two surviving: Gilbert Boyd, 308 North Union, Auburn, and a son Wayne, on road 11A off I-69 West. Ruth (Boyd) Albright, the wife of Albert Ralph Albright, 110 West 1st Street, Auburn. We were married 2 October 1924. We lived in Dads house and I worked at DeWitts General Store at Moore from 1925-1929. I ran a huckster wagon through the week during the summer. During Fall we weighed and cared onions and potatoes, hauled coal, bought and hauled poultry. Did all things necessary to run a business. After leaving the store I hauled gravel on a Model T Ford Truck until 1929. I worked at Dickmeyer Cheverolet until 1933. Then worked at Rohm Cheverolet and Buick from 1933 through 1954. I had a heart attack and could not do any work for several years, and now I am retired.

There were huckleberry marshes back of the John Boyd farm, and also Tamarack trees grew in that area, a pine variety of tree.

Moore was and is located on Road 49 between Road 40A and Road 34. The Vandalia Railroad ran from Logansport to Butler, branch of the Pennsylvania system. Moore is located between Auburn and Butler where we received freight and passenger service. Twenty cents a ride to Auburn or Butler.

JACKSON A. LONG, born 30 December 1868 in DeKalb County on the site of the present City of Garrett, in a log house that stood where the present drug store stands. His father was Samuel Harrison Long, born in Summit County, Ohio, 3 October 1842. His mother was Marietta (Wiant) Long who was born in Champaign County, Ohio, 10 March 1838, the daughter of John and Lydia Wiant. They were married, 3 May 1866 in Summit County, Ohio.

The parents of Harrison Long were Christian and Barbara Ann (Fike) Long who moved from Summits County, Ohio to Noble County, Indiana in about 1844. In 1852, the father bought forty acres of land where the city of Garrett now stands, and they lived there until the Garrett Land Company bought his land at forty dollars an acre, the deed being issued on 22 October 1874. Six hundred and four and a half acres were acquired from twelve landowners all of whom resided in log cabins.

Harrison Long worked at the Carpenter trade. At the age of twenty, he enlisted in August of 1862, as a private with Company A of the 100th Indiana Volunteer Infantry. He engaged in several important battles of the War. At the time of final surrender he was at Raleigh, North Carolina and from there marched to Washington where he took part in the Grand Review, being mustered out the the United States service on the Eighth day of June, 1865.

Harrison Long had six children: Perry; Jackson; Lydia; Ida; Artie; and Orville. The two older children were already married when, on 11 April 1894 he and his wife and four younger children left DeKalb County and located in Benzonia, Benzie County, Michigan where he rented a farm. Subsequently he bought one hundred and sixty acres of land. After his wife's death, he married Mrs. Mary Francis Stafford of DeKalb County, 23 May 1858. He died at Beulah, 16 October 1925.

Jackson Long was married to Lillian May Grosh on 16 November 1893, the daughter of Samuel and Isabella (Opdyke) Grosh. Mr. Grosh was a buhr dresser for the grist mills of the time. Mrs. Grosh was a school teacher in her early years and after her husband's death at the age of 53, she started a rooming house in their home in the south part of Auburn.

Jackson and Lillian (Grosh) Long were the parents of five children, namely: Mrs. Ora E. (Edna Long) Donley; Mrs. Hubert (Hazel Long) Bowman; Mrs. Leal (Nellie Long) Woolever; Donald Raymond Long; and Mrs. Walter A. (Helen Long) Higgins.

Jackson Long spent his life in farming. After marriage he took over the operation of one hundred and sixty acres, known as the Hayes farm, which his parents had rented. When they moved to Michigan, in 1894, he continued to take care of the farm for ten years. Later he bought sixty acres, known as the Huffman farm. This farm was boggy, but he tiled it, doing much of the work himself. A creek, known as the Peckhart Drain, ran the entire length of the farm. Twenty-five acres were in timber. By fencing off the creek he had forage and water for his livestock thus freeing the fields for farming. He made use of woods for building a fine, large barn. At the age of eighty, he still climbed to the top to oil the hay carriage.

At the age of seventy-seven, he needed to have a major operation and it was necessary for him to dispose of his livestock. He rented the farm to Mr. C.C. (Tib) Muhn, who, with migrant workers, prepared the fields for the raising of tomatoes. After two years of rest he had the urge to return to farming and to getting the fields back in proper rotation. He bought a team and during a season plowed all of the ground and got it back in the proper order.

Jackson died, 19 February 1952.

ARTIMUS BARNEY HEFFELFINGER, bought fifty-three acres in Butler Township on the east side of a creek in the area now known as Holiday Lakes. In 1908, George Heffelfinger, his brother, bought forty-five acres on the west side of the creek. The soil was mostly sandy loam. There was a house, barn, shed and chicken coop on Barney's farm. The house was remodeled in 1920, the Heffelfinger family living in a shed until it was completed. Dr. Carpenter years later built a home where these farm buildings stood.

Barney was a truck farmer, raising melons, strawberries, cabbage, tomatoes, onions and potatoes. Once a week, in season, he brought a load of produce to the Baltimore and Ohio Shop in Garrett and sold it to the men who were employed there. He was well-known for his musk melons. Since experimenting was one of his hobbies, he crossed the seed of the big flat-tasting melon with a very sweet small melon. The result was a sweet large melon with a distinctive flavor all its own.

As truck farming required more moisture than the rains provided, he dammed up the creek and made the first overhead irrigation system in DeKalb County by pumping water through pipes which sprayed it on the produce. The system was operated by a gasoline engine.

Since he had to haul the produce to Garrett, he bought the first truck in the county and it was a Nash. When he no longer used it, this truck sat for years in Garrett where Dave's Auto Parts is now located.

In 1920, McAfee Gravel Company tested Barney's farm for gravel. This was done by digging five foot square holes which were seven feet deep on several locations on the farm. Finding it rich with gravel, they purchased the farm from Barney and he moved his family to Allen County.

Barney and his wife, Mary (Hollopeter) Heffelfinger had seven daughters and two sons. Three daughters, Iva, Vonell, and Laura attended Garrett High School. Iva graduated, went to college and became a grade school teacher and taught in several DeKalb County schools. She married Stanely Potter of Auburn and resided for years at 215 West Fourth Street in Auburn.

Keith Miles Heffelfinger, the youngest son, hired out on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in 1941 where he worked for thirty-five years before retiring. He and his wife, Ruth (Hess) Heffelfinger, bought a twenty-acre farm in Keyser Township located at 1012 County Road 40 in 1949. There they raised three sons and a daughter, David, Mary, Mark, and Keith James. Prior to the Vietnam War Keith James was also employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He also served in the Navy during the Vietnam War.

The farmhouse on the Heffelfinger farm was erected in 1895, A log schoolhouse was erected on this place prior to the Civil War and was used for both school and church services.

HANS ADAM SHILLLING, was the first Shilling immigrant to come to this country among one hundred and fifty others. He came from the region of the Rhine in Germany, 11 October 1733, and located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. As those immigrants including Hans Adam Shilling had to take a stiff oath of allegiance to England upon entering Pennsylvania, this made it very difficult to enter the rebellion of the colonies. In spite of this fact, John Shilling, son of Hans Adam Shilling, was among the first to enter this rebellion. He was registered in the Continental Army, the original army of the colonies and George Washington's own army.

Hans Adam Shilling, born 1732, died 1796, making him sixty-four years old when he died. His name appears in heads of family at that time. It is found in the records of Cumberland County that two of his sons, John and Jacob, and their wives, Barbara and Katheleen, sold a farm of one hundred and fourteen and three quarters acres for seven hundred pounds in 1794, which they had purchased in 1772. They were Hopewell Township farmers.

Adam Shilling, son of John Shilling, born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, 11 February 1792, and came to where Spencerville, Indiana is at this time and died, 17 October 1881, at 89 years of age. This Adam Shilling was the father of Solomon Shilling and grandfather of the deceased Adam and wife Malinda Shilling. This Adam was the father of the present day Howard and wife Ethel Shilling of St. Joe, Indiana. They are the parents of two sons: Richard; and James, who each had two sons, Edward and Donald of Spencerville, and Jerry and Mike of South Whitely, Indiana.

Adam, the great-grandfather of Howard, was a farmer and also preached the gospel. He had a scholarship to Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, in 1853 which he purchased for fifty dollars. It was a three year scholarship. When he came to what is DeKalb County, Indiana, he brought a draft for $5,000 for which he bought land for his eight children, four boys and four girls, giving each boy 160 acres and each girl 80 acres. These ancestors raised cattle, also bought and sold them. To market them, they drove them down the road, just a little different than they do today.

The one hundred and sixty acres that he gave his son, Solomon, is now the present 160 acres that Howard and wife, Ethel now live on and is located in section 19 in Spencer Township. It is now being farmed by their son, James. This house is listed as, "A Hoosier Homestead Farm of Indiana Historical Bureau, owned by same family for 150 years. Seal of the state of Indiana 1816."

Solomon then built a log house on the north eighty of this section of land. On this same strip of land is located what the state forrester says is the state's third largest three in Indiana. It is a white oak and supposed to be five hundred years old. It is twenty feet around, two feet above the ground.

JOSEPH E. SHILLING, born 18 June 1818 in Tuscarawas Township, Stark County, Ohio, where on 16 April 1840 he married Anna Catharine Hornberger, born 5 May 1821. About three months after their wedding, the couple moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, the deed for their land dated 8 August 1840, recorded in the Auburn Court House.

Joseph's roots in the United States run deep. They date from 1732, with the arrival of his great-grandfather, Hans Adam Shilling, at the Port of Philadelphia.

Joseph's grandfather was John Shilling, born September 1753 in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, died September 1804 in Letterkenney Township, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, served as a Private in the War of Independence from 1777 to August 1783. John Shilling married Barbara Oberlin, whose father, Adam Oberlin, also served in the Continental Army, he was a Sergeant in Captain Gear's Company of the 9th battalion of Pennsylvania. To the marriage of John and Barbara were born seven children: Catherine, Adam, John, Margaret, Samuel, Jacob and Peter...all of whom, by 1825, re-settled in Stark County, Ohio.

Adam Shilling, eldest son of John was born 11 February 1792 in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania: he married Mary Roan of Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, she was born

Christmas Day 1791, died 18 November 1864 in Stark County, Ohio. long after his marriage, Adam apparently, attended Heidelberg College in Tiffin, Ohio. A wealthy man, Adam gave to each of his sons 160 acres of farmland in DeKalb County, Indiana and 80 acres to each of his daughters. John, the eldest son, inherited the Stark County Homestead. But seven siblings established residence in DeKalb County, they were: Catharine, born 1813, married Peter J. Spangler, 27 June 1833; Joseph; Mary Polly Shilling, born 1 February 1819, married George Houck, 21 June 1838; Barbara Anna, born 1825, married William Kitzmiller, 12 March 1840; Solomon, born 15 March 1823, married Esther Bliler, 16 November 1848; Elizabeth, born 1826, married David Gratz, 29 May 1849; Daniel, born 4 February 1828, married Elizabeth Fryborger, 6 December 1851.

Like his father, Joseph E. Shilling was a bookish man, knowledgeable too, about techniques to maximize profits from agriculture and live-stock. A charter member of Auburn's Old Settler's Association, Joseph was one of some 20 co-owners of the Auburn Woolen Mills, that helped bring prosperity and employment to Auburn, that deed 'in trust' recorded 9 December 1875 in the Auburn Court House.

To Joseph and Anna were born 5 children: Clarinda Adaline, who married Levi Showalter; Elizabeth Ann, married another Showalter; Mary Jane, married David Naftzger; Isaac Newton, married Mary Gilmore of Steuben County, Indiana; Lyman Benton, married Elizabeth Johnson.

Joseph E. Shilling died in Auburn, 6 October 1882, age 64. His wife died, 6 April 1906, age 84. Both are buried in Evergreen Cemetery, Auburn, Indiana.

Lyman Shilling Family

LYMAN BENTON SHILLING, younger son of Joseph and Anna Catharine, born 26 April 1850 on the family farm, attended public schools in Auburn.

As a young man, he taught himself to "play the fiddle," he often provided music for lively Saturday night dances in town.

An amateur ornithologist, he is remembered by his grandchildren for his love of all creatures, great and small, and for deeply held conviction that everything in nature is inter-related.

He was the first of his family to abandon farming as a life-time occupation. From young manhood, his not-to-be-denied fascination with the horseless carriage led to his employment with the Eckhart Carriage Company, it poised on the threshold of the Automobile Age.

On 14 April 1872, he married Elizabeth Johnson, born 21 October 1849, called "Libby" in family circles. Of her parentage and background nothing is yet positively known.

Libby is remembered as a mild-mannered 'personality in her own right'. All her life, she, a quiet scholar, pursued her interest in Classic Greek Language and Literature, a subject she is said, by her children, to have taught in the Auburn Schools. She was also a pianist of considerable skill, who taught her children the rudiments of the piano...for their own pleasure.

In the Ralston Subdivision, now Douglas Street, Lyman and Libby had built for their use a modest 2 story Victorian home, where they lived most of their married lives. There, for almost 20 years, they tended Lyman's widowed mother, Ann Catharine, until her death.

From the Methodist marriage of Lyman and Libby four children were born: Blanche, born 17 June 1873, married Judge Daniel M. Link, 29 April 1899, Daniel, born 4 November 1872, and by him had two children, a daughter, Marion, and a son, Tom Marshall; Edwin Eugene Shilling, born 8 November 1875, married Molly Packer, born 17 February 1886, an orphan, no children; Carl Sylvester Shilling, born 8 October 1881, moved to Chicago early in 1911, 7 February 1919, married Elizabeth Agnes Rech and by her had two children, a daughter, Ruth Elizabeth and a son, Paul Frederick; Mae Leona, born 9 May 1886, married Earl Parker of Clearwater, Michigan, one son, Ralph.

On 27 August 1917, pneumonia claimed Libby's life. Her body was one of the first to be entombed in the then-new exquisite Woodlawn Mausoleum. Four years later, in August 1921, a diminished Lyman, but apparently in sound health, died suddenly in his sleep...while visiting his younger son, Carl and family.

His granddaughter well remembers his funeral service, held in the Woodlawn Mausoleum. Sunlight, streaming through an over-head cupola, created myraid tiny rainbows that flickered and danced on the blush-pink walls and ceilings...of the Classic Greek structure...that, with Lyman at her side, seemed so fitting a resting place for Libby.

CARL SYLVESTER SHILLING, younger son of Lyman and Libby, born 8 October 1881, educated in Auburn schools, all his life was a passionate student of the Arts and Humanities. Persistent family tales imply that he and his elder sister, Blanche, actively participated in an Auburn Repertory Theatre but have not been confirmed. As a young man, he took a correspondence course in draftsmanship that dictated his career as a civil engineer.

Carl was 31 when he left Auburn for employment with the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, as a draftsman in their downtown office in Chicago. On 7 February 1912, he married Elizabeth Agnes Rech, she was born 24 August 1891, daughter of Frederick John and Mary Eleanor (Reichert) Rech of Chicago.

To the marriage were born Ruth Elizabeth, 30 October 1913 and Paul Frederick, 16 April 1918. We grew up in a modest home in a quiet neighborhood on the northwest side of the city, Portage Park, and, as children, were generously exposed to the Fine and Performing Arts.

Carl's several careers as a civil engineer were always related to the railroad industry. For more than 15 years he was associated with the Pettibone Mullikan Company, suppliers of equipment for the nation's railroad network, as Chief Draftsman.

Temporarily unemployed during the Great Depression, he worked, at home, at his drawing-board, where he conceived what was called, in the industry, a revolutionary type of car bearing that vastly reduced hot boxes on freight and passenger cars. In 1947, he retired from the Edwin S. Woods Car-Bearing Company as President, his financial future assured.

In 1949, he and Beth moved to warmer climate in Springdale, Arkansas, there to enjoy a cozy new home. But not for long. After a brief illness, Carl died, 19 March 1951, age 70. Beth joined her daughter's family in Elmhurst, Illinois. She died, age 88, in Cape Coral, Florida, 3 September 1979.

As youngsters, Carl and Beth's children traditionally enjoyed a two week vacation at Crooked Lake, near Angola, invariably at one or another of Sheet's Cottages, within easy call of Carl's siblings and his host of Auburn-friends, too numerous to list here.

PAUL FREDERICK SHILLING, son of Carl Sylvester Shilling and Elizabeth, born 16 April 1918 in Chicago, educated at Grinnell College, Iowa. In 1941, Paul joined the U.S. Navy and served as a Lieutenant in the Pacific Theatre. While on leave in Los Angeles, on 10 September 1944, he married Ramona E. Roth, daughter of Elton Menno and Emma Roth, was born in Fort Wayne, Indiana, 23 April 1922. In 1945, Paul began a lifetime career with Sears Roebuck's West Coast Retail Credit Department. Due to deteriorating health, he retired as Credit Manager for the San Diego Retail Credit District in April 1975. Mr. Likens, son of Grover and Marguerite (Hampshire) Likens, had formerly worked at Warner Gear shortly after returning from the Navy in 1945. He left there after a short period of time and went to work for Keith Wilson of Butler in the masonry/construction business. He and his wife, Ruth, who was Secretary at the Waterloo Elementary School from 1965-1975, lived for a while on Rope Street, northeast of Waterloo, and later moved to a home on U.S. 6 one mile east of Waterloo. MAHLON E. RIEKE, was born at Iliad, Montana, in 1916 while his father was homesteading property there. He was two years old when his father decided to return to the Midwest starting his fledgling company in Chicago in 1921.

Mahlon moved to Auburn with the family in 1923 when he was seven, and has spent most of his life here.

He attended Auburn Schools, graduating from

Auburn High School in 1935. He attended Purdue University majoring in Mechanical Engineering. While at Purdue he was president of Sigma Nu social fraternity.

After college, in 1939, he returned to Auburn and went to work at what was then Rieke Metal Products Corporation as a draftsman in the engineering department.

He and his brothers, Glenn and Irvin, designed and developed many of the products that have made the company famous and prosperous, along with some of the machines used in their production.

Mahlon has served as chairman of the DeKalb County United Fund Drive and on the Board of Directors of DeKalb Memorial Hospital. He is a member of Greenhurst Country Club at Auburn, local Elks Club, the American Legion and the Summit Club of Fort Wayne.

But his favorite past-time, designing and building boats, remains his chief hobby and recreation.

He and his wife, Magaret, have four children: Mahlon E. Rieke II, Duane, David and a daughter Diann.

Mahlon loved working with his hands, and in his spare time he formed a company called Vanguard Power Boats that built boats. The company made runabouts, utility boats, cabin cruisers and specialized in hydroplanes and racing boats.

Boat-building was a labor of love, although Mahlon kept four employees active in addition to himself.

In 1942, with the advent of WW II, Mahlon enlisted in the U.S. Marine Corps. During basic training at Paris Island, South Carolina, he set a new world record for accuracy with the M-1— rifle, posting a score of 328 out of a possible prefect score of 340.

After "boot camp," Mahlon went to Officers Candidate School and Reserve Officers Schools at Quantico, Virginia, then to demolition and engineering school at Camp Lejune, North Carolina. From there he was sent to Saipan to join the Second Marine Division, Combat Engineer Battalion, and saw action at Saipan and Okinawa. Holding the rank of First Lieutenant, he served as commander of an Engineer company that built roads and bridges and handled demolition work.

After the war, he returned to Auburn and restarted his boat building business. A few years later, he joined the sales department of the Rieke Corporation. In time, he was promoted to assistant Sales Manager, then to executive vice-president and finally to the presidency. He was also President and Director of Rieke Canada, Ltd. and a member of the Board of Directors of Oren-VanAman Company, Incorporated, Division of Rieke Corporation.

IRVIN H. RIEKE, born in Chicago, 10 August 1901, and attended school at Oak Park, Illinois, a Chicago suburb. In 1910, his father moved the family to Montana to homestead. There he attended school at Iliad, and helped with the ranching.

Due to succeeding crop failures, the family moved back to Chicago in 1919. Irvin was employed as a mechanic by the Yellow Cab Company on Rush Street.

In the Spring of 1920, Irvin returned to Big Sky country of Montana alone to plant the spring wheat crop. But again, due to drought, it was dismal failure and the following June, he returned to Chicago.

In the meantime, his father had started a machine shop on Lake Street, which was titled T.W. Rieke Tool and Die Works. Upon Irvin's return, he helped his father in the shop and went to night school at Crane Technical Institute.

And so it was, The Rieke Company was born and began to grow. Young Rieke grew along with it and learned from the school of hard knocks the trials and tribulations of a young company.

The company was incorporated under the laws of the state of Illinois, but was later dissolved and re-incorporated under the laws of Indiana and was moved to Auburn. Irvin moved with it and more and more played an important part in its operation, first as a punch press operator, then as a machinist, a foreman, and superintendent of the plant.

He was elected President of the company in 1930 and served in that capacity until 1947. He then became Chairman of the Board and served in that post until 1965.

Irvin has been instrumental in developing many patents now held by the company, but probably the most outstanding of them was his contribution to development of the Flexspout pail closures. Irvin also designed machinery which has been patented and is now in use in many customer plants.

Of his other interests, Irvin owned and operated the Ox Bow Ranch at Wolf Creek, Montana, consisting of more than 25,000 acres of beautiful mountainous countryside. He acquired it in 1934 and sold it in 1970.

Irvin has been very interested and quite active in aviation most of his life. He obtained his first pilot's license in 1932. He holds a multi-engine instrument rating for most all types of land planes.

He has owned and operated Gillis Aviation at

Billings Airport, Billings, Montana for the past several years, having the Piper Aircraft distributorship in approximately a three-state area.

His ranch in Montana is equipped with all types of home-made machinery. Many of his innovations in farm equipment have been studied and copied by large farm equipment manufacturers.

Irvin and his wife, Hilda, live in a new ranch home located on the beautiful Yellowstone River, approximately 10 miles from Billings, Montana.

They have four children: Rex, Tex, Ted, and a daughter Pattie Sue. From a previous marriage, Irvin also has a daughter, Dorothy Waluk, living in Auburn.

ABRAHAM BUSS, born 4 March 1816, at Mountfield Parish, Sussex, England, son of William and Lucy (Woodbury) Buss. He died at his home in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 9 April 1890, his age being seventy-four years, one month and five days. He was baptized in childhood according to the rites of the Church of England.

At the age of fourteen, he went to live with a gentleman named, Benjamin Smith, a member of the English Parliment. On 1 April 1830, Mr. Smith accompanied by Abraham, his brothers and sisters, embarked for america on the ship Columbia. They arrived in New York on 5 May, after thirty-five days at sea.

They traveled, seeing many points of interest, New York, Montreal, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, on 10 May 1831, a year later they arrived back in England.

In August 1841, ten years later, Abraham left London with his sister, Delia and her husband, John Butt. In New York, they stayed with Mr. Butt's brother, Richard, who later married Abraham's sister, Jane, till October. Then they went to Indiana to look for a home.

Abraham is said to have been able to halt a runaway team of horses on the carriage of the English Queen Victoria 1837-1901 and was awarded a purse with money.

He served in the Queen's Navy and is reported to have been shipwrecked once. The life raft drifted on the ocean for several days and the water supply was exhausted. With no hope of rescue in sight, the unhappy sailors were about to sacrifice one of their number to be able to survive, one man who was rather plump seemed to be a logical choice. Fortunately, for him, the raft was sighted by a passing ship and they were rescued.

While in the navy, his ship docked in Boston Harbor. News of the world was always appreciated and it was the custom to invite the ship's crew into homes to hear the latest. Abraham was a guest in Boston where he met Lucy Woodbury, a visitor in the home. He returned to his ship, but the next time it was in Boston, he left to inquire about Lucy and never returned to the ship. She had returned to her home in Castile, Wyoming County, New york and he went a courting.

They were married, 19 July 1852. He was thirty-six and she was twenty-years old.

He had traveled over much of Europe. In 1849, he went to California ''Gold Rush Days'' and later to South America.

The newly married couple came to Indiana where he had been several years ago and had lived in Fairfield Center, Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, but Lucy had relatives in Charles City, Iowa, so they went west.

Two children were born in Iowa; John, born 1853, died in infancy, Frank, born in 1855. They moved back to Indiana, they had four children born here; Lafayette, Eva Anna, born 8 March 1860, Celia and Oscar.

They lived in Auburn for a while and Abraham helped to clear the forest trees to make room for Auburn's main street.

He bought a farm in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County and spent the rest of his life there. His wife, Lucy, died in 1880. She was forty-eight years old.

Abraham lived ten years longer, died in 1890 age seventy-four years. He was buried in Waterloo Cemetery.

Abraham Buss was a successful farmer and shrewd business man. He was thirty-six years old when he came to America to make his home.

At his death, he had provided well for his family. To each of his sons, he had given a farm and to each of his daughters, he had given enough money to buy a farm.

While living in Fairfield Township, a cousin, Kizia, had come to live with the family. One day some strangers from England called. They had come to find Abraham Buss. Kizia sent them away with out any information as to the nature of their errand, but they were heard from again. After the death of Abraham, in 1890, son, Frank, passed away three years later, and daughter Celia, married Levi Kessler.

Daughter, Eva, born 8 March 1860 and her unmarried brother, Lafayette continued to live on the farm. Lafayette died suddenly in 1898 from the fatal sting of an insect.

JOHN SUTHERLAND, married Eva Anna, born 8 March 1860, daughter of William and Lucy (Woodbury) Buss and they had two children: Myrtle Mae and Jay Abram. Myrtle married George Fassbinder of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, they were the parents of three children.

Jay Abram, born 2 October 1902, attended grade school at Shipe School, Fairfield Township from the eighth grade and entered high school at Ashley High School, Smithfield Township and graduated in 1921/1922 school year as salutatory of the class.

After graduating from High School, he went to Florida to live with an uncle and remained in Florida for two and a half years. While in Florida, he opened up an advertising agency called "The Dime Ad Service." He operated the agency for two years then returned to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania with his sister and took a job with a big department store, Rosenbaum's, as assistant toy buyer. Was employed there for about three years, then came back to Fort Wayne and took a job at a big store, The Dessular Brothers as buyer.

His mother was still on the farm living alone. She became sick, so he quit his job and came back to the farm to take care of her. She passed away in July 1929.

Then Jay married Hazel Żolman, 15 March 1930. Jay and Hazel bought the farm, but rented it to Leslie and Esther Leins for one year. Jay took a job with Rollie Muhn, as sales person, who owned and operated the "Toy Factory," which was located just south of Waterloo, Indiana. Jay was in charge of the display at "The Toy Fair" in New York City, New York which was held every year, for the purpose of different companies showing their products for sales people as buyers to select merchandise for their stores. It was a "Traders Fair." After the show, they opened a toy store at the "New Burke Glen Park" on the William Pen Highway, outside of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania which he and his wife operated until the close of the park in the fall. They returned to Fort Wayne, Indiana and Jay was still employed with Rollie Muhn. Soon after there was a fire that destroyed the toy factory and the tragic death of Martha, in the fire, wife of Rollie Muhn.

Jay and his wife moved to the farm and engaged in farming.

In 1934, they had their first daughter, Evanell Ann and 1938 another daughter, Darlene Marie. Evanell married Argyl Lee Shenk of Butler Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. They were the parents of two sons: Dennis Lee, Butler Township, DeKalb County. Douglas Alan, Butler Township, DeKalb County. Douglas married Denise Louise (Lienerth), they are the parents of Stephanie Ann and Matthew; Darlene, married John Daniel Scranage of Smithfield Township, DeKalb County, Ashley, Indiana. They are the parents of six children: John Daniel II, Mark Jay, Steven Ray, Joan Marie, Anne Marie and Beth Marie. John Daniel II, married Robyn Lynn Wells.

Jay was a successful farmer and farmed until his death, 17 October 1967. While farming, Jay was County Supervisor for the ASC farm program in DeKalb County. He passed away the day he retired.

LUCY WOODBURY, daughter of John and Nancy Woodbury, cousin to Mrs. William Roberts of Wilmington Township and niece to the late Ephriam Woodbury, well known to the old habitats in and around Auburn. She was born at Castile, Wyoming County, New York, where she lived until her marriage, which occurred, 19 July 1852. About twenty years ago she connected herself with the Lutheran Church at Fairfield Center, continuing a zealous member until her death. While feeling a preference for the Presbyterian denomination, yet her very nature was so imbued with those great christian principles, that every field found a devoted laborer in the cause of the Great Master. She knew no creed nor classes, but labored with love and kindness and earnestness. After repeated efforts to maintain a Sunday School at the Center, Mrs. Buss concluded to try one at her home and her husband entering into the enterprise through great love he bore her. The barn floor was arranged and word sent out in the neighborhood for the children and parents to attend. Every Sabath brought increased numbers, and when time came to discontinue it on account of the weather, a more successful organization could not be found in the county. When spring returned, the whole neighborhood solicited her to reopen her school, but her poor health would not permit it. Thus by the purity of her motives, her genuine christianity and the power she exerted through love and kindness, she embalmed herself in the hearts of all with whom she came in contact and leaves not a single enemy to speak aught against her fair name.

Died, 27 January 1880, at the residence of her husband in Fairfield Township, Lucy, wife of Abraham Buss, in the forty-eighth year of her age.

Mrs. Buss was the mother of six children, one of whom died while an infant. Those remaining: Frank, aged twenty-four; Lafayette, twenty-two; Eva, nineteen; Celia, seventeen; and Oscar, ten, are kind, sober, affectionate and industrious children, evidencing the care and training of a christian mother. She has passed beyond the shining river. Though sadness lingers in her wake, though loving hearts are sad and bereaved, there is left behind a bright remembrance of purity, devotion and loving kindness that shall bind her kindered until all shall be joined anew in everlasting peace.

House.

A hole was chopped in the ice on the lake and he was totally immersed, only the minister let go and he slipped under the ice. The crowd was paralyzed except for the town drunk, who jumped in and pulled him out. Horatio swore then and there he wanted to be buried when the time came, on a hill overlooking water. The Hine lot in Waterloo Cemetery is just such a place and holds six generation of Hine's.

JAMES R. WATSON family moved to Auburn twenty-one years ago, they were pleased to find a small, friendly town similar to the one in which they were all born, Wabash, Indiana. His parents, Gordon L. and Golden (Moody) Watson were originally from Lafontaine, Indiana, and Greensburg, Indiana, respectively. They lived in Wabash where Jim, born 8 January 1927 and his younger brother, David, were born. Jim's dad was a Primitive Baptist minister and civil engineer. Maternal grandparents are Carl B. and J. Vera (Stone) Irelan, originally from Idaville, Indiana and Wabash, Indiana, respectively. Carl owned a coal and builders' supplies company, which was located on the old Wabash-Erie Canal locks in Wabash, and Vera had farming interests. Carolyn, born 30 July 1926, and two older sisters, Marcile, Mrs. H.W. Hahn, and Lois, Mrs. H. L. Speicher, were born in Wabash.

Carolyn and Jim dated while in high school. In fact, they realized later that they had been in the same private kindergarten. Carolyn graduated from DePauw University and Jim from Indiana University. His college was interrupted with WW II naval duty. Their marriage was in 1950.

Both Carolyn and Jim followed the teaching profession. Carolyn taught in an elementary school in Wabash until Christine K. was born, 28 December 1954. Jim taught one year in Lafontaine, Indiana; then came to Wabash as a teaching principal and then as supervising principal of all the elementary schools there, while continuing post graduate education through the Masters degree and the sixth year. Jeffery L. was born, 3 April 1958. In 1960 Jim accepted a superintendentcy in Lake Zurich, Illinois, for five years with one year's partial leave so he could earn an Ed. D at Indiana University. Their migration to Auburn was in 1965, when Jim became Superintendent of Schools of DeKalb County Central United School District. Both Chris and Jeff graduated from DeKalb High School.

As of 1986, Chris with a B.A. degree from DePauw University and a Masters from Indiana University, teaches kindergarten in the East

Noble School District. Jeff, with a B.A. from Butler University and an M.B.A. from Indiana University, is assistant comptroller for Mid States Engineering in Indianapolis. In 1986, he married Laura N. Hathaway, daughter of Dr. C.B. and Carol Hathaway of Auburn. Laura, a Butler University graduate, teaches at Pike Township in Marion County. They live in Noblesville.

Though their roots were elsewhere, the James Watson family has been enriched by the people, events and environment of DeKalb County.

JOHN AND HARRIET STRACK, settled on 120 acres of land located two miles east of St. Michael's church and north ⅔ mile in the early 1870's. In those days this area was called "The Tamarae Swamp" because of the many Tamarae trees growing there. I still have one Tamarae growing on the part of Grandfather's farm which I own.

Since there were so few acres cleared and fit for crops, Grandfather soon realized that he would need other income in order to care for his family, now grown to five children, my mother, Alice bring the youngest. He owned a fast team of horses and a good wagon so he began to make trips to Fort Wayne and New Haven to bring back loads of supplies for neighbors and merchants in Auburn and Waterloo, for extra money. One time when he and I were standing in front of the Court House in Auburn, viewing the Stone Lions there, he told me that he had hauled them from New Haven to Auburn and that they had come in from the east to New Haven by canal.

By 1891, my grandparents relocated to a farm near Van Wert, Ohio, but still kept 40 acres of original 120 in DeKalb County. My mother, Alice Strack, grew up in Van Wert, graduated from high school in 1903, and married my father Loy S. Brenneman. Paul, born 12 July 1908. By 1910, my parents moved back to DeKalb County and lived on Grandfather's 40 acre farm. So here begins my life in DeKalb County.

My Dad worked very hard the next 10 years clearing the land, all by hand. He raised potatoes, onions, and some corn.

I began my education in an old District No. 6 Pleasant Hill School; graduated from Waterloo High School in 1925. While in High School in 1922. I became interested in making my own radio set. To everyone's surprise it worked and I was able to pick up stations all over the country. My greatest thrill came during a quiet test of all American stations and I was able to bring in Station OAR in Lima, Peru.

After high school, I attended Tri-State College and Manchester College, earned a teacher's license and began teaching in 1927 in a one-room school located across the road from St. Michael's Church. I had grades 1 through 8. In a one-room school in those days, not only were you the teacher but the janitor, waterboy, the handyman, the repairman, nurse and general consoling agent when a little one fell down and hurt his knee. My annual salary was $800.00!

I bought my first brand new Ford Roadster in 1927 for $395.00. Of course, it was a Model T.

I taught 4 years in Smithfield Township, 36 more years in Fairfield Township, and my last year in Waterloo.

In 1929, I married a Fairfield Township teacher, Helen W. Deetz. To this union four children were born: Dean Brenneman, Marlene Bloom, Phyllis Weber, and Doneta Oswalt, the last daughter presently living in DeKalb County. My wife, Helen, passed away in 1952.

In 1954, I married Ferne J. Blue, a registered nurse working at Caylor-Nickel Clinic hospital in Bluffton. I still own my father's 40 Acre farm in Smithfield Township which has been in my family 110 years.

JAMES HARVEY WILSON, born 10 June 1939, south of Fairfield Center. He remained in the township until enlisting in the U.S. Air Force in 1956. After 8 years, serving in California, Mississippi, Tripoli-Libya-North Africa, Virginia, Alaska, Okinawa and Viet Nam was honorably discharged in 1964. He lived in Kendallville one year, moved to Los Angeles California in 1965. Deciding life in the fast lane was not for him, in August 1980 he returned to Indiana to stay. Hobbies are country music, fishing, reading, local history, genealogy. Employed by Starcraft Industries in Goshen, doing van conversions. Children of previous marriage, Katrina Irene, married Michael Watts, stationed in West Germany with son Matthew Ryan; Christianne Yvette, married Terry Watts, stationed Grand Forks North Dakota; Michael Barry, auto mechanic, Long Beach, California; Damon Eric, student, Sunnymead, California.

James' father, William Walter Wilson, was born 1877, near Carisle Indiana, a Spanish American War Veteran, he arrived in Fairfield Township 1926, residing until his death in 1947. Paternal grandparents were Garrett Monroe Wilson and Alice Levenia McDaniel, they spent their lives around LaPorte and South Bend.

His mother, Mabel Gladys McInturf, born 1904, survives as of October 1986. Maternal grandparents, Merritt McInturf, native of Fairfield Township, was a farmer, rabbit breeder, swine raiser, and local butcher. His ancestors came from Licking County, Ohio, homestead in 1844 near U.S. Highway 6 and the DeKalb/Noble County line. When his father died in 1916, the estate was literally "split down the middle." Merritt took a log saw, cut the existing farmhouse in half, and using native-wood rollers and horses, drug it over several hills to where it sets today. For years he also displayed, a live-born, stuffed calf that had 6 legs, 3 ears, and 2 tails.

Grandmother Amanda Belva Miller's ancestors migrated from Wayne County Ohio to settle south of Helmer. A teacher's aid, loved flowers, gardening and farm life.

Kay Davis Wilson, born in 1943, daughter of George and Lucille Peters, in South Sioux City, Nebraska, where 5 generations of her family are living. Paternal grandparents George Edward Peters Sr. and Martha Josephine Wolf; Maternal grandparents, Earl Van Hickel and Frances Helen Meyer, were farmers and lifelong natives of that area. MICHAEL SHANK BROWAND, born in Erie, Pennsylvania, in 1834, the second child of David M. and Catherine (Shank) Browand. Upon reaching adulthood, Michael moved to New Haven, Indiana, where he was engaged in farming. In 1857, Michael and Mary Jane Lamb were married. They already had two daughters and were expecting a third child when the Civil War broke out. On 8 August 1862, Michael Browand enlisted in the 88th Regiment of the Indiana Infantry, Company D. Two of his brothers from Kendallville also enlisted in the Indiana Infantry, and several cousins from Pennsylvania fought with the Union Army, one losing his life from the wounds he had suffered. Michael was wounded in December 1862, while fighting at the battle of Stone's River in the campaign against Murfreesboro, Tennessee. On or about 1 October 1863, he was taken prisoner but escaped and took part in the scaling of Lookout Mountain and the "Battle Among the Clouds."

The 88th Regiment fought the long campaign with Sherman's army when he made his move against Atlanta. On 7 June 1865, the regiment was mustered out in Washington, D.C., and Michael Browand went home.

Mary Jane and Michael Browand had nine children: six girls and three boys. One of their sons, William Aaron, was born 4 April 1876, in Kendallville, Indiana.

"Willie" grew up in Kendallville and Fort Wayne. As did his father before him, Willie served in the U.S. Army. He served with the 157th Regiment of the Indiana Volunteer Infantry in 1898 during the Spanish-American War, and saw two years of active duty. For the rest of his life, Willie was very active in the Spanish-American War Veterans organization, serving five years as commander of the Kuhlman Camp Veterans.

In 1900, Willie Browand married Mabel Patton of Fort Wayne. "Billy," as he later became known, learned the barbering trade in Fort Wayne and in 1901 came to Auburn where he and Tim McDowell operated a barber shop. In 1903, Billy Browand worked for the Indiana Bell Telephone Comapny and later was employed with a construction company. But the barbering trade was still in his heart, and in 1930, Billy returned to barbering. Billy Browand became very popular in town, not only for his shaves and haircuts, but also for the tales he could spin. When he was operating his barber shop on East

Eighth Street, he was elected honorary "Mayor of Eighth Street!"

Mr. Browand was a drummer with the Auburn City band for several years and later helped organize and was the drummer and quite often leader of the Auburn Lions Club All-Nut band. They played at every conceivable event in Auburn and were popular at events in other parts of the state. Billy Browand died in Auburn in 1959.

Mabel and Billy Browand had two sons who died in infancy, and a third son, Eugene.

EUGENE BROWAND, lived his entire life in Auburn. "Gene" was an athlete at the Auburn High School, starring in track and basketball, until he graduated in 1922. After attending college at Earlham and DePauw, he married Frances Hogue and went to work for the Auburn Automobile Company in Auburn. With the demise of the Auburn-Cord-Duesenberg Corporation, Gene stayed on to help finish up the "paper work," then received a commission in the United States Army Reserve; as the sounds of war were becoming more omnious in Europe.

Gene was called to active duty in the Army Air Corps in 1940, and was stationed at the newly opened Baer Field near Fort Wayne when World War II broke out. He served overseas for three years, fighting the war in England, Africa and Italy, and came home just after V-E Day in 1945. After receiving his discharge in 1946, Gene worked with the Republican Party of DeKalb County as County Chairman and for the State of Indiana as a State License Bureau Auditor.

Howell and lives with her family in Little Rock, Arkansas; Carolyn lives at New Haven, Indiana, with her husband, Terry Werling, and their family; and Robert Eugene, the oldest child, has remained in Auburn.

After completing school in Auburn, Robert attended college in Fort Wayne until, following the custom of his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather, he entered into military service, the Air Force. While in the Air Force, Bob Browand met and married Myrtle Kibe, a girl from Pennsylvania who was also in the Air Force. After their release from service, Bob and Myrtle settled down back in Auburn, where Bob went to work for the General Electric Company in Fort Wayne and has been there ever since.

Bob and Myrt Browand's family consisted of two girls, Cheryl, married Terry Malcolm, of Garrett, and Michelle, living at home. They were the book ends to four brothers: Bill, a detective with the New Haven, Indiana Police Department; twins, Eugene a student in Oklahoma, and Edward, who died in an accident in Alaska in 1982; and Brett, who is also still living at home. Bob's three older boys likewise followed the family military tradition, Bill, served in the Air Force and Ed and Gene joined the Army. PHILIP BORDNER, came to DeKalb County, Stafford Township, from Ohio, in 1851-52, a widower with three sons. He probably moved to the county because his married daughter, Hannah, Mrs. Jacob Moughler, moved to a new farm in Wilmington Township in the fall of 1852. Philip was born 6 April 1796 in Dauphin County, Pennsylvania, the third of 10 children of Peter Bordner, born 1763, died 1816, and Catharine Katterman, born 1771, died 1853. His paternal grandparents were Jacob Bordner and Sarah Balt, born 1730, died 1800, both natives of Pennsylvania. His maternal grandfather was Michael Katterman, a native of Germany. Mr. Katterman and three of Phillip's uncles were members of the Pennsylvania militia during the Revolutionary War.

Philip was descended from Balser Bortner, who arrived at the port of Philadelphia in 1732 from Hochstadt, in the Palatinate (Germany). Balser settled in the Tulpehocken Settlement, one of the original German communities in the heart of what was to become known as the "Pennsylvania Dutch" country. His descendants settled many farms in that area, principally in Berks and Dauphin counties. Philip established his own farm in Dauphin County and married a Miss Readle around 1817.

In the 1820's, following the death of their father, Philip's brothers moved West one by one, initially settling in Stark County, Ohio. Philip was the last to leave Pennsylvania, about 1830. Eight of his 12 children were born in Pennsylvania. Two sons born in Pennsylvania died in childhood in Ohio. Three of his four sisters also moved to Stark County after marrying and starting families in Pennsylvania

In 1837, Philip moved to Wayne County, Ohio where he bought 60 acres from a son-in-law. Two years later, his wife died, leaving him with five children under the age of 10. Philip continued farming in Wayne County, Baughman and Chippewa Townships, until he moved to DeKalb County. He brought three of his four surviving sons to DeKalb: Jonathan, born 1822, Daniel, born 1833, and Solomon, born c. 1839. His son David F., who was about 15 at the time Philip went to Indiana, remained in Ohio and later established his own farm and family in Stark County.

All six of Philip's daughters married in Ohio. Four remained there: Mary, Mrs. Jacob Kemery, born 1818, died 1892, Catharina, Mrs. Richards, born c. 1820; Margaret, Mrs. Isaac Cannon, born c. 1823, died 1885; and Sarah, who was about 17 when the family left for Indiana and who later, at the age of 25, became Mrs. Christian Bowers. Two daughters moved to DeKalb County: Frances, Mrs. John Shafer, born c. 1825; and Hannah, Mrs. Jacob Moughler, born 1830, died 1921. Margaret (Bordner) Cannon's son, J.W., born 1849, moved to DeKalb County in 1869, and in 1884 opened a grocery in Butler in Partnership with David Johnson, Johnson and Cannon Company.

Two of Philip's brothers, Michael and Jacob and a sister, Catharine, Mrs. Conrad Shrifler, settled near Portage, Ohio, Wood County, about 60 miles east of DeKalb County. Philip died in Stafford Township in 1854, only a couple years after his arrival. His sons and daughters who came with him to DeKalb County remained for life.

JONATHAN BORDNER, born 16 October 1822 in Dauphin County, in the Pennsylvania Dutch country, where his Bordner ancestors first settled in 1732. The parents had eight children before moving to a new farm in Stark County, Ohio.

Jonathan established his own farm in Stafford Township, and at the age of 36, on 28 February 1858, he married Mary Mace, born 1835, died 1912, a native of Ohio. Early in the 1870's, Jonathan moved his family to Baldwin, Kansas, Douglas County, first in Newville Township and then in Butler, where he bought a home on Oak Street. In Butler, he first worked as a miller. When the Butler Windmill Company opened for business in 1888, later known as the Butler Company, he took a job as a night watchman, and continued this employment until his death at the age of 81, 1 November 1903. He is buried in the Butler Cemetery. In the last 10 years of his life, he was a member of the Christian Church under C.R. Scoville, as was his sister Hannah Bordner Moughler. His wife, Mary, continued to live in Butler, where she died in 1912.

Jonathan and Mary Bordner had seven children: Eva E., born

29 April, 1859; first married Mr. Turner in Butler, then Joseph C. Kirkpatrick; died 11 October, 1952 in Glendale, California, Francis Arletta, born 16 November, 1861; first married David Judson Plowe in Butler, then Charles W. Brandt; died 22 June, 1946 in Hunter, Missouri, Charles Edward, born October 1864; married Grace Mattie Bateman; died 26 May, 1917 in Fort Worth, Texas, Harry D., born 8 November, 1866; unmarried; died 23 May, 1923 in West Plains, Missouri, Ernest M., born c.1870 in Kansas and died in childhood, William Walter, born c.1872 in Kansas; first married Margaret, then Margaret A. Lyons; died 27 December, 1948 in Butte, Montana, and Sarah E., born 1874 in Kansas and died 1882 in Butler.

All three of Jonathan's adult sons became railroad engineers, reflecting the economic importance of the railroad in Butler's early development.

Charles left shortly before 1900 for Ogden, Utah, where he was a locomotive engineer for the Denver and Rio Grande RR. He married and established a family in Utah. Although he died in Texas he is buried next to his father in the Butler Cemetery. William also left Butler before 1900 and moved to Butte, Montana, where he worked as a locomotive engineer and raised a family. Harry was a locomotive engineer for the Wabash RR and transferred to Missouri, where he died. Frances's husband, David Plowe , whom she had married in Butler March 11, 1882, was also a railroad engineer, probably for the Wabash. They moved to Missouri, and David Plowe died in Famington January 17, 1925. Frances remarried, to Charles W. Brandt, and lived her remaining years in Hunter, Missouri. Eva's husband Mr. Turner died and she remarried, to Joseph Clark Kirkpartrick, born 1852, died 1936, of Albion, Noble County, Indiana. Both were trained nurses. Eva died in Glendale at the age of 93 in 1952. No descendants of Jonathan Bordner live in DeKalb County today.

DANIEL BORDNER, was the first of four children born in Ohio, in 1833. Daniel's father farmed in Stark County for a few years before resettling in Wayne County, Ohio. There Daniel's mother died in 1839, when he was six years old. His father continued to farm and raise several small children in Wayne County until he moved to DeKalb County, when Daniel was 18. Four of Daniel's sisters, Mary, Catharine, Margaret, and Sarah and a younger brother, David F., remained in Ohio. A couple years after coming to DeKalb the father died, leaving three sons and two married daughters in the county: Frances, Mrs. John Shafer, and Hannah, Mrs. Jacob Moughler.

Daniel soon established his own farm in Stafford Township. He married Ursula Gunsenhouser, born 1841, died 1924, one of 11 children of Jacob Gunsenhouser and Mary Elizabeth Strole. Jacob Gunsenhouser came to DeKalb in 1836 from Stark County, Ohio, one of the first pioneers of Stafford Township and an influential resident of the county. Daniel and Ursula had no children of their own but adopted an infant daughter, Blanch, born 1877. Blanch married Ralph J. Lucy in 1901 in Butler. Daniel died in 1902. His wife lived on to the age of 83 and died in 1924. Both are buried in the Butler Cemetery.

SOLOMON BORDNER, born in 1839, shortly after he was born his mother died. When Phillip moved to DeKalb County, Solomon was only 13 years old. In 1854, a couple years after coming to DeKalb County, his father died. Solomon was 15, and had to rely on his older brothers and two married sisters: Frances, Mrs. John Shafer, and Hannah, Mrs. Jacob Moughler.

Solomon established his own farm, first in Stafford Township then in Wilmington Township. He married Elizabeth Willard, a native of Stark County, Ohio, born June 1838 and the daughter of John and Frances (Hollinger) Willard. Both parents were also natives of Stark County, being among the first white settlers of that county. Solomon died in 1891. His wife Elizabeth lived into old age and died in Butler in 1914.

Solomon and Elizabeth had four children, two of whom died in infancy. Two sons survived: Wilson M., born February 1867, and Cormon J., born January 1870. Wilson, a railroad station agent and telegrapher, moved to Munson, Michigan, where his only child Daine Victor was born. He lived in several places but finally moved to Jackson, Mississippi. GEORGE RIDGWAY, born in New Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 5 March 1852. It is possible his father died when George was very young and his mother re-married. We don't know what brought George or his future wife to Indiana, but they met and on 19 April 1878 they were married in Bremen, Indiana. She was Dinah Belle Frisinger, daughter of William and Narcissus Frisinger, and had been born in Mercer County, Ohio.

George worked for the B & O Railroad from 1879 to 1899, seventeen years as a Section Foreman. On 24 November 1899 at Auburn Junction in DeKalb County while working to put a de-railed train back on the tracks, a cable snapped and George was hit in the chest with a pully. It crushed his chest. He was not able to work after that, nor was he able to lie down. He slept in a sitting position from then until he died on 12 July 1901. He was 49 years, 4 months, and 7 days old.

He died leaving his widow with several small children. She received a pension of $500 dollars from the railroad. With this she rented a hotel. She may have run a hotel in Walkerton, Indiana and she ran a hotel in St. Joe, Indiana. She paid between five and ten dollars to her landlord, and let out rooms per day. Most of the customers were transients. She also took in washing and ironing and in this way was able to raise her family.

Their children were Eva, LaDeama, Nellie, George, William. Floyd, Derwood and Olive. Besides these children were four others born who did not live past infancy. We are not sure of their names, cause of death, or where they are buried.

Of the surving children, LaDeama married Grover Curie; Nellie married Abraham Mason; Floys married Mary Armstrong; and Derwood married Callie Ridgway and these couples stayed in DeKalb County to raise their families. There are many descendants of this couple still here in DeKalb County who recount with pride how Belle was able to raise her youngsters alone after the unfortunate death of her husband.

Both Derwood and Callie received their schooling in St. Joe. They married in 1911. Around this time, Derwood worked for the B & O Railroad gang that painted crossing signs. Later he started working for Mr. Randall, in the well drilling business. He also studied plumbing books evenings and educated himself to be a plumber. Around 1925, Derwood left Mr. Randall and became self-employed as a plumber and well-driller, a career he pursued the rest of his life.

Jules Beuret and wife

JULES JOSEPH BEURET, was born 15 August 1841 in Les Breleaux, Canton de Bern, Switzerland, the son of Francis Zavier and Saraphione (Imiar) Beuret, he was the youngest of ten children. His parents and family, except two daughters who remained in Switzerland, came to America in 1848 when Jules was seven years old and bought a farm in Allen County near Academy Station.

On 15 September 1867 he was united in marriage to Sarah Felecia Nickerson. To this union were born 2 sons, Louis Jules and Francis Joseph, who died 6 August 1902 at the age of 29 years, and six daughters, Mary, Ida, Emma Louise, Caroline Cecilia, Agnes Alice, Esther Alma, and Theresa Elizabeth, who died 21 December 1884 of diphtheria. All of the children, with the exception of Mary and Emma, were born in the Beuret residence at 339 W. Fourth Street in Auburn.

In 1870 Jules, his wife and two daughters moved to Auburn and he engaged in the hardware business in a frame building on the northwest corner of Main and Sixth Streets, he also worked at the tinners trade which he had learned when he was 17 years old. The frame building was destroyed by fire in 1884 and Jules erected a brick building on the same lot. It is worthy of note that the building is still standing at this date. About 1903 he retired from the hardware business but continued working at this trade, later working with his son, Louis Jules Beuret. .

Jules Beuret built the house on Fourth Street in 1869-1870 and was occupied by members of the Beuret family until 1978 when it was sold.

When the Beuret family came to Auburn their backyard was a wheat field and Auburn's business section consisted of only a few small shops with the Ralston General Store forming the nucleus. A trip from Auburn to Fort Wayne was a considerable undertaking, one boarded a dray one day and couldn't return until the next.

On 5 August 1881 Father August Young celebrated the first Mass in Auburn in the home of Engelbert Ashley and for two years services were held in the Ashley home. In the meantime a committee consisting of Engelbert Ashley, Jules Joseph Beuret, and Justin Girardot purchased lots facing on the corner of Fourth and Railroad Street (now Indiana Ave.). The church, St. Mary's, later to be named Immaculate Conception Church, was built and dedicated in 1884.

Jules Joseph Beuret died in his home on 11 December 1915 at the age of 73 years. His wife, Felecia, resided in the family home until her death on 3 August 1942 at the age of 96 years.

Several years later, his business prospering Mr. Beuret moved the frame building to a more suitable location in the 500 block of West Seventh Street, where the company was renamed the Auburn Furnace Company.

The Great Depression affected Mr. Beuret's business so adversely that in 1933 he converted a part of his building into a grocery and filling station which he ran jointly with his son, Jules Wayne. In 1945 he sold his business and retired.

Louis Beuret was a member of the Immaculated Conception Catholic Church and its Holy Name Society. He was active in local Democratic politics, and worked on the Union Township Eighth Precinct election board many times.

Mr. Beuret was a highly respected member of the Auburn Community. Many people still remember his kindness to them during the Great Depression, when he would extend credit for groceries, never afterward sending statements or demanding payment. "Lou" was also a great friend of children, and always had time for the youngsters who visited his store.

ANDREW JACKSON COLLINS, born in Hocking County, Ohio, to John and Sophia (Stebelton) Collins in 1852. Shortly after Andrew was born, his father moved the family to Van Wert County, Ohio.

Andrew and Sarah Collins

Andrew grew up in Van Wert County, the third child in a family of probably fifteen children. At age twenty-eight, Andrew still lived at home. Twenty years later he was an ordained minister of the Friends Church.

He married Sarah Grosl and had eleven children. He had moved his family to DeKalb County, Indiana. The children were born in Van Wert County, Ohio; Sabilla Margaret, born 17 August 1882; Huldah Elizabeth, born 25 December 1883; Wilber Ephriam, born 30 June 1885; Rosco Frankline, born 5 September 1886; Samuel James, born 12 September 1887; Charles Rogers, born 17 September 1889; Clifford Marion, born 29 April 1891; Isadore M., born 26 October 1893; Barton Andrew and his twin sister, Bertha Beatrice, who died at birth, born 26 April 1897; and Leroy Anthony, born 2 April 1899.

Andrew came here to be a minister for the Friends. There was no church building, so many of the Friends' meetings conducted by Andrew were held in one of the church buildings in Newville. Others may have been held in other parts of the county. Several area couples said their marriage vows with Andrew as their minister. Since his following was small and he could not support his family on ministering alone, he settled his family on a farm on the "sink hole" road and he farmed.

Sarah gave birth to Alva Emerson 4 March 1901, and to Doyt Alexander 12 August 1902. On 11 May 1904 Sarah died. They returned her body to Van Wert County, Ohio, for burial in Woodland Cemetery.

Sometime after Sarah's death, Andrew went South, possibly to Mississippi, taking the four youngest children with him. While there he remarried and came back to DeKalb County, Concord Township. He and his second wife had one child, a boy. The marriage didn't work out and she took the child and returned home.

When Andrew died, 3 November 1935, he was living in Auburn with his daughter Savilla. His body was returned to Van Wert County and he lies in Woodland Cemetery beside Sarah.

Charles Collins Family

CHARLES R. COLLINS, born in Van Wert County, Ohio, on 17 September 1889, son of Andrew J. and Sarah (Grosl) Collins. His father moved the family to DeKalb County sometime during the 1890's. They settled on a farm on CR 59 — the "sink hole" road — though they may have lived in Newville Township first. The older boys helped with the farming and attended Sailor School, a one-room school on the corner of CR 59 and CR 52. When Charles was twenty-three, he took Effie Reasoner as his wife. They were married 13 April 1912 in the Methodist Parsonage in St. Joe by Reverend McCaslin.

Effie was born and raised in DeKalb County on CR 56 in Concord Township. She had three older brothers and one older sister. Her sister died at age thirteen after a short illness. Their parents were Chalmers and Celesta (Shenberger) Reasoner. Raised on a farm, she did her share of the farm chores and attended school. She went first to Orangeville School and then to Cheesetown School where she completed all eight of the grades offered. Either school was a two-mile walk and walk they did.

Charles worked on the B & O Railroad as a section hand during the years the children were born and raised. The children were Everett Charles, born 28 July 1913; Dale Deloss, born 10 April 1916; Herman Laverne, born 5 June 1921; and Ruby Ileen, born 29 March 1929. Charles was taken ill in 1941 and his illness forced him to retire. He lived in poor health for the next eight years and finally succumbed, due to further complications, on 11 June 1949.

Effie started working at General Electric in Fort Wayne on 9 December 1943 and worked there until she started work at Universal in Spencerville, Indiana, in September, 1946. She worked there until August, 1950.

On 3 July 1950, Effie married her second husband, Raymond Truesdale Collins, born 4 May 1889, to Isaac and Sarah Collins in Van Wert County, Ohio. Raymond was a first cousin to Effie's first husband, Charles. Charles' and Raymond's fathers were brothers. Effie and Raymond were married in Angola, Indiana, at the Chapel in the Garden and moved to Van Wert, Ohio, where Raymond worked for Kennedy Kit.

Raymond's health became poor in 1968 and he was admitted to Indianapolis Veteran's Hospital, where he died 8 August 1971. In November, 1968, Effie returned to DeKalb County. She is now a resident of Betz's Nursing Home in Auburn and a member of the St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Auburn, Indiana.

Harry and Pauline Hovarter

HARRY DALE HOVARTER, born 17 December 1914, in Richland Township, southwest of Corunna, where he has lived his entire life. He was the only child of Adam Hovarter, born 1852, died 1942, and Amanda Olive (Davis) Pressler Hovarter, born 6 December 1876, died 6 December 1954. His paternal grandparents were John, born 30 October 1808, died 29 June 1889, and Nancy (Weirich) Hovarter, born 15 February 1814, died 15 February 1899. They were farmers who had come from Sugar Creek, Ohio, and settled in Fairfield Township, near Fairfield Center. His maternal grandparents were Reuben Davis, born 1846, died 1919, son of Nathan and Parmelia or Pamela (Butt) Davis, and Louisa (Maggert) David, born 1856, died 1926, daughter of Jesse and Rebecca Ann (Jones) Maggert. Reuben and Louisa were originally from the Kosciusko County area but were attracted to Garrett when the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was built. One set of great-great grandparents is known, Johannes and Katherina (Schneider) Butt.

Pauline Sherwood, born 3 October 1918, in a chicken coop which her family was using for a temporary housing on the farmstead in Smithfield Township, northwest of Waterloo. The house had burned and the new one was still under construction. Her parents were John Vangesbeck Sherwood, born 18 September 1875, died 10 February 1919, and Grace Anna

(Conkey) Mills Sherwood, born 11 November 1876, died 5 May 1940. Her father died when she was but a year old, and her mother married Daniel J. Grogg, born 1868, also a farmer. The family continued to live in the Waterloo area.

Pauline's paternal grandparents were William Charles Sherwood, born 16 July 1841, in Marcellus, Onondaga County, New York, son of Amos Sherwood, born 14 April 1813, died 25 August 1895, and Mary Debra (Parsons) Sherwood, born 4 June 1845, died 3 July 1919, from Skaneateles, Onondaga County, New York, daughter of Elijah, born 2 February 1812, and Eliza C. Parson, born 4 April 1811. Her grandfather had one hundred sixty acres of land on the north side of US 6, just west of the present I-69 exit, but it was mostly covered with timber. He spent several winters clearing timber and returning to New York in the summers until 1871, when he moved here to stay.

Harry and Pauline attended one and two-room rural schools and Harry was a 1932 graduate of Garrett High School. A scholarly type with a theoretical, inventive, and scientific mind, he dreamed of becoming a chemist, but the financial woes of The Depression eliminated that possibility. He went into farming with his father so the family farm could be saved.

The couple was married at Albion, Indiana, 1 August 1934. Both came from family backgrounds of creativity, his in music and hers in art.

Besides farming, Harry also worked for the schools, first as a bus driver and later as a custodian for the Richland Township Schools. As mergers and DeKalb Central consolidation came, he continued to drive the bus and served as head custodian at McKenney-Harrison and later Waterloo Elementary until his retirement from driving in May, 1979, and from his custodial position the following year. Supporters of various school activities, the couple attended the musicals, dramas, concerts, fund-raisers, and the sports events, though Pauline could get more enjoyment from sporting events by listening to the radio play-by-play accounts.

Harry has a history as a sports enthusiast. Indeed, he organized the first baseball leagues serving DeKalb, Noble, and Steuben Counties in the late 1940's, which came to be known as the Northeast Indiana Baseball League. He set aside an area in one of his farm fields and developed a playing diamond where games where played each week. His wife and children sold concessions to get budget monies, pop from an iced washtub, candy bars, and gum.

Besides their interest in community and school affairs, both were active in politics. Harry was a Republican Precinct Committeeman and party worker for years. They attended Maple Grove United Methodist Church and were the parents of two children: John Dale Hovarter, born 5 May 1935, who graduated from Tri-State College with a degree in Mechanical Engineering and is currently employed at Sheller-Globe, Grabill. He worked for International Harvester, Fort Wayne, until the plant closed; and Carolyn Sue (Hovarter) Stahl, born 23 June 1939, who completed Masters in English and counseling and Guidance at Indiana University and has been affiliated with DeKalb Junior High and DeKalb Middle School as a teacher and for the past thirteen years as a guidance counselor.

JOHN BENJAMIN STAHL, born 16 November 1864, in his parents home, a log cabin, southwest of Waterloo, and he continued to live in Grant Township all his life. He died 13 July 1946. John, son of John Baltzer, born 18 September 1821, died 5 April 1901, and Elizabeth Mary (Rohm) Stahl, born 4 February 1824, died 13 November 1883, southwest of Auburn, in a log cabin. Simon had served in the German Army for nine years in the Napoleonic Wars. Elizabeth Mary Rohm had been born in Rhineburg, RontzWiten, Germany and was twelve years old when she sailed with her folks to this country. She cooked on the boat. Considered well-to-do in their native land, owning fifteen acres of land and two cows, they sold all they had to make the trip to America with their five living children. Some died in Germany and were buried there, while four more would be born in Holmes County, Ohio. After fifty-seven days on the ocean in an old, slow-going sailing vessel, they landed five dollars in debt.

John married Elizabeth "Lizzie" Haines, born 7 September 1868, died 10 May 1955, who was also born at home in Grant Township. Lizzie was the daughter of John and Amelia Haines.

Farmers by trade, John B. and Lizzie lived for years two miles east of Waterloo, where Clark was born. They bought thirty acres that had a log cabin on it. It was located east of Waterloo at the site of the present abandoned private landing strip and airport. The older children continued to tell stories in later years about their experiences in this log cabin and how windy nights resulted in rain or snow blowing in between the chinks in the logs and getting the blankets, kids, and everything else soaked in the loft which was the sleeping area for the children. The family continued to live at this location until Lizzie's mother died and they moved to the Haines homeplace to take care of her father, John Haines. Clark was in fifth grade at the time so he finished his normal school education by attending Tamarack School for his fifth and sixth grade years.

After the children grew into adulthood, the family continued to get together several times each year: Christmas dinner was held at the Stahl family home, a summer get-together at Winifred Winnie (Stahl) Carper's cottage on Crooked Lake was popular and so was the yearly trip to Cedar Point, whereby the relatives in this area would meet the ones from the Willard, Ohio area at Cedar Point and spend the day in the park, stay overnight at Winnie's and return home on Monday.

John and Lizzie took their religion seriously and always went to church activities. When they would have four or five week revival meetings, they would go every night with the horses and bobsled. The church would be packed every night.

John was close to eighty-two when he died and Lizzie was nearly eighty-seven.

His paternal grandparents were John Benjamin, born 16 November 1864, died 13 July 1946, and Elizabeth (Haines) Stahl, born 7 September 1868, died 10 May 1955. They were farmers and horse breeders, who lived on County Road 32. His maternal grandparents were Milferd Chaney, born 24 September 1892, died 28 May 1964, and Inez Eva (Park) Bowman, born 8 November 1891, died 19 March 1968. They were farmers in Richland Township, east of Corunna. The foreign heritage of James goes back to Germany and England.

He spent his primary grades and his senior year at Waterloo, graduating from there in 1955. The other years were spent at Ashley when his family lived in the Barker's Chapel area. Jim met Carolyn Sue Hovarter while attending Waterloo High School, where he was in the school plays, an officer of Future Farmers of America, and played first trombone in the band. After three years of dating, they were married 11 August 1957, at Maple Grove Evangelical United Brethren Church. They set up housekeeping in an upstairs apartment and a year later bought their first farm, sixty acres two miles east of the Ashley-Hudson corners where they lived at the time their two daughters were born.

Karen Sue (Stahl) Sowles, born 14 December 1959. She has two children: Michelle Erin and Bradley Wayne. Diane Kay Stahl, born 25 August 1961, is a sales representative in the Louisville, Kentucky area for American Convertors, a Division of Baxter Travenol, Subsidiary of American Hospital Supply.

A very close-knit family, they thoroughly enjoyed the years spent together and the excitement of the various activities they did as a family. Jim and Carolyn still enjoy doing things with their family and sharing experiences with their two grandchildren has been especially rewarding.

Mr. Stahl's primary career goal was to be a full time farmer so he purchased his first machinery while a senior in high school. A very hard worker, he has always had at least two jobs, farming and working in town. His first job after graduation was with the DeKalb County Farm Bureau Co-op and in January, 1957, he took a position with Warner Gear. He kept increasing his skills and advanced to the position of set-up man more than twenty years ago.

In 1961, James and Carolyn purchased the old Frank Hovarter farm, southwest of Corunna and, after extensive remodeling of the home, the family moved there in the fall of 1965. They added a new pole barn to the site in the late 1960's and purchased additional land on three different tracts during the next twelve to fifteen years. In March, 1975, they broke ground for a new home across the road and just east of the new barn.

Jim is very busy with the three hundred acres of his own besides doing the farming for his father and for his father-in-law. He also became a sales representative for Asgrow Seeks in 1982, which is compatible with the farm operations since most of these activities are done in the off-season months.

Jim has been active in church, community, and political affairs over the years. At Maple Grove United Methodist Church, he has served several terms as Trustee and presently is completing another term. He has also been Sunday School Superintendent, a member of various committees and continues to be Financial Secretary, a position he has held for years. In 1967, he answered the call for church missions and spent two weeks on a work project in Puerto Rico. He has served the Richland County Sunday School/Church Convention in various capacities and is the current Chairman of the group.

In community and organizational affairs, he has followed his interest in antique tractors and farm machinery by becoming a charter member of the Cedar Creek Antique Tractor and Engine Club. He has been a member of Farm Bureau and was asked by Dana Corporation to do some experimental testing on a new clutch design for farm tractors, a project he thoroughly enjoyed.

Jim cooperated with an invitation from the DeKalb County Extension Agent to participate in a Corn Plot Project for gathering statistical production data on various corn hybrids. He is currently serving again as an Ambassador for the Production Credit Association and is a board member of the Farmers' Home Administration County Line Advisory Committee.

Politically, Jim's early activity in the Young Republican eventually led to service which found him holding both elected and appointed offices. He has repeatedly been elected to serve as the Richland/Fairfield Township voting delegate to the state nominating conventions, has been a local Advisory Board member, and served as Richland Township Trustee. He has been a County Chairman Assistant and is currently continuing to serve on the DeKalb County Board of Zoning Appeals.

Jim has little time for entertainment or recreation, but he does enjoy swimming and relaxing at Lake Gage where he and Carolyn have a summer cottage. He also enjoys Indiana University basketball and travels to Bloomington for the games whenever he is able to purchase tickets. Gospel concerts have been a special interest, but activities and interests shared with his children and grandchildren take priority.

CAROLYN SUE (HOVARTER) STAHL, born 23 June 1939, in her parent's farmhouse, southwest of Corunna, daughter of Harry Dale and Pauline (Sherwood) Hovarter. Her paternal grandparents were Adam and Amanda Olive (Davis) Pressler Hovarter. Her maternal grandparents were John Vangesbeck Sherwood and Grace Anna (Conkey) Mills Sherwood Grogg, of Waterloo. All her grandparents were farmers by trade and her foreign heritage goes back to Germany and Ireland.

She developed many positive feelings about education from the time spent in her first eight grades at West Richland, a two-room country school, where Carolyn was one of two girls better skilled at softball than some of the guys, so she played on the boys' softball team for three years never striking out once. She attended Waterloo High School when there were no competitive girls' sports so she played forward in the Girls' Intramural Noon Basketball League, rules for girls allowed half-court play only. She participated in other high school activities such as singing with the choir's Ensemble, having a role in the school play, being Junior Store Manager, holding the Presidency of Future Homemaker of America, serving as Co-editor of the yearbook and being an officer in the Beta National Honor Club. She graduated in 1957 as Valedictorian of her class.

Carolyn met James William Stahl at the high school and after an extended courtship, they were married on 11 August 1957, at what is now the Maple Grove United Methodist Church. Since both were raised in farm families, they were familiar with the work ethic and worked hard to get established. Carolyn's first job was a secretary in the Mortgage Loan Department of Lincoln National Life Insurance Company, Fort Wayne, a position she left to accept a local offer at Rieke's in Auburn, as secretary to the Treasurer of the Company and Secretary of the Board. As was customary in the 1950's, she quit working outside the home when her first child, Karen Sue, was born in 1959. Their second daughter, Diane Kay, was born two years later and like most farm wives, Carolyn fulfilled her responsibilities as a homemaker and mother and also helped on the farm as needed.

When the girls started school, Carolyn became involved with these activities, assuming various responsibilities, including several years as a room mother and as a PTO Executive Officer at Corunna and McKenney-Harrison. This involvement with her daughters' schools rekindled the desire for a teaching career and she recalled the positive experiences she had while still a student, when she was called upon in seventh and eighth grade and again at the high school level to substitute for teachers who had to be gone for small portions of the day. Carolyn enrolled at Indiana University-Purdue University, Fort Wayne in the fall of 1968. She made the Dean's List regularly and graduated with Highest Distinction in 1973, earning a B.S. in education.

While on campus, she pursued her life-long interest in music as well. She had played the piano since age five and had been singing in various groups and choirs for years, including having the role of tenor in a female gospel quartet. She sang with the Women's University Chorale and enjoyed it very much.

Carolyn earned a Masters Degree in English and Counseling and Guidance from Indiana University, Bloomington, and has done post-Masters work at Indiana-Purdue, Fort Wayne, and at St. Francis College, Fort Wayne. Currently holding life licenses in English, Counseling and Guidance, Government/Political Science and Sociology. She has continued educational pursuits and is one course from getting licensed in Psychology. She passed her national boards in June, 1985, thus becoming a Nationally Certified Counselor.

Mrs. Stahl has been affiliated with DeKalb Central Schools as a junior high English teacher at McIntosh and DeKalb and for the past thirteen years has been a guidance counselor at DeKalb Junior High, presently DeKalb Middle School. She has served as Guidance Department Chairperson for several years, as a member of the NCA Steering Committee for two terms and has been a member of dis trict-wide committees, such as Curriculum Council and L.D. Screening Committee. Three times she has served at the invitation of the North Central Accreditation Association on Professional teams to study and evaluate schools and their programs throughout the State.

Carolyn has been actively involved in church, community, and political affairs. At church, she has served as Director-Counselor of the youth group, Children's Sunday School Superintendent, Sunday School Pianist, a charter member of the choir, a teacher for Child Evangelism's Good News Clubs, for church school classes and for Vacation Bible School. She has served the Richland Township Sunday School/Church Convention in various capacities. As a Certified Lay Speaker with the North Indiana United Methodist Conference, she is available to fill the pulpit when ministers are ill or on vacations.

Community involvement has included collections for C.R.O.P. and for DeKalb High School's first band uniforms; singing in the community choirs at Ashley for Easter and Christmas presentations and at Auburn for Handel's "Messiah"; holding various offices, including President of Model Home Demonstration Club and is currently serving as President of the Waterloo Alumni Association and as a member of the Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society.

Carolyn has been a precinct and county worker in the Republican Party for years. She has also been a state election board official for several nominating conventions; an officer of the County Young Republican and in the 1960's was secretary of the DeKalb County Republican Central Committee. She and her husband have spoken personally to two United States Presidents, Nixon and Ford, and they received personalized invitations to the inaugurations of Presidents Nixon and Ford.

A strong Indiana University Alumnae, Carolyn has her work office decorated in the colors and with memorabilia of Indiana University, including a personal birthday greeting written to her by Coach Bob Knight. She travels to Bloomington to Indiana University basketball games whenever she's able to get tickets. Her Number One spot for the summer recreation is the Stahl cottage at Lake Gage, where Carolyn enjoys relaxing and swimming in the water and reading good books. She works very hard on all phases of the building and finishing of their new home in the mid-1970's and she enjoys entertaining her children and grandchildren there, as well as other family members.

Karen, a member of the First United Methodist Church of Bluffton, is still actively involved with church activities and so are her children, who participate in special children's programs and sing in the Children's Choir. Both youngsters attend Lancaster Central Elementary, where they excel in academic achievements. Michelle also studies dance and is in the Brownie Division of Girl Scouts.

Karen's love for and interest in children has led to a career in caring for children of working mothers. She earned her state license three years ago and operates Karen's Kids and Krafts Day Care in her home. In addition, she continues to pursue her interest in cooking and enjoys other activities, such as reading, gardening, fun-in-the-sun at her parents cottage on Lake Gage and nurturing the many houseplants which adorn her home.

Diane Stahl

DIANE KAY STAHL, born 25 August 1961, in the Sacred Heart Hospital, Garrett, Indiana, daughter of James William and Carolyn Sue (Hovarter) Stahl. Her paternal grandparents are Clark William and Edna Louise (Bowman) Stahl, of Auburn. Her maternal grandparents are Harry Dale and Pauline (Sherwood) Hovarter, of Corunna. Raised in rural DeKalb County, Diane was proud to be a farmer's daughter since she felt life taught her responsibility and the value of working hard to meet goals.

Diane was an active member of Maple Grove United Methodist Church. She sang, taught Vacation Bible School, and was an officer in the youth group. She attended McKenney-Harrison Elementary. When in seventh grade, the new DeKalb Junior High opened and Diane's class was the first to spend three years there.

In 1980, she was an honor graduate from DeKalb High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society, student council, yearbook staff, newspaper staff, Brigadiers Flag and Rifle Corp, German Club, a class officer, and a nominee to Hoosier Girls' State.

Diane pursued her education at Indiana University, Bloomington, where she also graduated with honors in 1984, earning a B.S. Her sorority house was one used for the filming of the award winning movie "Breaking Away" about Indiana University's famous Little 500 bicycle race.

Music has always brought special enjoyment as a listener and a performer. She played first trombone in the jazz and school bands and was a talented vocalist, spending two years singing and dancing with two groups, Conglomeration, a touring group which recorded an album, and Divided Highway, a local dance band. An accomplished pianist, she enjoys playing for relaxation. Other interest include reading, water and snow skiing, cycling, and exercise.

Diane has tasted the excitement of modeling as she spent four years as a television, commercial advertising and runway model for the Indiana University Foundation Style Shows, for Vogue Patterns, for J.C. Penneys, and for various other merchandisers in the Indianapolis/Bloomington area. Very photogenic, photographs of her were used by the Indiana University Foundation and the Panhellenic League for University promotions.

Diane's poise and assurance has also contributed to her success with pageants. She was a finalist in the Miss Teen Indiana, was crowned Miss DeKalb County 1979, was Queen of the Christmas Formal 1979, was first Runner-up in the Miss Fort Wayne Scholarship Pageant 1981, was the first of five finalists on the Queen's Court for the Indianapolis 500 Festival 1982.

MILFERD CHANEY BOWMAN, born 24 September 1892, died 28 May 1964, in the brick house on the paternal farmstead located east of Corunna. Except for two years away at college, he spent his entire life farming this acreage. The farm where he was born was bordered on the northern edge by the New York Central Railroad.

The son of William, born 24 September 1857, died 18 January 1926, and Martha Ellen (Chaney) Bowman, born 25 July 1856, died 8 June 1936. He was one of seven children: Emery D., and an unnamed sister who died an infant; Ada, married Marion Shippy; Esta May married Reverend Albert Crise; Effie married Carl Reinhart, Hugh Hamman, Arthur Strubble; and Nettie Pearl, who died at the age of five. Milferd's father was a hard worker as he cleared and tiled his ninety-four acres for farming, built the brick house in 1887, and helped Milferd build a small frame house adjacent to the brick one in 1911, since Milferd had married Inez Eva Park, daughter of George Washington, born 16 December 1849, died July 1931, and Sarah Elizabeth (Miller) Park, born 5 March 1856, died 8 June 1936, on 22 March of that year.

Milferd's father was one of the first to buy ana try new inventions so when Corunna got a telephone service in 1909, he had one and other than Dr. Getty of Ashley. He had the first car in at least the northern half of the county. It was a two seated Auto Buggy, a horseless carriage, and Milferd was the first to learn to drive the new contraption and taught his father. In 1915, his second car, an Overland, was delivered. The salesman had William get in and started it, but neglected to tell him to stop. Before the saleman chased down the car to switch off the ignition, William had gone through the hog lot, knocking down the fence and frightening the pigs so badly they were trying to crawl up the side of the pen.

Milferd's paternal grandparents were Joseph Baumann-Bowman, born 30 January 1814, died 2 April 1880, who fathered twenty-one children, and Ida Brand (Tongue) Bowman, born 12 May 1829, died 13 July 1878, who in 1839 moved from Stark County, Ohio, to a log house on the southwest corner of what is now the crossroads of County Roads 19 and 40. Milferd's heritage goes back two more generations: Samuel Baumann-Bowman, born 11 February 1779, died 10 April 1856, and Magdalena (Klinger) Bowman, born 16 January 1790, who moved from Pennsylvania to Stark County, Ohio, in 1817, and lived the first year in a log cabin about one mile from the Public Square of Canton, Ohio, and Jacob Baumann-Bowman, born 1 February 1752, died 16 March 1829, who arrived in America from southern Germany in 1772, and settled at Hebe, Northumberland County, Pennsylvania, where he married Susanna (Leffinger) Bowman.

Milferd's maternal grandparents were Nelson Chaney, son of Charles and Barbara Chaney, born 15 August 1827, died 21 April 1913, and Mary Ann (McCague) Chaney, born 6 July 1833, died 15 January 1884 of Richland Township.

Milferd and Inez Bowman had four children: Bertha May, born 29 December 1911, married Virgil Korff; Kenneth Ray, born 26 February 1914, married Clara Diederick, but died at age twenty-two, 25 January 1951 with Hodgkins Disease; Edna Louise, born 7 November 1915, married Clark Stahl and Marie Elizabeth, born 2 February 1917, married Wayne Penick, and later Oscar Elsworth Ohlwine. All are now deceased but Edna Stahl.

Milferd and Inez were very active in Maple Grove United Brethren in Christ Church where he was a trustee for many years. They were always attending church meetings and when there would be four or five week revivals, Milferd would hitch up the team to the bobsled, put straw and blankets into the wagon box, and pick up all the neighbors along the way to church. This would be done every night of the services and the church would be packed full of people.

On Sunday af ternoons and during the evenings, Inez would play the old pump organ and the whole family played dominoes around the big kitchen table. In the summer the entire family would go to Auburn each Thursday night for the band concerts where Milferd's cousin, Daisy Bowman, daughter of Steve Bowman, sang with the band. On Saturday nights they would take the-cream and eggs to Corunna to do their trading and they watched the free shows at the park beside the railroad tracks. Every time a train would go by, you couldn't hear a thing and the film was blurry and jigged up and down, but the Bowman kids thought it was wonderful. When the circus came to Auburn there was never enough money for admissions, but they always went to see the free circus parade on the forenoon of the show. The circus grounds were just east of Cedar Creek on the north side of East Seventh Street and included the area upon which the Catholic Church now stands.

The Bowmans did most things as a family, but Milferd and Inez would go to the Indiana State Fair each August with Carl and Effie Reinhart, Milferd's sister and husband. They left the kids at home and would stay overnight in Indianapolis. Edna remembers of the grandparents, the William Bowmans, telling about their experiences at the Pan-American Exposition in September, 1901, at Buffalo, New York, where President McKinley had been assassinated in the Music Pavilion. They viewed the President's body as it laid in state in the Exposition before being shipped to Washington on the train.

Starting in 1946, all the children were gone, the couple traveled to Colorado every year at hay fever time, which Milferd suffered from allergies, and also to see Inez's sister, May and family. They managed to go every year but one until they died.

Milferd and Inez were truly devoted to one another in a bond of loving warmth and support and they wanted so badly to live long enough to celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary. They celebrated fifty-three years of marriage with their Golden Wedding Anniversary festivities held in March, 1961, at the home of their daughter and husband, Bertha and Virgil Korff.

INEZ EVA (PARK) BOWMAN, born 8 November 1891, died 19 March 1968, was one of three children born to George W. and Sadie Elizabeth (Miller) Park. May Belle, married Harry Green and homesteaded in Logan County, Colorado, and John, a farmer, who married Nora Morrison. A political activist with the Progressive Republicans, George Park was the Ashley Town Treasurer and contributed liberally to the erection of the new Methodist Church in Ashley. His uncle, Wesley Park, was even more public minded as he laid out the town of Auburn, platted the Fort Wayne-Coldwater Road, served as DeKalb County's first treasurer, first sheriff, first school commissioner and donated the land and was on the building committee for the first county jail and also on the building committee for the first courthouse with court having been held for several years in his own cabin where those on trial were put in the loft with the ladder removed so they couldn't get away.

George and Sadie Park

Inez's paternal grandfather was William Park, died 1889, who was born in Ohio, and was a hatter until age thirty-five when he bought sixty acres, mostly timber near Fort Wayne's Robinson Chapel. He cleared the land and farmed it until 1862, when he sold it, moved to sixty acres near Corunna, and opened a grocery store there which he ran for ten years. Her paternal grandmother was Barbara (Warner) Park, died 1898, who came from Maryland to Ohio, then to Allen County, Indiana.

Inez's maternal grandparents were John D. Miller, born ca. 1830, died 1909, and Mary (Kanaga) Miller, born 3 October 1832, died 11 February 1900, of Hudson, Indiana. Inez's heritage can be traced back to England, as follows: Michael Kanaga, died 2 April 1866, and Elizabeth (Altman) Kanaga, died 3 August 1875, of Stark County, Ohio. Michael was one of thirteen children: Christian Kanaga, born 1773, died ca. 1844, also known as Strausbury Christian after he later moved to Strausbury, Tuscaraway County, Ohio, and Kathryn/Katherine (Fornay) Kanaga, born 19 January 1774, died 15 September 1808; Christlie or Christian Kanaga, sailed to America as a small boy and Y. Johans John Kanaga, an Englishman and Catherine (Schwatka) Kanaga, born 23 September 1727, in Geneva, Switzerland, were driven from England during a religious war and persecution of the Protestants by the Catholics. They were in Germany long enough to become thoroughly German before sailing to America and settling in Bethel Township, Lebanon County, Pennsylvania along the Swatara Creek, three or four miles east of Jonestown.

There were frequent family gatherings at all the different homes and each year they went to the Warner Reunion at Inez's paternal relatives, in Montpelier, Ohio, staying with Willis and Louise Warner (Edna is her namesake), on Saturday night and attending the reunion of Sunday. They would take food for the trip and stop at school houses to eat and use the outhouse.

ANDREW SURFUS/SURFACE, and his sons, Jacob and John, and Peter Fair and his sons, Abraham and Charles, were the first settlers in DeKalb County. They came in 1834 and on 1 October entered Butler Township with a four-horse team and a wagon. They cut their road from Allen County, beyond Huntertown, five miles to the place where they settled. They built their cabins and returned to their homes in Montgomery County, Ohio. They returned in the Spring of 1835, to make their permanent homes Abraham Fair was twenty-two years of age. In 1836, William Surfus, son of Andrew, and his wife Sophia, daughter of Peter Fair, along with the Henry Fair family, another son of Peter Fair, came to make their homes, also in Butler Township.

At the first regular meeting of the County Board of Commissioners of which Peter Fair was Chairman, Andrew Surfus was appointed Supervisor for the road district Number One, Butler Township. Adam Surfus, another son of Andrew, settled in Sparta Township, Noble County. Both the Surfus' and the Fairs' had large families and are the progenitors of many present day residents of DeKalb, Noble, and Whitley County area.

Peter Surfus, son of William and Sophia, was one of nine children and came to Noble Township, Noble County. Peter married Lorinda Bodine and they were the parents of Eventus LeRoy, who married Anna Jane Clark. They were the parents of Carleton and Charlotte Kiester. Claude E. Surfus, son of Carleton and Charlotte, married Leona Gandy, who were the parents of Jo Anne, who married Shirley Garrison. The Garrison's have five daughters: Sue, married Alan Maxson; Peggy Garrison, both of Kendallville, Indiana; Sherry, married Douglas Lang, of rural LaOtto, DeKalb County; Patti, married Paul Leathers, of Wolcottville, Indiana; and Sandra, married David Davis, of Albion, Indiana; and have eleven grandchildren. They live on Rural Route 3, County Road 900N, Kendallville, Indiana.

MARY (ROBERTS) MATHES, both of her parents' families were early DeKalb County settlers. Collin Roberts and his wife, Lana (Clark) Roberts, came to Wilmington Township from New York State in 1836. They and their four children bought a farm in Wilmington Township. Collin Roberts was an early Trustee in the township in which he lived.

Their oldest son, William Clark, was Mary's grandfather. He was a lawyer and surveyor and had a business in Vienna (Newville). He ran unsuccessfully for the State Legislature. Louise Ann Roberts married Hiram Brundage; Charlotte Amelia Roberts was a teacher and Hanibal Roberts was much younger than the other children.

Collin Roberts died in 1838. His widow and youngest child came to live with Mary's grandfather in Vienna. William Clark Roberts, Mary's Grandfather, married Paula Woodbury in 1842. They had four children: Preston, Pearl, Charlotte, and William Clark, who was the father of Mary. William Clark married Daisy Dean.

There had not been any timber cut. It was necessary to clear a spot to build a cabin. A tree located on the site of the cabin was utilized for shingles, the stump of the same tree, was converted into a table for the family's use. They made this their permanent home and reared their children. Christian continued clearing the land and cultivating the soil.

He was a man of high ideals which ruled the family, many times causing trouble not only at home, but in other aspects of community life: politics, schools, public activities, and personal connections. But he always worked for what was best for the community.

His greatest short coming was handling money, said son Horace. He worried about this so much he got ulcers, but he was a strong family man who wanted his children to succeed and enjoy their triumphs.

He loved photography as a hobby, developing his own prints. Growing roses and gardening were among his interests. In his later life, he took up painting and became obsessed with genealogy.

In his professional life, he was not much different, always in control of the situation, the decision maker, kind hearted, but not demonstrative in showing it, outspoken with opinions and advice.

Jean had been active in Extension. She has held numerous offices in Model Home Homemakers Club; been a 4-H leader in Richland Township, in 1956; recently completed thirty-five years of 4-H leadership in Hamilton, Marion, and DeKalb Counties; served as an area 4-H Judge for twenty-eight years; taught a private Kindergarten sponsored by the Model Home Homemakers Club, 1955-1960, which was held in the Corunna Church of Christ.

The family are members of the Garrett Methodist Church where they have held offices and Jean has taught church school.

Richard is an only child. Jean has one brother, Frederick Philip Hinshaw, of Carmel, Indiana.

They are parents of two children: Philip Richard Brechbill, born 30 April 1947, who now manages the Brechbill Farm, Incorporated, and lives on the home farm. Cynthia Jean (Brechbill) Spence, born 1 May 1949, died 22 November 1977. The Brechbill's claim Purdue University their special school as their children and their spouses all graduated from Purdue. Their grandchildren are Elizabeth and Sarah Brechbill and Jennifer Christine Spence, born 22 November 1970, and Zachary Kyle Spence, born 5 June 1974. Cyndy's children live with their parents, Donald Lee and Mary Eileen (Kelly) Spence, in Logansport, Indiana.

JACOB BRECHBILL, born 2 September 1832, in Bedford, Pennsylvania, son of Martin and Barbara (Geyer) Brechbill. He was of German origin. In 1834, his family moved to Indiana County, Pennsylvania where he was reared and educated. The family moved to Stark County, Ohio, in 1854. Jacob farmed with his father until he married Sarah Ober, 3 February 1859.

Sarah, born in Bedford County, Pennsylvania, 12 August 1839, daughter of John, Sr. and Nancy (Bechtel) Ober. She moved to Stark County, Ohio, when she was fifteen, with her parents.

Jacob and Sarah moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, in 1864. They settled on a farm two and one half miles northwest of Garrett in Keyser Township. Jacob cleared land and became a prosperous man, the owner of three hundred seventy acres. He had learned the trade of shingle making which he followed in addition to his farming operation until he died.

He donated the ground on which Christian Union Church stands with the understanding that all denominations had a right to worship there. He then donated the land for the Christian Union Cemetery. Since the original plot outgrew its needs, more of the original Brechbill farm was acquired from the Walter Davidson farm, which was a part of the original farm Jacob owned.

Jacob built two brick houses for his children, which still stand in that area.

There were eight children born to this union: Martin; John; Claude, died in infancy; Nancy, married David C. Shirk; Elizabeth, married Henry Davidson; Sarah Anne, married Daniel Wagner; Mary, married David Yarde; and Cora, died in infancy. All the children, except for Nancy, lived on farms in the Christian Union area all their lives. Nancy moved to Kansas after her marriage.

Jacob died 21 February 1902, and Sarah died 2 November 1908. Both are buried in the Christian Union Cemetery.

DAVID A. MC BRIDE, born 23 July 1832, in Portage County, Ohio. His parents were Richard McBride and Samantha Smith, who were married 15 May 1823, Portage County, Ohio. They moved to Smithfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, in the year 1847.

Joel Thompson and his wife, Maria Jane (McBride), sister of David, made the trip to DeKalb County, in 1847. The trip was made by team to Cleveland, Ohio, hence to Toledo, Ohio, by canal boat to Fort Wayne, Indiana, and team to DeKalb County, Indiana. It is quite likely that David and Rachel and other members of their family came at this time.

David purchased land in DeKalb County as shown in the Deed Book, 1836-1860, Volume K, page 108, Auburn, Indiana.

The members of the community started a church they called the Cedar Lake Organization, Christian Church Disciples, later named the Cedar Lake Church of Christ, Waterloo, Indiana. It is still in existence at this date, but is called the Church of Christ, Independent. Rachel, David, and their parents were charter members and Rachel wrote a history of the church in 1909. The original on tablet paper is owned by Daisy Brugh Getts, granddaughter of Rachel.

David and Rachel had two children: Emma Lavina, born 30 January 1855, and Mary Laticia, born 1 July 1859.

David enlisted in the Union Army, 22 October 1862, but before he left for duty, he and Rachel had photos taken with Emma and Mary. They are in a large oval frame and Daisy Getts has the original.

David was called to duty, 16 November 1862, at Indianapolis, Indiana, Company G., Fifty-fourth Regiment Indiana, under Captain Carter. David's time in the service was short. He died on board the Dia Vernon, enroute from Memphis to Cairo, Illinois. The date of death varies in military record and it was either 18 or 19 January 1863. Several other soldiers died at this time and they were buried at Mound City, Illinois, in unmarked graves. Joel Thompson, brother-in-law of David, heard of David's illness and went in search of him. He traced the location of the boat, Dia Vernon, which led him to Mound City, Illinois. He had the body disinterred and brought home for burial, 1 March 1863, at Cedar Lake Cemetery, DeKalb County, Indiana. A detailed record of this is in David's military records from the National Archives, Washington, D.C.

Rachel, left a widow with two small children, married Frederick Harmes/Harms, 20 December 1864. He had four children by his first marriage: Joel, Alice, Angeline, and Henry.

A daughter was born to Rachel and Frederick Harmes, Eva.

Mary Laticia died in September, 1867, and Rachel recorded the date on tablet paper.

According to the military papers, John Shatto, grandfather of Emma, was appointed her guardian. Later Joel Thompson, her uncle was appointed. He cared for the $500 given by the government for the loss of her father in the Civil War. When Emma married William Brugh and moved to Oviatt, Michigan, in the fall of 1882, this paid for their first home.

They had three children: Nellie, Maude Bell, and Glen when the family moved to Oviatt, Michigan. They had four more children after they made their home in Oviatt: Ivy, Ray, Hazel, and Daisy.

FRANK PUTT, son of Levi Putt and Harriett (Anstett) Putt, born 24 August 1869, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

They lived on a farm in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, and raised a family of five children: Dwight, born 19 March 1908, married Rachel Minerva Dale, 31 December 1931; Naomi Brugh Putt, born 18 December 1910, married Raymond Rensch, 2 September 1932; Pauline Harriett, born 11 July 1913, married Roy Elmer King, 18 March 1934; Lurah Jeanette, born 17 December 1916, married Doyle Thornton DeVoe, 1 December 1938; and Allen Oscar, born 11 February 1919, DeKalb County, Indiana, married Evelyn Foster, born 19 November 1919, in March, 1943, military, World War II, mine sweeper.

RAYMOND RENSCH, born in Butler, Indiana, 5 September 1908, son of Harley and Elva (Everetts) Rensch. His paternal grandparents were William and Phoebe (Aldrich) Rensch. His maternal grandparents were Joseph Walker and Eunice (Slentz) Everetts.

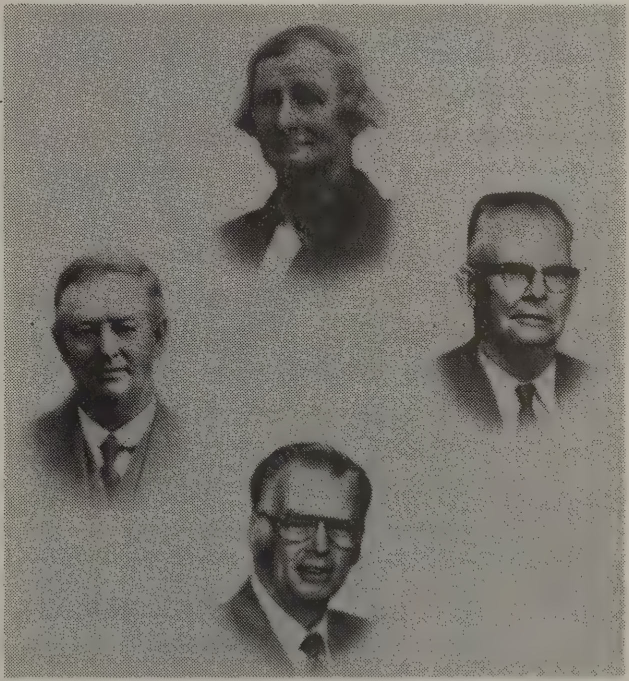
Raymond and Naomi were married 2 September 1932. At this time they lived in Hudson and the surrounding area. They later bought a little farm near Fairfield Center. Raymond attended Tri-State Normal College and Manchester College. He first taught school at Tamarack School, in Troy Township, in 1928-1929.

Raymond and Naomi had two children: Carolyn E., born 4 November 1933, and Lyle Harley, born 18 December 1934, died 19 December 1934.

Carolyn married Florian Cripe, of Wenatchee, Washington, 5 June 1955. They met while attending Manchester College. They have four children: Frederick of Northbrook, Illinois; Lisa, of Sturgis, Michigan; Daniel, a graduate student at Purdue University; and Katrina, who plans to attend Purdue University, this fall 1986. The Florian Cripe family live near Angola, Indiana.

In February, 1948, Raymond and Naomi purchased a farm in Wilmington Township and still reside there. They are members of the Community Bible Church in Butler.



Four Generations of Hamman

MAX W. HAMMAN, a life-long resident of Smithfield Township, is the fourth generation to farm the original Hamman Homestead founded one hundred forty years ago. Max's great grandfather, Thomas Hamman, moved here from Stark County, Ohio. He bought his farm in Smithfield Township, in the fall of 1847. The next April, he began the erection of a dwelling which he finished in the Spring of 1849, and is still standing today. This was the first frame house in Smithfield Township. On 20 December 1850, Thomas, born 11 November 1823, died 8 August 1897, married Elizabeth Schuyler, born 24 November 1822, died 4 April 1901. She moved from York County, Pennsylvania, in 1842, with her stepfather, Adam Hood. In 1864, he built his barn which is eighty-five by forty-two feet in size, which is still in use today. Some of the twelve by twelve inch beams are black walnut with some as long as forty-five feet. Thomas began building another house in 1881, next to the first one.

Thomas and Elizabeth had nine children: John, born 29 December 1851, died 17 January 1930; Samuel, born 15 August 1853, died 24 June 1883; Henry, born 21 February 1855, died 1930; Eliza, born 15 March 1858; Caroline, born 3 February 1863, died 19 January 1886; Thomas, born 25 July 1866, died 22 May 1946; Simon, born 19 December 1868, died 17 September 1930. Eliza and two others died in infancy. On 18 December 1891, Simon married Cora Bollinger, born 17 December 1874, died 4 December 1938, and they became the second generation on the family farm. Simon added on to Thomas's house in 1902. During Simon's residence in 1924, twenty-four acres were converted to an emergency landing field for airmail services. When electricity was added to the landing field, it was also put in the house, making it one of the first in the community.

Simon and Cora had seven children: Hugh Leroy, born 13 June 1892, died 15 October 1949; Daisy Mae, born 27 November 1893, died 7 March 1973; Merle Leonia, born 16 July 1895, died 13 May 1943; Ralph Jennings, born 27 May 1897, died 4 May 1981; Loyde Herman, born 7 May 1899, died 20 December 1935; Cleo Simon, born 3 May 1901, died 30 December 1966; Orba Albert, born 12 December 1902, died 17 May 1961, who was adopted.

Ralph Jennings served in World War I in the infantry and after returning, 18 February 1919, married Doris O. Collins, born 22 June 1897, died 5 December 1982. From this third generation farm, Ralph served as trustee of Smithfield Township. Ralph and Doris had three children: Wayne Lamar, born 16 May 1920; Wilma Marcella, born 30 September 1922; and Max Wilbur, born 25 January 1926.

Max Wilbur, the present generation residing on the family farm, married Doris A. Kohart, born 28 September 1924, on 23 September 1945, and moved into the ancestoral home on 1 January 1949. Max and Doris have four children: Steven, born 23 June 1946, married Janice Elleman, born 12 March 1947, of Troy, Ohio, and resides there with two sons: Scott, born 9 December 1973, and Jeremy, born 2 May 1976; Joyce Hammon, born 30 May 1949, married Timothy L. Shopp, born 23 January 1950, of Fort Wayne, and they have four children: Stacy, born 19 July 1975; Michael and Jennifer, born 23 July 1981; and Sarah, born 9 September 1985; Gary Hamman, born 13 March 1952, married Leslie Eyler, born 7 August 1952, of Auburn, and they have a daughter, Natalie, born 31 July 1983; Shirley Hamman, born 21 November 1953, married Walter Earl DeLong, born 15 December 1949, of Garrett, and have a son, Willis, born 19 May 1986.

CHRISTIAN FRETZ, born 24 January 1824, in Fayette County, Pennsylvania, son of George and Magdalena (Stickler) Fretz. His paternal grandparents were Jacob and Mary (Mumaw) Fretz.

Esther Showalter, born in Tuscarawas County, Ohio. Her birthdate and parentage are unknown.

Christian came to DeKalb County before marriage, bought and cleared some land a half-mile east of the future East Richland School and built a log cabin home. He then married Esther Showalter, 29 March 1853. The log cabin still exists at this writing but is now the property of Attorney John Martin Smith, who dismantled, moved, and re-erected it on his property.

Christian and Esther had five children but he did not live long enough to help raise them. He died 20 April 1862, when their youngest, Henry, was four months old. He had a cold, which developed into what they called brain fever.

Esther must have been a remarkable woman and mother. She never remarried but raised her five children with Christian training and they lived to honor her. Her eldest, Benjamin Franklin Fretz, became an Abstract Attorney, in Rochester, Indiana; John Calvin Fretz became a doctor in Waterloo; Nancy Jane was married first to Lewis Olinger, a farmer who died young, and then to David Bloodhart, a farmer who left her a widow for many years; George Washington Fretz and Henry Maurice Fretz were both farmers in Richland Township. Henry bought his parents' eighty acre farm, built a new house, and used the log cabin for storage.

Christian, Esther, Nancy, George, and Henry are all buried at Sedan. John is buried at Waterloo, and Benjamin at Rochester.

George Fretz Family

GEORGE WASHINGTON FRETZ, born 8 May 1860, in Richland Township, son of Christian and Esther (Showalter) Fretz. His paternal grandparents were George and Magdalena (Stickler) Fretz, of Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

Eva Susan Howard, born 4 December 1860, in Hannibal, Missouri, daughter of Lewis and Catherine Howard.

George and Eva were married 23 October 1881. They had thirteen children: Walter, Charles, Vesta, Archie, Melvin, Clarence, Lewis, Elmer, Harold, Opal, and Orval. Orval's twin and Paul died as infants.

George and Eva met in Indiana, because she lived for some time with relatives in LaGrange County. Like many young couples at that time, they went west to seek their fortune. They were near Coffeyville, Kansas, when the notorious Dalton gang robbed the bank in Coffeyville. All but one of the gang, seventeen year old Emmet, were killed and George arrived soon after and saw their bodies propped against an upturned haystack. Eva also had the experience of attending school with Frank James and another brother, who joined their oldest brother, Jesse, to form the notorious "James Gang."

George and Eva gave up their venture and returned to Richland Township and bought a farm a half-mile east of Showers Corners. They attended the Maple Grove United Brethren Church, which George helped to build. It was completed about 1893, and Reverend Milton Wright, Bishop, father of Wilbur and Orval Wright of airplane fame, preached the dedication sermon.

George served as Township Road Supervisor at one time and succeeded in plugging the sinkhole north of Feaglers Corners. He bought and razed an old log barn and piled it on top of the three bridges already lost there.

Of all their children, only three remained in DeKalb County. These were: Vesta, married Emery Bowman; Archie; and Clarence.

Eva died 16 June 1923, and George died 24 November 1926, at their home in Auburn. Both are buried at Sedan, as are their sons: Melvin, Clarence, Paul, and Orval's twin.

Archie and Eva Fretz

ARCHIE D. FRETZ, born 21 February 1887, on the Aldrich farm, southeast of Corunna, Indiana. He was one of eleven sons and two daughters born to George Washington and Eva Suzanne (Howard) Fretz. His paternal grandparents were Christian and Esther (Showalter) Fretz. His maternal grandparents were Lewis and Catherine Howard, of Hannibal, Missouri.

Eva Ann Miller, born 12 February 1888, at Miltonvale, Kansas. She was one of seven daughters and two sons born to Allen Douglas and Nancy Emaline (Poore) Miller. Her parents were from the Laketon-Roann, Indiana area, but like many at that time, went west to make their fortune. Discouraged, they returned to Collamer, Indiana, about 1892.

Archie and Eva were married at Collamer, 18 March 1911. They have two sons: Max Allen and Mark Elbert Fretz.

Archie attended the Showers Corners School and was a life long member of Maple Grove United Brethren Church. He never attended high school, but, after working a few years, he went to Tri-State College, Angola, Indiana. These years included working for farmer Fred Scattergood and two years at a harness factory in Sidney, Ohio, where he also helped his oldest brother, Walter, on evenings and weekends in the Funeral business. At Tri-State, he studied some high school subjects and the "Normal" or Teacher Training Course. He taught his first year at Sedan School at age nineteen. At Showers Corners School, he taught his sister Opal, brother Orval, and cousin Florence (Fretz) Wittig. He returned to Tri-State where he met Eva Ann Miller.

Eva completed two years of high school at South Whitley, Indiana. She worked in the A to Z Printing Plant, South Whitley, and stores in North Manchester with college in mind. She graduated from Tri-State College in 1910, with a PhD. degree in Pharmacy and was the only girl in her class. Her classmates included Worthy Hughes and John Zimmerman, who later owned drug stores in Garrett. Eva never worked at her career as she and Archie were married the next year. Their first home was Al Triplett's cement block house, east of Showers Corners, where Archie taught the 1911-1912 school year.

The Colfax, Indiana School advertised for a teacher in junior high and Archie accepted the position in 1912. After two years, he decided to return to farming. His son, Max, was born at Colfax, 21 March 1913. Archie rented three farms in succession. First, from his uncle, Henry Fretz, then Jacob Amstutz, and finally, his father, George. On the Amstutz farm on the Auburn-Ashley Road, their son Mark was born 28 August 1916. Archie and Eva finally bought the farm southeast of the Lintz Lake Bridge and moved there on their eighth anniversary, 18 March 1919.

About 1921, the Garrett School decided to segregate, the black and white children in grades one to six. Jenny Lash was soon hired for grades one to three but they needed a man for grades four to six. Clarence Green, County School Superintendent, interviewed Archie two or three times before he consented to teach. The segregation ended the next year when the Baltimore and Ohio shops moved to Willard, Ohio. Archie continued teaching there, and farming also, until a week before he died, 14 April 1944, at age fifty-seven. He is buried at South Whitley.

Eva sold the farm, as they had planned, to Thain Farley and moved to North Manchester, where she worked as a seamstress for six years. She moved to Fort Wayne, worked a while, and retired to a small home near her son Max. As of August, 1986, she is still living in a nursing home at the age of ninety-eight.

MAX A. FRETZ, born 21 March 1913, at Colfax, Indiana, son of Archie D. and Eva Ann (Miller) Fretz. His paternal grandparents were George Washington, of Richland Township, and Eva Suzanne (Howard) Fretz from Hannibal, Missouri. His maternal grandparents were Allen Douglas and Nancy Emaline (Poore) Miller, of Collamer, Indiana.

Erma Lucille Heeter, born 16 October 1914, at Sidney, Indiana. She is one of four daughters and one son of Melvin O. and Florence (Nichols). All were of Kosciusko County, Indiana.

Max, with his parents, moved on his first birthday to Richland Township from Colfax, where his father taught school for two years. After three more moves, the family bought the farm southeast of Lintz Lake Bridge, in 1919, and sold it in 1944, after Archie died. He attended East and West Richland Schools and Garrett Grade and High Schools. He was active in Radio Club, Band and Orchestra, and played with the Auburn City Band for several years. He attended Maple Grove United Brethren Church.

Max graduated in 1931. He intermittenly worked on the farm and attended Tri-State College until graduation in 1935, with the Bachelor's degree in Electrical Engineering. His primary employments were with Magnavox and General Electric Companies in Fort Wayne, and with A.D.T. Alarm System in Toledo, Ohio.

While in Toledo, he and Erma L. Heeter were married 30 May 1940. In December 1940, the General Electric Company recalled Max to the Broadway Plant, Fort Wayne, as a tester in Large Motor-Generator Division for fourteen years. He transferred to the Winter Street plant as Engineering Assistant for twenty years and retired in April, 1975. In 1955, he graduated from United Electronics Laboratories, Louisville, Kentucky, and is a licensed Radio/TV Technician. Since retirement, he has worked as motion-picture projectionist in eight theatres.

Max and Erma have three sons: Philip Leroy is a civilian employee in the Finance Section, Wright-Patterson Air Base, Dayton, Ohio; James Lynn is Warehouse Manager with Leo Distributors, Fort Wayne; David Allen is a Manufacturer's Representative operating as Progressive Marketing, Greenfield, Indiana.

MARK ELBERT FRETZ, born 28 August 1916, on the Jacob Amstutz farm, west of Waterloo, Indiana, son of Archie D. and Eva A. (Miller) Fretz. His paternal grandparents were George Washington and Eva Suzanne (Howard) Fretz. His maternal grandparents were Allen Douglas and Nancy Emaline (Poore) Miller.

Jane Merritt West, born 15 November 1922, at Macon, Georgia, daughter of Thomas and Anna (Boone) West.

Mark's parents bought the farm southeast of Lintz Lake Bridge in 1919. The family attended Maple Grove United Brethren Church. Mark attended East and West Richland Township Schools through the fourth grade and was transferred to Garrett School, where his father taught and was in his father's fifth grade class for a time. He graduated from Garrett High School in 1934. He was in the Radio Club and built and operated Ham Station W9MHX for three years. He played trumpet in the school band and in the Auburn City Band for several years. Like the rest of his family, he attended Tri-State College. He graduated with a Bachelor's Degree in Chemical Engineering and was accorded membership in the Honorary Scholastic Chemical Fraternity.

He was working in Detroit as a chemist with Detroit Sulphite Pulp and Paper Company when "Uncle Sam" drafted him into the service. His trumpet experience served him well as he soon became a bugle instructor at Camp Wheeler, near Macon, Georgia. There he met and married Jane West, 16 December 1943.

In April, 1944, he was assigned to duty in China and left from Florida via Africa on or about the day his father died, 14 April 1944. The word did not reach him until about a month later. Among his duties in China, he was a bugler for General Clair Chenault of the Flying Tigers.

After his honorable discharge from the Army, he and Jane returned to Detroit and his former job. Mark never liked winter weather and Jane preferred Georgia, so they made efforts to move south. Fortunately, Huber Clay Company was near Macon, so Mark applied there and was accepted. After more than twenty-five years of service, he retired as Laboratory Manager from Huber Clay Company.

They have four daughters: Ann Camp is director of the Mathematics Department at Newnan, Georgia High School; Ellen Randolph, also a math major, is the wife of a Navy officer; Susan Maddox is a secretary; and Jean Bixby is a commercial artist.

Mark is a sailboat enthusiast, so he and Jane now reside at Punta Gorda, Florida, one of the many manmade peninsulas. They travel and recently returned from a month in the British Isles.

CYRUS BOWMAN came from Onondage County, New York, to DeKalb County in 1839. He cleared twenty acres of the one hundred sixty given to him by his father, John Bowman, a native of New Jersey, who had purchased it from the government. After three years here, he returned to New York, and married Rachel Waterman, a native of New York. In 1843, the couple returned here and built a log cabin and cleared seventy acres of land. On this farm, Mrs. Bowman died and in 1858, Cyrus married Sarah Ann Smith of Franklin Township.

Sarah and Cyrus had two sons, one being Bob's great grandfather, Archibald (1859-1945). Archibald was born and reared in the southeastern part of Smithfield Township. Archie married Alice Kelly, daughter of Freeman Kelly, in 1880. They moved to Cass County, Michigan, and were engaged in the timber business until 1900, when they returned to the farm where Archie was born, a part of which Bob farms now.

Archie and Alice had seven children, one of them being Clarence Clare Bowman, born in 1881. After graduating from Agricultural College at Michigan State, Clare began farming a tract of land in section thirty-five in Smithfield Township, where his father had farmed. Clare was an enthusiastic up-to-date farmer and an active member of the community. He was on the committee that built the mausoleum in the Waterloo Cemetery and his body was placed there after his death in 1940. It remained there until is was transferred to the cemetery in 1967, when his wife, Dora, died. Clare had married Dora Lutz and they had three children. Wayne, born in 1914, their only son, is Bob's father.

Wayne married Opal Knott, daughter of Fred and Cora (Heitz) Knott of Auburn in 1933. Wayne farmed and Opal taught school for many years, first in one-room schools and later in Ashley and Waterloo. In the beginning of DeKalb High School, Wayne taught the Auto Mechanics class for several years. Wayne and Opal had two children: Robert and Barbara (Bowman) Kleis, who lives in Springfield, Ohio.

Robert Bowman Family

ROBERT W. BOWMAN, born 14 October 1934, son of Wayne and Opal (Knott) Bowman. His paternal grandfather was Clarence A. Bowman, born 1881. His paternal great grandparents were Archibald (1859-1945) and Alice (Kelly) Bowman. His paternal great great grandparents were Cyrus and Sarah Bowman.

Robert married Jean Brand in 1957. Jean is the daughter of John (1901-1980) and Aileen (Buss) Brand (1899-1977) of Fairfield Township. John and Aileen were prominent farmers in Fairfield Township, southwest of Ashley. They and their parents, Ezra and Alice (Betz) Brand, and John and Mary (Bickel) Buss, are buried in Fairfield Cemetery.

ARTHUR H. LAUTZENHISER, born on the Lautzenhiser homestead, in Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 7 June 1887, son of Ezra and Elizabeth (Reichman) Lautzenhiser.

His father, Ezra, was the son of Jacob and Catharine (Reese) Lautzenhiser. Ezra was born in Stark County, Ohio, 5 April 1845. He and his siblings, Isaac, Cyrus, and Hannah, accompanied their parents to Indiana in 1862. In 1864, Jacob and Catharine purchased a home and land in Franklin Township, south of Hamilton.

Ezra lived in the family home and married Elizabeth Reichman, 23 March 1871. The farm was deeded to Ezra and Elizabeth by Jacob and Catharine in 1879. All their ten children were born and reared there.

Arthur attended Hamilton High School and Tri-State Normal School. He passed proficiency tests at a telegraphic school in Mina, Ohio. In the meantime, he continued to live in the family home and work on the land.

Arthur married Dora Lavina Snyder, 9 March 1916, at her family's home in Smithfield Township. Dora was born to J. Frank and Ida (Harwood) Snyder, 4 February 1884. At that time her family resided in Franklin Township.

The newly married couple lived on the Lautzenhiser farm and purchased it in 1917. Arthur and Dora were the parents of four children: Lloyd Lyle, born 18 December 1916; Argyle Glenn, born 14 April 1919; Ardys Elizabeth, born 5 March 1922; and Twila Mae, born 27 June 1930. A real element of tragedy entered the lives of the young family upon the illness and death of Ardys on 20 November 1936.

Arthur and Dora Lautzenhiser were people who shared an unquestioned identity with their families, their land, and the community in which they lived. They always had the energy and zest for one more interest and in return were sustained and enriched by the life about them. While aware of state, national, and international affairs, these events were always regarded from the base of their own established position.

For many years, Arthur served as County Chairman for DeKalb County AAA Program with offices in Auburn. He served as Agricultural Advisor to the War Production Board during World War II.

Arthur and Dora were active members of the Hamilton Methodist Church and the Hamilton Grange. Arthur was a member of the Knights of Pythias Lodge, and Dora of the Auxiliary of Pythian Sisters.

Dora was a charter member of the Home Demonstration Club and the DeKalb County Chorus, traveling across the country with this group . In 1937, she became a member of the Hamilton Study Club. She was co-director of the Red Cross in her area for fourteen years and a 4-H leader for many years.

Arthur and Dora enjoyed guests in their home and frequently hosted large family gatherings and organizational meetings.

Even on the busiest days, Arthur could usually find time for a game of horseshoes. The Lautzenhiser grandchildren grew up playing fierce and agonizing games of canasta, each grandparent playing with a child for a partner.

Dora and Arthur continued to share similar interest throughout their lives. After some years of declining health, Arthur died on 10 November 1979, in the home where he was born.

Dora continued to live in the old house alone, although she was quite blind and had offers from her family for a place to live with them. She died in Angola on 14 February 1983.

ARGYLE LAUTZENHISER, born on the Lautzenhiser homestead, in Franklin Township, 14 April 1919, son of Arthur H. and Dora (Snyder) Lautzenhiser. He married 15 August 1941, to Alice Miller, born 5 October 1921, at the family farm in Stafford Township, daughter of Donald E. and Edna (Countryman) Miller.

They graduated from Butler High School, Argyle in 1937, and Alice in 1938. Argyle earned a degree in Electrical Engineering from Tri-State College and took a position with Delco Remy, Division of General Motors, in Anderson, Indiana. He began work in December, 1940. . Alice was attending Manchester College, but quit to marry Argyle.

In June, 1944, Argyle received a commission from the United States Navy. His longest period of service was aboard a minesweep, the USS Barrier, located in the North Pacific. He was released in 1946.

During the next few years, Argyle worked from Delco Remy, in Anderson, Indiana, to AC Spark Plug in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. In 1960, Argyle was promoted to a new R and D facility located in Wakefield, Massachusetts. They arrived in Essex, Massachusetts three days after Christmas in 1960, and knew they loved New England.

Their home was in Glouchester and they were delighted to be included in civic, community, and church affairs within the first few months.

In 1970, General Motors closed the Wakefield facility to continue research in Milwaukee. They elected to remain in New England, and Argyle became a consultant for Arthur D. Little, Incorporated, in Cambridge, Massachusetts. During his career as an R and D engineer and consultant, Argyle had the opportunity to work on many diverse projects and was awarded thirty-two patents on electro-magnetic and mechanical devices.

In Indiana, their families and land beckoned. In 1975, they started thinking seriously about moving back to DeKalb County to build a home on land owned for many years by Argyle's maternal grandfather, J. Frank Snyder. In 1976, they arranged for timber to be cut from the woods located on that land. It was sawed by a local mill and allowed to cure.

Argyle and Alice moved back to DeKalb County on 17 June 1977. Their youngest son, Frans Peter, took a year off to help his father build the house before entering Wabash College in September, 1978. Building the house was a long adventure, fourteen months, which Alice frankly admitted got a bit tedious at times, but the place, located on County Road 12, has become home. They have been made welcome by their neighbors and are enjoying their lives.

Alice enjoyed working at the Eckhart Public Library for a time. It is a busy, interesting place and she met many wonderful people. They are members of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ.

DONALD E. MILLER, born in Stafford Township, son of George W. and Pearl (Hootman) Miller, 22 July 1898. His parents had both resided in Milford Township, Defiance County, Ohio, prior to their marriage on 22 January 1896. They purchased a farm located in Stafford Township and moved there 2 April 1896.

Donald graduated from Butler High School in 1916, and attended Tri-State Normal School. He taught school for a year, but decided teaching was not for him and joined his father on the farm. In 1918, he enlisted in the United States Army and attended an officers training school at Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio. He was released after the signing of the armistice.

Donald married Edna Mae Countryman at Edgerton, Ohio, 7 August 1920. At the time of her marriage, Edna lived with her parents in Milford Township, Defiance, Ohio, but she was born in Stafford Township to Allen and Minnie (Christoffel) Countryman.

Peter Countryman, Edna's paternal grandfather, and his brother, Ludwig, enlisted in the United States Service in the Civil War, at Waterloo, Indiana, 23 September 1861. Peter and his wife, Elizabeth (Hart) Countryman, and his parents, Jacob and Lydia (Freedline) Countryman, are buried in the Newville Cemetery.

After their marriage, Donald and Edna lived on the Miller family farm. While living there, their two childen were born: Alice Evelyn, born 5 October 1921, and Earl Albert, born 3 November 1924.

Donald farmed and usually had an additional money-making project which he pursued during the slack winter months. For several years in the late twenties, he sold thirty-two volt electric light plants.

In 1938, Donald and Edna moved to a farm they had purchased in Stafford Township. He continued farming until 1950, when he took a position with Federal Fertilizer in Butler. He retired in 1963.

After his retirement, it became apparent that Donald had two great loves in his life. The first one had always been Edna, and the second was with road maps. He and Edna owned a succession of progressively nicer RV's. A special delight for Donald was to map a route and then follow it exactly as planned. He was inclined to feel sorely betrayed by detours. Their pleasure with traveling in this manner was mutual. One of their favorite things to do was to roll into a city or hamlet where cousins or friends lived and invite them to supper. Edna, a superb cook, prepared a fine meal in her efficient RV kitchen. The guests would arrive and everyone would eat and laugh and talk for hours. Eventually the work ethic won out and at the ages of seventy-one and seventy-two, they assumed an agency for garage doors and electric door openers. They named their business Dorboy, and installed many commercial and residential doors and operators in DeKalb County and Defiance County, Ohio. Only occasionally did they squeeze out time for a trip in their RV. They took real pride in their installations and in giving responsible service.

In 1979, they sold Dorboy, and in 1984, their farm. Early in 1984, they contracted to have a home built in Smithfield Township. They moved into their new home in October, 1984, and celebrated their sixty-fifth wedding anniversary there, 7 August 1985.

Donald died 13 August 1985, and Edna continues to live in the house they built.

Both Donald and Edna have been life long members of the West Milford Church of Christ. Donald served for many years as a director of the Inner City Mission in Fort Wayne. They were vigorous supporters of the DeKalb Memorial Hospital Fund Drive.

ANDREW SCHURR, born in Wertemburg, Germany, on 3 June 1847. At the age of 24, he and his sister, Sophia, left Breman, Germany, and came to America, arriving at the port of New York around the sixth of July, 1871 aboard the vessel Rhine. Andrew worked at Cleveland, Ohio, when he first arrived in this country and by 1876, was found to be in the Noble County area.

Rosetta Magdalena (Leins) Schurr was born 7 December 1853, to John George and Rosena (Mueller) Leins in Wertemburg, Germany. Rosetta came to America with her parents when she was six weeks old and story has it was carried aboard the vessel in a Wooden bread box.

Andrew Schurr and Rosetta M. Leins were married in Noble County on 14 December 1876, and remained there until 1903 when they purchased sixty acres of farmland in Fairfield Township for $3100.00 where they resided the rest of their lives.

The Schurr's had eleven children: Rosine "Rosa", married Milo Friend; William F.; Solomon S.; Herman H., married Velma Wallace; and three children who died in infancy — Alfred, Charles, and Catherine.

Andrew Schurr is best described as a gentle, quiet, hard working man with a great sense of humor. One of the traditions he kept with his family was portraying Santa for his children and, later, grandchildren. Memories are recalled of Andrew appearing from across a field with a pack over his back, delighting the children with his arrival.

Rosetta was a warm friendly person, with a friendly welcome to anyone who visited her home. She is remembered for her lavish meals and her hospitality. Although her last years were spent blind and bedfast, her smile never faded.

In 1921, at seventy-four years of age, Andrew Schurr became a naturalized citizen of the United States. He and Rosetta were regular members of the Zion Lutheran Church, Sixteen Church, located in Richland Township.

John had learned the trade of a weaver and farmer and in 1854, left his family to come to America. After spending a few months in New York, he went to Chicago to work on the docks. While living there in 1855, he sent for his family.

In 1857, John joined with four other men: Frank A. Miller, John Miller, Xavier Schmidt, and Frederick Schmidt, and they brought their families to Smithfield Township, where they pooled their money, bought forty acres of land in Section 15 for $300.00, and divided it five ways. Frank and John Miller were brothers-in-law of John Shoudel and the Schmidts were brothers-in-law of Frank Miller. The land in question was very primitive and had to be cleared for farming. Thus were the humble beginnings of the German Catholic community around what is now St. Michael's.

John and Magdalena were the parents of five children: Baltzer R., married Martha Karr; Michael L, wed Joanna Reinig; Johannes, never married and passed away at the age of twenty-one; Mathias E., married Elizabeth May, and after her death, married Mary Anna May; and Agnes, wed George May.

John Shoudel used his middle name of Mathias, perhaps because his father's name was also John, and spelled Shoudel as "Schaudel," which is the way it is on his tombstone, but not on his wife, Magdalena's.

John M. Shoudel was one of the original group of men who petitioned Bishop Dwenger in 1880 to form the parish of St. Michael's and after such permission was granted, he donated the ground for construction of the church. Unfortunately, he died on 17 April 1881, four months before the completion of the church and became the first person to be buried in St. Michael's cemetery. Magdalena (Miller) Shoudel died 15 February 1888, and is buried beside her husband.

George May Family

GEORGE MAY, born 5 January 1854, in Erie County, New York, the oldest child of Valentine and Magdalene (Kuhn) May.

Valentine May was born and raised in Alsace, France, the son of Rinehart May. Upon reaching maturity, Valentine spent seven years in the French army and, in about 1850, came to America with his parents.

Magdalene Kuhn was also born in Alsace, the daughter of Anthony and Christina Kuhn. She married Valentine May in Erie County, New York, where they settled and became the parents of ten children: George, Mary (May) Barth, Valentine, Catherine (May) Linde, Elizabeth (May) Dauscher, Magdalena (May) Simmit, John G., Rosa (May) Klein, Anna (May) Foit, and Joseph.

Valentine passed away 1 May 1903, and Magdalene was reported to be eighty-two years old in the 1914 History and still living in the Erie County home. Magdalene's mother, Christina Kuhn, was reported to be one hundred three when she died and her grandmother, Christina Steinmetz, was said to have been one hundred ten when she passed away three days after the battle of Wurth, where her home was blown away over her head due to its location between the two armies of France and Prussia.

George May remained in Erie County, New York, until 1878 when, after receiving his education and learning the trade of blacksmith, he decided to come to Smithfield Township.

On 30 April 1878, George May married Agnes Shoudel, daughter of John M. and Magdalena (Miller) Shoudel. Agnes was born 20 October 1856, in Chicago, Illinois, and came to Smithfield Township with her parents when she was an infant.

In the early 1880's, George and Agnes May obtained a farm in Smithfield Township, where they remained for the rest of their lives. The farm had been in the Shoudel family, Agnes' family, for several years prior to their moving there, and has stayed in the family since then, being presently owned by Otto May, a grandson of the George May's.

George May served as Township Assessor and on County Council in the early 1900's. He was also a salesman for the Mutual Fire Insurance Company for Smithfield Township for a number of years.

George and Agnes became the parents of nine children, three of whom died as infants. The others were: Mike, wed Carrie Housworth; Magdalena married Andrew Zircher; John M. wed Mary A. Dapp; Katherine and Mary both remained single and lived on the home place; and Anna married George DeLucenay.

George May died 9 November 1949, two months shy of his ninety-sixth birthday. Agnes (Shoudel) May passed away 10 June 1917. Both are buried in St. Michael's Cemetery.

John and Mary May

JOHN MATTHEAS MAY, born on 27 January 1882, on a farm north of Waterloo, and a short distance east of St. Michael's. He was the son of George and Agnes (Shoudel) May and spent all of his youth to maturity at the same location.

Mary Agnes Dapp was born on 9 August 1885, on a farm close to the May farm. She was the daughter of Henry and Magdalene (Schiffli) Dapp.

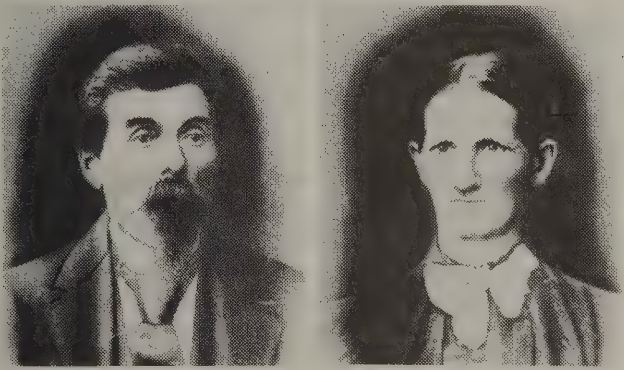
On 26 June 1906, John May married Mary Dapp at St. Michael's Catholic Church where both had attended since birth and were to remain members the balance of their lives.

Soon after their marriage, they purchased a farm about four miles west of St. Michael's, where they raised their family of seven children. Agnes married Leo Hollis and resides in Garrett; Ester married and divorced Robert Nessel and was married to and widowed by G.F. Koehlinger and presently resides in Fort Wayne; Veronica married Edward Schlosser and lives in Waterloo; Norbert married Cordella Diederch and lives east of Waterloo; Otto married Joan Schmidt and lives north of Waterloo on the farm his grandfather owned and where his father was raised.

John often related stories of going to the town of Summit as a youth and young farmer selling his harvest. That seemed to be the local gathering place in those days.

Mary was a typical hard working farm wife who could not resist listening in on the party lives of the old hand crank phones. She use to hush her grandchildren as she carefully picked up the receiver to get the latest neighborhood gossip and if this had been written when she was alive, the writer would have been scolded for sure.

Mary (Dapp) May died on 27 October 1970, and is buried at St. Michael's Cemetery. John May passed away on 29 November 1972, just shy of his ninety-first birthday and was buried beside his wife.



John and Caroline Pfefferkorn

JOHN PFEFFERKORN, born 28 may 1843, in the Alsace, France area close to the Rhine River on the French-German border. He was the son of Joseph and Mary Ann (Mufillheiser) Pfefferkorn.

Caroline Thalmann was born 23 December 1842, in the same area as John Pfefferkorn.

John and Caroline were married in the area of their childhood and left with their children in 1880 to come to America. They departed from Harve, France aboard the ship, Amerique, and arrived in New York City on 22 April 1880. Also on board the above ship was the Anthony Schiffli family.

The Pfefferkorns eventually settled on a farm west and north of St. Michael's near Summit, where they raised a family of ten children: Mary, wife of George Ellert; Louise wed Frank Schlosser; Jennie married Mike Schlosser; Jim married Mary Richter; John; Carrie, wife of Lawrence Richter; Rose wed Henry Schmidt; Anthony; Andrew married Louise Vanderbosh; Denna became the wife of Elude Blotkamp.

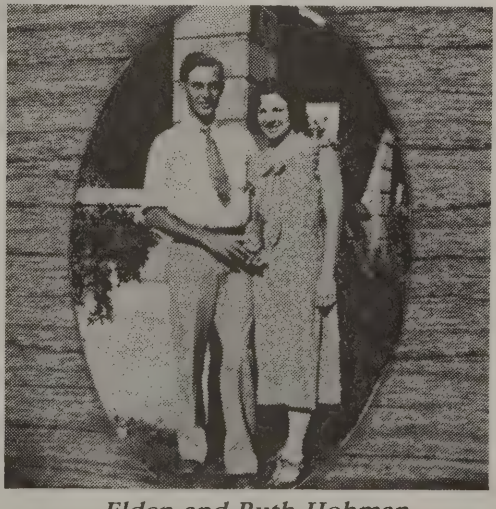
Magdalene (Schmidt) Miller died sometime between 1870 and 1880. Her burial place is unknown, probably in the Buch's farm or the Rope Street Cemetery, northeast of Waterloo.

Upon the death of his first wife, Frank married Rebecca Furney. He passed away 9 May 1903, and was buried at St. Michael's Cemetery, where he was one of the original founders.



Elden and Ruth Hohman

ELDEN HOHMAN, son of Edward and Maudine (Deetz) Hohman. He was born on a farm in Kosciusko County, Indiana, on 28 December 1911. Elden's maternal grandparents were Benjamin and Mary (Snellenbarger) Deetz. Most of his childhood was spent in Noble County, where he attended Riley Grade School in Kendallville, until the eighth grade. At this time, out of necessity, he was required to leave school and obtain work to help financially at home. Elden had two half-brothers: Frank "Jack" Oliver, deceased, and Don L. Oliver, now residing in Kendallville, and a sister, Mary Alice (Hohman) Jewert, now living in Pennsylvania.

Ruth Magdalena Friend was born on 12 March 1907, in DeKalb County, to Milo and Rosine "Rose" (Schurr) Friend at the home of her paternal grandparents, Norris and Susanna (Deter) Friend. She has a sister, Ethel (Friend) Hills, and a brother, Carl Friend. Ruth's education began at Corunna School and later, after her family moved to a farm, she attended the two room West Richland School. Ruth's first three years of high school were obtained at the Corunna School, where they offered three years of secondary school. She completed her fourth and final year at the Kendallville High School, graduating in 1926. While attending school there, Ruth and her sister, Ethel, stayed with a classmate's grandfather during the week, doing housework for their room and board, and coming home on weekends to visit their family.

They are the parents of two children: Norma Jean, who married DeWayne Schlosser, and Allen LeRoy, who married Cheryl Gaff. He completed courses and became a drafting designer working for many years in design for McCray Refrigeration, Kendallville. In the early years of his marriage, he was involved in doing body work and painting automobiles to earn extra income and during the last few years of his working career, he owned and operated his own machine shop.

Elden was involved in many hobbies and as a young man was associated with the George Bellford Acrobatic Troop. He was also a member of the Bar-None Saddle Club in its early existence, and enjoyed photography and fishing.

Ruth Hohman was employed at Messenger Corporation, Waterloo Canning Factory, T and H Products, and Albright's One Stop. She attended the Methodist Church regularly and at one time taught Sunday School. As a young lady, she often played piano duets and sang with her sister, Ethel.

Elden and Ruth moved from Auburn to Corunna in 1948, where they remained for the balance of their lives.

Elden died on 4 June 1970, at the age of fifty-eight. Ruth died on 21 February 1978, just shy of her seventy-second birthday. Both are buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

Anthony and Catherine Schiffli

ANTHONY SCHIFFLI, born on 7 December 1825, in Alsace, France, the son of Christian and Gertrude Schiffli, both of whom were born, raised, and lived in Alsace.

Catherine Fetters was born on 23 October 1833, in the same area as the Schifflis. She was the daughter of Ferdinard and Gertrude Fetters.

In 1880 Anthony and his family came to America, departing from Harve, France, on the ship, America, and landing in New York City on 22 April 1880. They happened to be ship's passengers with John Pfefferkorn and his family.

The Schifflis came directly to Summit where their eldest daughter, Gertrude, and Mrs. Schiffli's brother, Ferdinard Fetters, had preceded them in coming to America.

Shortly thereafter, they purchased forty acres of land west of Summit, where they lived for several years.

Frederick and Catherine Schlosser

FREDERICK SCHLOSSER, born 22 November 1841, in Bundenthal, Bavaria Falls, Germany, the son of George and Lena (Swibraker) Schlosser. In about 1865 or 1866, he came to America and, after spending a few months in New York, traveled to and settled in Chicago.

Catherine Miller was born 12 October 1849, also in Bundenthal, Germany, the daughter of Frank A. and Magdalene (Schmidt) Miller.

On 20 November 1866, Frederick Schlosser and Catherine Miller were married in the St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Waterloo, the first Catholic Church in DeKalb County. The ceremony was one of the earliest known marriages performed in the church.

After the wedding, Fred and Catherine returned to Chicago, where Fred was a molder in a foundry. A few years later, due to health, Fred left the foundry and started a broom making business. In October, 1871, Fred, Catherine, and their three young daughters were among 300,000 people living in Chicago when the great fire broke out. They buried their furniture, as did many people, in an attempt to save it. Fortunately, the fire stopped two blocks from their residence.

With half the people of Chicago homeless, things were in complete turmoil. Fred and Catherine decided to move back to DeKalb County, where her father lived. Late in 1872, they purchased a residence in Uniontown (Waterloo) and Fred continued to make and sell brooms until September, 1899, when he traded the property to Alda Kelly for a farm of forty acres in Franklin Township. The farm was located about three miles north of Butler. Fred and Catherine remained here until September, 1904, when they purchased an eighty acre farm in Smithfield Township, where they remained until Fred's death.

Fred and Catherine were the parents of twelve children -four sons and eight daughters: Fred, settled in Wisconsin; Frank; John; and Mike, all settled and farmed in the St. Michael's area; Francis married Lewis Friend; Catherine married Peter Hoffelder; Mary wed Joseph Demske; Anna married a Mr. Jane; Rose wed Charles Pillorid; Magdalena married Joseph Miller; Dorothy wed Emery Martin; and Theresa wed Louis Martin.

Louise Pfefferkorn was born 4 July 1875, in the Alsace-Lorraine region between France and Germany, in the vicinity of a village called Schirrhein. She was the daughter of John and Caroline (Thalmann) Pfefferkorn. Louise emigrated with her parents and family when she was about five years old, disembarking from Harve, France, on the ship, Amerique, and arriving in New York City 22 April 1880. She was raised on a farm northwest of St. Michael's Church.

On 11 May 1898, Frank Schlosser married

Louise Pfefferkorn at St. Michael's Catholic Church, north of Waterloo, where they remained lifelong members.

Frank and Louise purchased an eighty acre farm from A.S. Farrington on 18 February 1902 for $2950.00. The land is located northwest of Waterloo in Smithfield Township, and was sold by the Schlosser family in 1979, at a price of $96,000.00.

Frank was very proud of the barn he had built in 1915, using lumber from his woods. He borrowed $500.00 against the farm for this purpose, and hid the cash in a shed to pay off the barn builders weekly. On one occasion, as he went to the hiding place to retrieve some of the cash, a near-catastrophe occurred as mice had nested in his cash and chewed on many of the bills. Fortunately, the bank was able to read the serial numbers on most of the bills and, therefore, exchanged them.

Frank and Louise (Pfefferkorn) Schlosser were the parents of eight children: Charles died as an infant; Emma married Walter Friend and settled in Mishewaka, Indiana; Minnie married Aloysius (Toots) Hollis and lives in Garrett, Indiana; Cecilia married Germaine Hollis, Toot's brother, and lives one block from Minnie; Helen married Chester Frick and resides in Waterloo, Indiana; Leo never married and farmed the home place until his death in 1978; Edward married Veronica May and lives in Waterloo; and Katheryn married Albert Dunn and settled on a farm south of Waterloo, Indiana.

Henry Dapp Family

HENRY DAPP, born 19 January 1860 in Alsace, France, in a village called Schirrhein. He was the son of Alois and Elizabeth (Martin) Dapp, both of whom were born, reared, and married in the Alsace area.

The Alsace-Lorraine area is located between France and Germany and had been in almost constant turmoil from wars for 150 years, up to and including World War II. As a result, in 1880, Henry Dapp, being twenty years of age, faced required military service. Henry's parents, therefore, decided to come to America and bribed the Burgermeister (mayor) to allow them to leave. They proceeded with Henry, his five younger sisters, and Alois' brother, Martin, to steal away into England.

They departed from London on the ship S.S. Utopia, and landed in New York City, 6 April 1880. Soon after arrival in Summit, Alois purchased 160 acres of farm ground directly east of St. Michael's.

Magdalena Schiffli was born 9 April 1864, in Alsace, France, the daughter of Anthony and Catherine (Fetters) Schiffli. In 1880 at the age of sixteen Magdalena came to America with her family and located near Summit.

On 4 November 1884, Henry Dapp married Magdalena Schiffli at St. Michael's Catholic Church, where both remained members the rest of their days.

Henry was the only son of Alois and Elizabeth (Martin) Dapp, and he had five sisters: Stacy, wife of John Trapp who settled in Garrett; Caroline married Joseph Deitch and settled in Avilla; Clementine was the wife of Anthony Grist of Garrett; Louise married Frank Hoffelder and resided on a farm close to her parents; Elizabeth married William Long and resided in Fort Wayne.

Henry farmed with his father until the latter, Alois, died 1 January 1899. Alois was preceded in death by his wife on 1 December 1897. Upon his father's death, Henry bought out his sisters and proceeded to farm the home place.

Eight children were born to Henry and Magdalena Dapp: Mary became the wife of John May; Elizabeth married Matthias Hohl; Theresa wed John Schlosser; Anthony married Esther Gabe; John became a priest and was a Monsignor over the Fort Wayne Cathedral for many years; Louise; Albert married Margaret Diblin; Catherine married Frank Hohl and after being widowed married Raymond Miller.

Albert farmed with his father and took over the home place after his father died. Albert died in May, 1986, at the age of ninety, still owning the farm his grandfather had settled.

Magdalena (Schiffli) Dapp died 6 June 1924, and was buried in St. Michael's Cemetery. Her husband, Henry Dapp, died 10 January 1932, and was buried beside her.

On 16 February 1878, Norris and Susanna purchased sixty acres of farm land located southwest of Corunna for $2000.00.

County Road 28 was once known as the Toledo and Chicago Pike Road and was a main thoroughfare. Travelers were often welcomed to the Friend home as they paused for a drink of water and to rest before continuing their journey.

Rosa and Milo added many improvements to their property, including enlarging the home to accommodate their family and digging out more basement to include a fruit cellar. Most of the lumber to accomplish the addition and a barn for livestock was obtained from the woods on their property.

Milo Friend was a delightful, friendly, mischievous man with a love for the land. He had great "wit" and on many occasions swapped "tall" tales with his brothers and friends, regarding their crops or the enormous fish they caught. On many occasions, this writer recalls him driving his car into the garage slowly and always hitting the opposite wall, yelling "whoa!" He always commented, "the car didn't know when to stop until it banged into the wall." Milo took great pride in his farm and had a lot of difficulty accepting the "tractor," which in his opinion could not do as good a job as his team of work horses. Eventually, however, he owned a tractor which was his pride and joy.

Rosa Friend can be best described as a jovial, gentle lady who welcomed guests with generous amount of wonderful food. She was very strong in her religious convictions and could quote verses from the Bible endlessly. Many times she entertained her grandchildren by sketching animals or cartoon characters she had originated.

Milo and Rosa were members of and regularly attended the Corunna Methodist Church. Milo passed away at his home 24 April 1962. Six weeks later, on 8 June 1962, Rosa died in the Garrett Hospital at the age of eighty-three. Both are buried in the Corunna Cemetery.

She is buried beside her paternal grandparents in the Corunna Cemetery.

After arriving in America, Annie and her children resided with her relatives in Fall River, Massachusetts, and while there, Annie had a third child, Arthur Henry.

Between 1882 and 1885, Charles and Annie, with their children, moved to Chicago, Illinois, and 8 October 1890, Charles became a citizen of the United States in the Circuit Court of Chicago, Cook County, Illinois. The farm was sandy and the yields small and was lost following the Depression. The Knapps then lived briefly at Avilla and Waterloo before purchasing the farm one mile west of Garrett. George Cramer and Tommy GEORGE ANDREW CRAMER was born in Delphos, Ohio, on 9 September 1871, and came with his parents, Andrew and Lavina Mochamer Cramer, to settle in Altona, DeKalb County, when he was a youngster.

When he was about twenty-five years of age, he moved to Fort Wayne, where he established a house painting and decorating business. This was located on South Hanna Street, where George lived in the rear of the store.

George Cramer stood very tall and straight, quite a dapper young man who was always easy-going and had a easy laugh and a good sense of humor.

In his spare time he fashioned wooden dummies and loved to entertain anyone anytime.

He made wooden stick figures for his nieces and nephews which provided hours of fun for all the children and adults as well.

These figures had a stable head while the arms and legs were all jointed. From the back of the doll was a stick which was used to guide the doll and by manipulating the stick from side to side, the hinged figure appeared to be walking.

His most loved creation was a black boy he named Tommy which is shown in the accompanying photograph.

Tommy's big eyes would roll as George tried his ventriloquism on his audiences. The lips moved and inside the gloves were thin wooden pieces, all jointed so the fingers would move.

The mouth was most interesting as George had placed a small metal cylinder between Tommy's teeth which could hold a cigarette.

When performing, George would light the cigarette and make it puff by manipulating a tube and bulb from the inside.

Friends of the Cramer family whose last name was Lemback moved from Garrett to New York City to perform on the vaudeville circuit and from time to time George and Tommy would join them performing.

It is not known exactly when Tommy was created, but the photo was taken 15 October 1938, for publication in the Rotogravure section of the Fort Wayne Newspapers.

George's sister, Lillie, took Tommy after George's death in 1950, and kept it for twenty-eight years.

Tommy was rescued from an attic by George's great neice, Shirley Cramer Hall, from Auburn, who immediately recognized it with fond memories from her childhood. She had long forgotten about Tommy and thought it no longer in existence.

George Cramer died 14 May 1950, and is buried in Christian Union Cemetery near Garrett.

ARCHIBALD SMITH, born in Terregles Parish, Kirkudbrightshire, Scotland, on 27 December 1788. He died, probably in DeKalb County, Indiana, on 27 April 1861, aged seventy-two. His parentage is unknown at this time.

He was married 11 or 17 August 1818, at Liverpool, England, to Mary Thompson, whose parentage is unknown. She was born in Cumberland County, England, on 29 October 1794, and died, probably in DeKalb County, Indiana, on 4 December 1876, aged eighty-two years.

Nothing is known of Archibald Smith's activities from the time of his birth until his marriage. After his marriage, he immediately started for America, and was ten weeks crossing the ocean. Arriving in New York in November, 1818, the young couple probably went to Mamaroneck, New York, where their first child was born on Motts Farm. By June, 1821, they had moved to Jackson Township, Stark County, Ohio, where their second child was born. A third child was born in January, 1824, at Estrememadura, Perry Township, Ohio. The growing family stayed at this place at least two years, as their fourth child was born there in December, 1825. After moving again, the family was at Plainfield, near Kendal, Stark County, Ohio, before January, 1828, at which place the fifth child was born. The record shows that they were one mile west of Mafoilon, Ohio, by September, 1831. This is where twins were born. By December, 1833, Mr. and Mrs. Smith were at Prospect Hill, probably Ohio, where their eighth child was born. By May, 1836, the family had moved to Bath Township, Medina County, now Summitt County — since 1839, Ohio, where their ninth and tenth children were born. Presumably, Archibald Smith and his family stayed in Medina County, until they started for DeKalb County, Indiana, in 1841.

The family settled in Franklin Township. Archibald and Mary Smith lived in DeKalb County, Indiana, until their deaths in 1861 and 1876 respectively.

In politics, Mr. Smith was an old line Whig.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Smith had ten children, as follows: John, born Mamaroneck, New York, 20 June 1819, married Susan Van Dike, 7 September 1844; Henry, born Jackson Township, Stark County, Ohio, 14 June 1821, married Jane Shanholt, Summitt County, Ohio, 9 February 1841; Benjamin, born Estrememadura, Perry Township, Ohio, 6 January 1824, married Saphina Bonney, Bath Township, Medina County, Ohio, 19 October 1852; Isaac, born Estrememadura, Perry Township, Ohio, 18 December 1825, married Sophronia Holmes, 1 January 1850; Sarah Ann, born Plainfield, near Kendal, Stark County, Ohio, 30 January 1828, married James A. Blanson or Benson, 9 July 1844; Margaretta, twin, born Mafoilon, Ohio, 24 September 1831, died 8 January 1833; Mary, twin, born Mafoilon, Ohio, 24 September 1831; Mary Jane, born Prospect Hill, probably Ohio, 22 December 1833; Archibald Thompson, born Bath Township, Medina County, Ohio, 3 May 1836, married Bena Boyer, DeKalb County, Indiana, 1880; Agnes Elizabeth, born Bath Township, Medina County, Ohio, 28 February 1839, died DeKalb County, Indiana, 18 November 1845.

HENRY SMITH, son of Archibald and Mary (Thompson) Smith, was born in Jackson Township, Stark County, Ohio, 14 June 1821. It is not known when he died.

He was married to Jane Shanholt or Shainholtz in Summitt County, Ohio, on 9 February 1841. Date listed as 14 February 1841 in 1880 Atlas of DeKalb County, Indiana.

Shortly after his marriage, Henry and his new bride moved with his parents to DeKalb County, Indiana. It is not known exactly where the young couple established their first home in this county, although it is somewhere in Franklin Township. Sometime after this, Henry Smith came into possession of a one hundred nineteen acre farm located in Franklin Township, Indiana. This farm is located one mile north and one half mile west of Butler, Indiana. With stout hearts he and his esteemable wife began a home, which was but fairly under way when she was called home, her death taking place 22 May 1852. After the death of his wife, Mr. Smith felt the necessity of a companion and mother to his six children. It was not a common occurrence for a girl of eighteen to take the responsible position of mother to six small children and the care of the household, but such a person was Miss Emeline Robinson, who married Mr. Smith 23 February 1853. To this union six more children were born.

The house mentioned previously was a truly impressive structure for the times, and it, along with the farm buildings, is pictured in the 1880 Atlas of DeKalb County, Indiana. The farm was called "Lovely Dale" and was one of the finest homes in Franklin Township at that time. Mr. Smith was considered one of the most prominent farmers and stock-raisers in the Township. In politics, he was a Republican and belonged to the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The following children were born to Henry Smith and Jane (Shanholt) Smith: Elizabeth Roxanna, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 21 December 1841; John C., born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 21 September 1843; Martin Shanholt, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana 21 April 1845, married Lucy Angeline Hoffman, DeKalb County, Indiana, 2 April 1874 or 1875, died Butler, Indiana, 31 July 1919; Mary Jane, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 21 October 1846; Henry Thompson, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 25 December 1848; Sarah Helen, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 22 February 1852.

The following children were born to Henry Smith and Emeline (Robinson) Smith: James E., born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, died young; Benjamin T., born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, died young; Margaret S., born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, died young; Amy, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, died young; Orrin A., born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana; Owen Elby, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana.

MARTIN SHAINHOLTZ SMITH, the Smith Family Record spells this name Shanholt, but it is thought to be a corruption of Shainholtz. Further confusion exists in regard to this name, the 1880 DeKalb County Atlas lists his middle initial as V., as does an Obituary notice dated 7 August 1919. The family has always considered his name to be Martin Van Buren. Mr. Smith was born in Record Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, on 21 April 1845. He died in Butler, Indiana, on 31 July 1919.

At the age of twenty-six years, he was converted to the United Brethren faith and was considered a faithful and consistent Christian.

On 2 April 1874 or 1875, he married Lucy Angeline Hoffman. She was born in 1860 and died in 1942.

Martin Smith, while not having the educational advantages of some, did possess the necessary qualifications for success in everyday life. He was a farmer most of his life, and in connection with this, he carried on a dairy for about thirty years. He served the Butler community during the time. His farm was located about 1/2 mile south of the southwest edge of Butler, Indiana, in Wilmington Township. This farm is now owned by Walter Melvin Smith, a grandson of Martin Smith.

At his death in 1919, Martin Van Buren Smith was survived by his wife, four children, one sister, one half brother, and three grandchildren.

The following children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Smith: Eva May, born DeKalb County, Indiana, 1 August 1876, married Thomas Russel Young, DeKalb County, Indiana 12 October 1898, died Auburn, Indiana, 21 September 1960; John Henry, born DeKalb County, Indiana, 10 April 1879, married Iona May Zirkle, DeKalb County, Indiana, 14 February 1910, died Butler, Indiana, November, 1925; Carl Ray, born Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 27 May 1882, married Emma Viola Zirkle, DeKalb County, Indiana, 3 July 1904, died Butler, Indiana, 6 May 1961; Darrell Claten, born Wilmington Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 24 December 1891, married Mabel Helen Dickman, 20 September 1923.

EVA MAE SMITH, daughter of Martin V. and Lucy Angeline (Hoffman) Smith, was born 1 August 1876. She died 21 September 1960.

On 12 October 1898, she married Thomas Russel Young, whose family was native to Williams County, Ohio.

For some time, they lived in Butler, Indiana, but subsequently moved to Auburn, Indiana, where Mr. Young was employed by the Auburn Hardware Company for a number of years.

THE FAMILY NAME MERTZ was recorded in ancient heraldic archives hundred of years ago. The surname Merts appears to be patronymical in origin and is associated with the German.

Relative to the Martz-Mertz issue, here it is as I heard it from Royal Tritch, son of William and Sarah (Martz) Tritch, and Marion (Martz) Agnew.

When Grandpa Mertz came to America and was going through immigration procedure, he was asked his name. Jonann, Yo hann, Mertz, pronounced like Maretz. The guy behind the desk said "How do you spell it?" Now here's where the whole thing started.

To understand how things got confused, you must know that the German E is pronounced A, so Grandfather said "Mertz — Mar-air, T tay z." So the guy wrote down Martz and that's how it started.

Anyway, Uncle Dave said his kids were going to be Martz, as it appeared on the immigration ledger, and so it was for Phil, Albert, Sarah, and Esther, but Robert and Herman use Mertz. Uncle Ben said "we'll go back to the original Mertz. If is was good enough for Germany, it's good enough for America." So it is Mertz for John, Otto, Walt, Ed, Henry, Ted, Dan, and Metha.

An extract from the Church book at Muencheiler states that "Johann Mertz from den Kehlstad was born 22 December 1767." He died 18 May 1849. His first wife, Saloma Lehmann, died 12 April 1804. She bore him seven children.

His second wife, Anna Maria, we are quite sure that her name was also Lehman, was born 9 January 1779, and died 1847. Their children were: Anna, born 8 April 1806; Latarina, born 31 July 1808; Saloma, born 21 May 1810; Christina, born 31 December 1812, married Henry Hartman; Gottlibin, born 21 January 1815; John Michael Mike, born 21 December 1818; John George, born 29 November 1820, married Mary Ann Sauer; and Maria, born 19 January 1823, married Leonard Hartman.

CHRISTINA MERTZ, was born in Germany (Boden) 31 December 1812, and married Henry Hartman on 11 March 1841, in Wayne County, Ohio.

Henry Hartman was born in Germany in 1817. Their children were: George, born 1842, Ohio; Jacob, born 1844, Ohio; Mary, born 1846, Indiana; William, born 1848, Indiana; Lucinda, born 1850, Indiana; Henry, born 1853, Indiana; and Sophia, born 1856, Indiana.

Henry Hartman was a brother of Leonard Hartman, born 27 September 1819, in Hesse Dormstadt, Germany. Henry Hartman and his family may have moved back to Ohio. He was a farmer and land owner in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County. They owned land on what is now County Road 12.

JOHN MICHAEL "MIKE" MERTZ, born 21 December 1818, in Moenchweiler, in the Grand Duchy of Boden, Germany, came to America in 1836. He came to Philadelphia, Ohio, and on the Indiana in 1844. On 20 December 1852, he married Magdalene Engler. They lived in Fairfield Township, Section 17 on the farm known as the Atz farm. Magdalene died in 1906 and Mike died 4 November 1908.

Their children were: Anna, married Fredrick Mertz (no relation); Mary, married Noah Smith; and Sophia, married Albert Atz.

He was a farmer and owned land on what is now County Road 7, sometimes called the Atz farm.

JOHN GEORGE MERTZ/MARTZ was born 29 November 1820, in Muenchweiler Boden, Germany. Records state that he came to America with his parents, brothers, and sisters. They first settled in Wayne County, Ohio. They then came to a German Community in Adams County, Indiana, and on to Fairfield Center in 1851. John G. married Mary Ann Sauer in 1842. She was born 31 January 1824 in Bern, Switzerland. She also came with her brothers and sisters to America and settled by the small village of Fort Wayne, Indiana. John G. died 1 February 1889, and Mary Ann died 18 December 1913, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Tritch in Fairfield Township. They are buried in the Zion Lutheran Cemetery.

Their children were: Anna, born 17 December 1846, Adams County; John G., Jr., born 1848, Adams County; Benjamin, born 2 February 1850, Adams County; David, born 1852, DeKalb County, Fairfield Township; Christ, born 1853, DeKalb County, Fairfield Township; Mary, born 25 October 1885, DeKalb County, Fairfield Township; Daniel, born 25 November 1857, DeKalb County, Fairfield Township; Susanna; Catharina Katie; Sarah, born 1864.

Esther Myers nee Martz wrote "I can remember Grandma Mary telling me about Switzerland and the mountains and the beautiful forest and she could sing and yodel very beautiful." John G. Mertz owned and operated a farm on County Road 12, now owned by Kenneth Mertz.

Benjamin Mertz Family

BENJAMIN MERTZ, born 2 February 1850, in Adams County, Indiana, and died in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, 6 June 1898. He married Johanna Elizabeth Aumann, born 4 April 1856, in Adams County. She died 25 July 1919 in Kendallville, Indiana. They are buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery. Johanna's father was Wilhelm Aumann and her mother was Christina Bruns. Both came to America from Minden, Prussia.

Ben and Hanna first lived in the brick house in Fairfield Center. They purchased the John G. Farm on 23 April 1891.

Their children were: Sarah Johanna and Emma Martha died as small girls in the 1880 diphtheria epidemic that went through the area; John W., born 10 October 1879; Otto E., born 10 June 1881; Walter B., born 4 March 1883; Edward J., born 1 July 1885; Henry A., born 20 June 1887; Theodore A., born 30 June 1889; Daniel G.; Metha Mary, born 5 August 1895.

The first mixed choir at Zion Lutheran Church was organized by Benjamin. He was also the first lay-organist at the Church in 1885. His son, Walter, served as organist from the time of his father's death in 1898 until 1954.

The entire family was musically inclined. The "Mertz Quartet" found favor at many occasions in churches, at funerals, graduations, picnics and civic groups. At first it was John, Otto, Walt, and Ed, and in later years it was John, Walt, Ed, and his son, Lloyd.

The favorite sport was baseball. Fairfield Center had one of the top teams in those days. Herman Mertz was the champion pitcher. Other sports were horseshoe pitching, croquet, and dominoes, also hunting and trapping. Another big event was to hear the whistle of the steam engine coming down the road at thrashing time. This meant a threshing ring dinner and/or supper.

Another favorite was a box social at the district school, when girls and young women, with artfully decorated and amply filled boxes of goodies for a young and bashful man's bidding. Do any of you remember the "Now I have three, who'll give me four?" chant of the box supper auctioneer? Women often gathered for carpet rag cutting or a quilting bee.

Edward Mertz Farm

EDWARD JULIUS MERTZ, born 1 July 1885, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, son of Benjamin Mertz and his wife, Johanna Aumann. Zion Lutheran records show that he was baptized on 26 July of the same year. His sponsors were Philip Pfaffmann and wife, Anna, and Albert Atz and wife, Sophia.

Edward graduated with the eighth grade class of 1903, Fairfield Township, and attended Tri-State College at Angola, Indiana.

He was united in marriage with Lillian Celesta Kammerer, daughter of William and Caroline (Beights) Kammerer, 19 June 1910. She was born 17 August 1887, in Wayne Township, Noble County, Indiana. She had seven brothers: Irwin "Irv", Otto "Tom", Ernest "Punch", Alvin "Pete", Warren, Albert "Al", and Walter "Mike."

Ed and Lilly lived on the John G. Mertz farm from the time of their marriage until they purchased the Allen Martin farm in 1920. The deed states: Patent date 1 August 1837, the United States of America to Ebenezar Jessup-Martin Van Buren, president of U.S.A.

Their children were: Lloyd W., Hilda Johanna, deceased, Ralph H., Lester Edward, deceased, and Robert B. Mertz.

They were active in all Community and Church work. The Church was their first love. Lillian C. Mertz died 23 June 1956, and Edward died 5 June 1973. They are buried in Zion Lutheran Cemetery.

Reverend Hillmer was pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, West Fairfield from 1969 to 1975. He was a very talented man and did substitute teaching in the Music Department at DeKalb High School for Mrs. Mildred Hansen. He also substituted for Harold Reinoehl in the grade school at Fairfield Center. His children were: John, Philip, Ann, and Timothy and they attended school in DeKalb County.

In a taped interview with Reverend Hillmer, 15 March 1972, when Ed Mertz was eighty-six years old, he related how "we used to lived down there where Donald lives, the brick house in Fairfield Center. Dave, my dad's brother, lived over where the Kuckuck place was, first house west. They moved his, Dave, over where we lived and we moved up on the John G. Mertz farm, Kenneth Mertz lives there now. Bill Tritch lived there, so he moved on to the second farm west of there. Bill's wife was my dad's sister. I was about three or four years old and not going to school."

Reverend Hillmer asked, "Who were the other members of your family? Were you the only child?"

"Oh no, there was John, Otto, Walt, myself, Henry, Ted, and Dan, seven of us boys. And each one of us had a sister."

"Was that seven sisters or only one sister."

"My sister, Metha, who lives in Kendallville, was the only girl. We had 320 acres of land, that was a lot of work and we did it all with horses. My brother Walter and I used to buy and sell horses. We didn't make any money on it, but we had a lot of fun. A good horse would sell for $150 to $100."

Along with the eighth grade graduating class of 1906, was one empty chair. Otto Hassold, son of Reverend and Mrs. Stephen Hassold, pastor at Zion Lutheran Church, West Fairfield, died 4 June 1906, at the age of sixteen years, six months, and twenty-six days of a crushed skull, victim of a runaway team of horses while he was working for a member of the church. Otto was to graduate with the class at the commencement held at the Lutheran Church in Fairfield Center. The team of horses was hitched to a wagon loaded with gravel and he was run over by the wagon. At the graduation exercise was an empty chair decorated in black and the Mertz Quartet, consisting of John, Otto, Walter, and Ed sang "The Vacant Chair." It is said that there was not a dry eye in the Church that night when the boys sang.

Lloyd and Helen Mertz

LLOYD WILLIAM MERTZ, born on the old John George Mertz farm just half mile west of Fairfield Center, 3 September 1913. He was German, Swiss, and Prussian descent. His father was Edward Julius Mertz and his grandfather was Benjamin Mertz and his great grandfather was John G. Mertz.

John George Mertz was born in Boden, Germany, 29 November 1820. He came to this country, migrated west through Ohio, to Adams County, Indiana, and to Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, in 1850, as a homesteader and pioneer. He purchased the land and lived in a log cabin, then built the house that still stands today. The first seven years of my life were on this farm and I remember a lot about the neighbors and Fairfield Center at that time.

My parents purchased the Alan Martin farm and we moved there in the spring of 1921. The farm is located at the top of the big hill, just west of 327 on County Road 12. At the back of our house was a big hill which my brothers Ralph, Robert, Lester, and I plus all of the neighbor kids, enjoyed sliding down on our sleds in the winter times.

My mother was the daughter of William and Caroline Kammerer of Wayne Township, Noble County, Indiana. Her name was Lillian but she always went by the name of Lilly. She was a charter member of the Fairfield Township Home Bureau that held some of their meetings at the Pleasant Hill Church. That was before the days of the Fairfield Community Building.

There were always eight of us around the table, Dad and mother, Grandmother Kammerer, Uncle Walter Kammerer, and we four kids. Grandmother baked bread three times a week. There is nothing better that fresh home baked bread and apple butter for hungry kids when they come home from school. We did our own butchering for meat, raised chickens for meat and eggs, churned butter, had a large garden and ate a lot of wild rabbits. This required a lot of work and management to feed and clothe this many people, where the biggest thing we had on the farm was the mortgage, back in the twenties and thirties.

I attended High School in Kendallville for three years and my senior year at Ashley High School. It was there that I met the girl that was to be my future wife. We graduated from Ashley High School in 1932. My wife, Helen, born 29 January 1914, is the daughter of Dr. James Anderson, D.V.M. and Mary Ann Barbara Bousch. Dr. Anderson was the veterinarian in Ashley from 1919 to 1945. He was well known and loved by everyone.

Helen and I were married 24 January 1937, and purchased a one hundred twenty acre farm in Fairfield Township, from Pete Wert, formerly known as the Ling farm. We began housekeeping in the spring of 1938. Land was selling for fifty dollars per acre, hogs for three dollars, milk for one dollar per bushel, wheat sixty cents a bushel, and corn for fifty cents per bushel. The main structure of our house was built in 1869, with numerous additions and remodeling. The basement wall is laid up with stone and the timbers are hewn with an axe. The structure of our barn shows that it was built about the same time. First it was a flat bottom barn, then raised and made into a bank barn and then another haymow was added.

We have two children. Dale was born 10 August 1941, and Harriet was born 22 March 1954. They attended grade school at Fairfield Center. Dale graduated from high school at Ashley and Harriet graduated from DeKalb. Both have a B.S. degree from Valparaiso University. Dale had his M.S. degree from Ball State University and is teaching science at South Adams High School, Berne, Indiana. He is married and has three children. Harriet (Mertz) Redman has her M.S. degree from Purdue University in Home Economics. She taught in the high school at Kouts, Indiana, for three years. She is married and at this writing is with the Health and Living department of Aid Association for Lutherans at Appleton, Wisconsin.

Life on the farm, being next to God and the soil, has been very good to us. Many changes have taken place, such as Hi-Bred corn and other grain, artificial insemination of livestock where DeKalb County became a leader through the American Breeders Service. We have seen a change in land use and improved farm machinery. The greatest change in rural living took place when electricity came to the farm. Rural electrification revolutionized the entire farming industry.

Our income for the first ten years on the farm was from the production of pork, dairy, poultry, corn and wheat. All our fuel and lumber came from out twenty acres of timber. In 1948, we put the woods into a classified forest. I am now and have been a tree farmer. In 1949, we became a cooperator with the DeKalb County Soil Conservation District. The work unit Conservationist was Charles L. Baum. At that time, we changed to a dairy and feeder cattle enterprise.

We have always been active in our church and community. We enjoy traveling in Canada, Germany, and this country. Helen likes domestic art and I in making creative crafts on a wood lathe along with a little fishing.

RALPH H. MERTZ, born 2 April 1918 in Fairfield Township, one mile west of Fairfield Center. At about age two they moved on west of where Ralph was born, where I lived until I went into the military service in December of 1940. My parents, Edward J. and Lillian C. (Kammerer) Mertz lived on this same farm for the remainder of their lives. My brothers included Lloyd, Bob, and Lester, who died in 1935 at age thirteen. A sister, Hilda, also died in infancy. Ralph received his elementary education at Zion Lutheran School from 1924-1932 and attended high school in Ashley, Indiana, from 1932-1936. In 1939 and 1940, he attended International Business College at Fort Wayne, and entered the Army immediately upon graduation in December, 1940. His first duty station was at Fort Hayes, Columbus, Ohio. In January, 1943, Ralph was appointed a Warrant Officer and was assigned to Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, where he remained until 1946. While at Dayton, he met and married Dorothy H. Egbert, from Kettlesville, Ohio. Ralph remained in the service, retiring from there in October, 1967. His duty stations while in the service took him to Okinawa from 1949-1952, Fort Sam Houston, at San Antonio, Texas, from 1955-1957, and to Knoxville, Tennessee, from 1957-1967, where he served on recruiting duty until he retired and where he lives with his family.

My family consists of my wife, Dorothy, born 29 August 1921, daughter of Elmer and Margaret Egbert. Our children are Keith, born 27 October 1945, at Dayton, Ohio; David, born 20 June 1948, at Dayton, Ohio; and Carol Ann, yorn 9 September 1953, at San Antonio, Texas. We have two grandchildren: Chris and Emily, ages six and three.

I have fond memories of my childhood days. Life on the farm then was quite different than it is today. There was no electricity so all the cooking was done on the kitchen range. A furnace for heating was a luxury. Usually a pot-bellied stove provided the heating for the house. Coal oil lamps were used for lighting and the chores and milking were done by lantern. Horses were the primary means for working the farm but occasionally a person could hear the whine of a Fordson tractor off in the distance. Horse and buggy transportation finally gave way to the Model T-Ford, the Overland, the Essex, the Model A-Ford and others, many of which are no longer in existence except in Museums. Entertainment consisted of visiting friends, relatives, or neighbors or on occasional picnic at a lake on Sunday afternoon. Hunting and fishing was always a favorite past time. A good mess of bluegills was always a delicacy.

We of our age reminisce of the "good ole days" and our fathers and mothers and grandparents did the same. So will our children and grandchildren in years to come.

MARGARET ETHEL MERTZ, born 17 January 1910, daughter of John W. and Emma (Krehl) Mertz in DeKalb County, Indiana. Her grandparents were Benjamin and Johanna (Auman) Mertz. Margaret had a sister, Selma (Mertz) Rodgers, born 21 June 1907, married Neal Rodgers. They had one child, Anita (Rodgers) Berkey. Margaret's brother, Arthur, born 11 September 1912, married Luanne Blevins. They had two sons, Gary and James.

Margaret graduated from Kendallville High School in the year of 1928, and during that time lived occasionally with her Uncle Malcolm and Aunt Metha Fraze. She graduated from City Hospital Indianapolis, in 1934, as a registered nurse. After a lengthy illness, she moved to Fresno, California, and pursued her nursing career at Fresno County Hospital.

In the year 1945, Margaret married Thomas Harrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Harrigan. They had three daughters: Maureen, who died in infancy, Linda Louise, and Nancy Ann. Linda married Michael Lotti, who is a major in the United States Air Force. They have one son, Brian, and currently reside in Salt Lake City. Nancy Ann married Barry Patterson and they have two children: Jeffrey and Kelly. They reside in Campbell, California.

Margaret and Tom are both retired and still live in Fresno, where they enjoy their grandchildren and keep up their lovely flowers in the yard and patio.

METHA MARY MERTZ, born in DeKalb County, Indiana, 5 August 1895, daughter of Benjamin and Johanna Auman. Johanna was a sister of a former mayor of Kendallville, William C. Auman. Metha had two sisters, Sarah and Emma, who died as infants from diphtheria. She also had seven older brothers: John, Otto, Henry, Edward, Walter, Theodore, and Daniel, all of whom resided in DeKalb and Allen Counties. Metha and her mother moved to Kendallville in the middle 1900's. After her graduation from Kendallville High School she was employed by Mr. Merica, publisher of the Kendallville News Sun, and later employed by Mr. R.A. Otis, who in addition to owning the drug store, managed the Building and Loan Savings and Home Telephone Company. In the years between 1940 and 1960, she was a catalog sales manager for Sears and Roebuck.

Metha married D. Malcolm Fraze, 23 November 1917, son of Samuel and Viola (Williamson) Fraze. Malcolm had five brothers: James, Hugh, Darius, Charles, Donald, who died in infancy, and a sister, Wynona. Malcolm and Metha were married in a double wedding ceremony at Camp Shelby, Mississippi. The other couple were Esther Martz and Glen Myers. Incidentally, Metha and Esther were also double cousins. Malcolm and Metha had two children: Mary Ellen, born 18 October 1919, and James Malcolm, born 19 June 1924.

Malcolm graduated from Kendallville High School and served in World War I. Upon his discharge from the service, he returned to Kendallville and was associated with the Gawthrop Inn. In the middle 1920's, he joined Campbell and Fetter Bank and remained there until his retirement in 1960. Both Metha and Malcolm were well known in musical circles and Malcolm directed the Presbyterian Church Choir many years. In his earlier years, he sang when needed with the Mertz Quartet, who were well known in the DeKalb County area.

Mary Ellen Fraze recently retired and moved back to Kendallville. James M. Fraze served in World War II and upon his return, he married Shirley Lee Miller, daughter of Guy and Geneva (Davidson) Miller, and is employed by Kraft Foods. JAMES MYLES and PHYLLIS HIXSON, the children of James Myles and Phyllis Hixson were the fifth generation to reside on the same land southwest of Garrett, Indiana, Butler Township.

Myles' great-great grandfather, James A. Reynolds, immigrated from Scotland with his parents in 1798. They first resided in Delaware, came westward to New York, then to Wayne County, Ohio, near Cleveland. Reynolds and wife, Mary, raised eight children on a farm near the county seat of Wayne County, Ohio. Several sons and daughters of the pioneer Reynolds family got caught up with the westward movement brought on by the low cost of land and the California Gold Rush. Frank Reynolds, one of the oldest sons, moved west no further than the Butler-Waterloo, Indiana area, where he married and resided the rest of his life.

While James A. Reynolds still resided in Ohio, his eldest daughter, Mary Jane, married Aaron Hixson, who died at the age of twenty-seven, two months before Myles' grandfather, Bennett Hixson, was born. The young widow and infant son moved home with her parents.

Some of the Reynolds family went westward and all trace of them was lost. The Frank Reynolds family, having a great desire to see their parents and other family members, wrote or sent word back to Ohio, telling of the good, rich, virgin land of DeKalb County, in hopes of inticing them to come on west to settle in Indiana.

About the year of 1855, James Reynolds family sold all their possessions except what they could load into a covered wagon and set out for Indiana. In September, 1846, Myles' great grandfather, James Reynolds, bought with cash two hundred acres in Butler Township. The Reynolds, along with their widowed daughter, Mary Jane Hixson, and her son, Bennett Hixson, moved into a small log cabin by a constantly flowing spring, a few feet from Myles' present brick house.

The ownership of this land was transferred to Mary Jane and son Bennett Hixson; then to son, Forrest A. Hixson; then to his only son, James Myles Hixson, the present owner. Forrest Hixson married Amanda L. Houser in 1901. They had three children: Belva, Mary Katherine, and James Myles.

James Myles Hixson married Phyllis A. Smith, daughter of Carl A. and Ethel Smith of Garrett, Indiana, in the year of 1934. To this marriage were born seven children, six of which survive: Larry James, Norma, Linda, Raymond, Carl, and Connie Sue, all of whom reside in DeKalb County at present. Myles' children were the fifth generation to reside on the same tract of land. Family ownership and residence of this tract of land covers one hundred and thirty years as of September, 1986.

The present residence, a ten room brick home built of soft brick made only a mile down the road, is 100 years old, having been built the summer of 1886 by Messers Haag and Kitchen, for Myles' great grandmother, Mary Jane Hixson, and her son, Bennett Hixson.

Myles, being the only son of Forrest A. Hixson, took over the farm upon his father's death in 1952. Myles, a B & O Railroader until about 1963, also took on the gravel business located on the farm in 1956. His three sons, Larry, Carl, and Raymond, operate the business now. Several of the eighteen grandchildren have worked in the business, known as "Hixson Sand and Gravel."

JOHN PERRY LONG, constructed many Auburn buildings and residences in a half century of contracting business.

J. Perry Long of Auburn started the carpenter's trade fifty years ago, in 1938. Looking back over a span of a half century, Mr. Long reviewed a number of interesting facts relating the growth and development of Auburn, from a village to a sizable town.

Mr. Long is perhaps the oldest continuous resident of that part of Auburn, east of Cedar Creek, known as East Auburn. He has lived there forty-five years. When Mr. Long came to Auburn, there were two houses beyond the creek. He built the first residence west of Indiana Avenue, a home for Joe Lige. That portion of Auburn was then the Fluke farm. It is now built up almost solidly.

Mr. Long estimates that if a one hundred and sixty acre farm were laid out in city lots, the buildings of various sorts which he erected would more than cover it. He built the Y.M.C.A. building, the Eckhart Public Library, both banks, and the Riley School. He remodeled the Auburn Hotel, three times. The residence of A.L. Murry, the former Morris Eckhart residence now owned by Joe Lige, the homes of Mrs. Zo Brown, E.A. Johnson, C.A. Schaabs, and K of P. building and lots of other homes, a number of units of the Auburn Automobile Company, Warner Automotive Parts Corporation, the First Presbyterian Church dedicated two years ago was remodeled by Mr. Long. Mr. Long said That he had put in two-thirds of the fronts of business buildings in town. The year 1929 was the peak building year for Mr. Long. He was the contractor for fourteen residences and work at the former Auburn plant amounting in all to $430,000. He employed thirty-five in one week and the payroll for the week was $1440.

Mr. Long was born on a farm west of Auburn, Indiana. He was nine years old when the City of Garrett started. He became a member of the Auburn volunteer Fire Department when Grover Cleveland was President and has served on the fire department ever since. He is one of the most active fireman. At the time of fires, Mr. Long ventures where many a younger man would hesitate to go. He is familiar with the construction of every building in town and he knows just where to work advantageously during a fire, most of the time in the most dangerous places. Mr. Long also has served as a member of the City Council.

Speaking of his many years in the Carpenter and building trade, Mr. Long said, "I can drive nails as fast today as I ever did and faster then some of my men. I am on the job every day and some of these younger carpenters have to go some to keep up with me."

Perry Olds and brothers

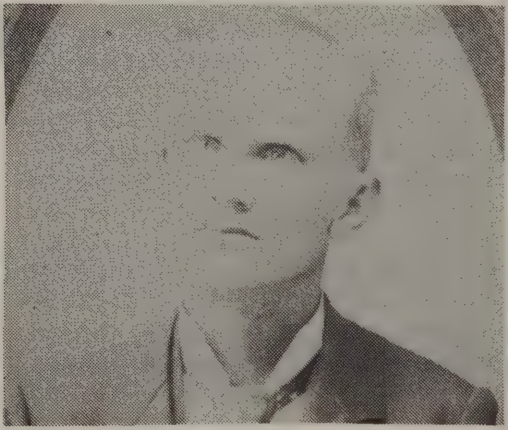
PERRY BURTON OLDS, born 16 January 1868, in Williams County, Ohio, on the Indiana State Line to Lafayette and Emily (McCurdy) Olds.

Physically handicapped, having suffered polio as a young child, Burt makes his home with his brothers and sisters after his father's death in 1906, his father having asked them to do so, which they did.

For his livelihood, Burt went from house to house, mostly in Troy and Wilmington Townships on foot pulling a cart loaded with notions, in part supplied by his Aunt Jennie (McCurdy) Knisely, which he sold. He stayed overnight along the route with patrons and relatives.

When he was no longer able to be a peddler, he usually spent six months with each of his brothers and sisters entertaining their children with his story telling and singing us the old songs, many of them Civil War tunes he had learned from his father. It never ceased to amaze the children to see the many things Uncle Burt could do with one hand. He could tie the neatest knots.

Mr. Olds died in Butler 27 July 1938.



Burt Olds

BURT OLDS, THE PEDDLER, before the turn of the century and the arrival of automobiles, there was a great need for the peddler and his wares.

Burt Olds, handicapped since a youth, plied his livelihood in this manner. With the use of only one arm and a very bad limp, he traveled the countryside pulling a cart loaded with all kinds of notions a country housewife needed between her very rare shopping trips to town.

He was welcomed along the way and invited to meals and overnight stays with customers, friends, and relatives. A kind, gentle man with stories and songs for the children, made his visit in the homes most enjoyable.

THE HUCKSTER, a most welcome sight to the farmer's wife and children in the early part of the century was the green huckster truck turning in the driveway.

Mother flipped her soiled apron over and the kids ran to greet Mr. Fee. Herb, a personable jolly man always had the greatest supply of groceries, candy, and few meats. A ring of bologna or a can of sardines or salmon, or a can of pork and beans, and a package of those brown cookies with pink frosting was a real feast for a Monday dinner, it being washday. The sights and smells of that old truck bulging with necessities and goodies is not forgotten.

Mr. Stanley Devitt, who owned a grocery in Moorseville and had a free show for the community once a week, had a huckster truck. His drivers bought chickens and there was a chicken coop fastened under the step into the truck. Some of his drivers over the years were: Herb Devitt, Pete Moore, Keith Wilson, Roy Riggs, and Otis Lautzenhiser.

JOHN WILLIAM THOMSON, born 21 January 1845, in Fayette County, Kentucky, son of Pike and Elizabeth Thomson. When he was but three years old, the family moved to Saline County, Missouri. John was raised and educated in Saline County, and assisted his father in managing the vast family farm, before and after the Civil War for several years. The Thomson farm lies southeast of Slater, Missouri. The road out to the farm is usually referred to as Thomson Lane. The farm itself has shrunk to three hundred twenty acres from seventeen hundred, and has always been one of the most properous in the area. Saline County, in fact, is said to have some of the richest farmland in the world. Most of the farms in the area are diversified, that is, they raise both crops and livestock, feeder cattle, hogs, chickens, corn, wheat, and so on.

As a lad, John William fought with the Confederate Army as a member of Company E, Gordon's Regiment, Shelby's Brigade, and took part in battles at Independence, Westport, Big Blue, Jackson County, 23 October 1864, Little Blue, Newtonia, 28 October 1864, and Fayetteville, Arkansas, marching through to Texas. Here the Army was reorganized, and John's regiment was cut down and thrown into Company C, William's regiment, Jackson Brigade. The regiment surrendered at New Orleans, Louisiana, 26 May 1865. John W. Thomson's name appears on a roll of prisoners of War of furloughed and detailed men, Confederate States

Army, surrendered at New Orleans, Louisiana, by General E.K. Smith, C.S.A., to Major General E.R.S. Canby, U.S.A., 26 May 1865, and paroled at Shreveport, Louisiana, 21 June 1865.

John married 15 October 1869, to Julia Franklin, daughter of A.S. Graves and Augusta J., his wife, of Washington County, Missouri. John and Julia had five children: Emmett, Claude W., Emma, Lillian, and an infant.

The Slater newspaper, when printing John's obituary, wrote "No man was better known in the county that Mr. Thomason." The newspaper added, "He was honest, straightforward, square in all dealings and could always be relied upon." In early life, he became a member of the Rehobeth Baptist Church and Socialist party, writing many articles in different publications on the question of capital and labor. Years later he entered a sanitorium in Chicago to obtain treatment for cancer. He died at Slater 18 October 1916, one of the oldest settlers in Saline County.

Julia Franklin Graves was born in 1846, to Aaron S. and Augusta J. Graves. Julia died in 1930. John Thomson's farm was passed on the his son Claude.

CLAUDE WILLIAM THOMSON, born 31 August 1873, son of John W. and Julia F. Thomson, near Slater, Missouri. Claude married Lecho Nellie McFall, by whom he had one child, Pike McFall "Mac" Thomson. This married was later dissolved. Claude later remarried to a woman named Eva. Claude became highly respected in the area for his knowledge of livestock and was considered a shrewd businessman. His primary interest lay in buying, raising, and selling hogs, although he also raised feeder cattle. While still active enough to raise stock, he would drive his hogs on foot into Slater to the railroad loading pens, sometime helped by a wiry little lad with looks not dissimilar to those of the young Dwight Eisenhower. Often Claude Thomson's hogs made up the entire trainload of stock going off to the St. Louis market. Even when partially retired, Claude was still energetic enough to keep between thirty and forty milk cows, separating the cream to be sold and using the milk for feeding the hogs. Claude died 22 November 1957, in the Maude Lee Rest Home, in Slater.

It was to Claude's farm that Julia (Crawford) McQueen brought her infant son, Terrence Stephen "Steve McQueen", shortly after birth, to be raised, since Julia's husband, William McQueen, abandoned the family. Julia and Steve stayed briefly in the old wooden farmhouse outside Slater, a crowded enough place at the time as Claude's son, Pike McFall Thomson, and his family from his first marriage were also living there, doubling up because of the Depression. She then went back to Steve's birthplace, Indianapolis, Indiana, taking the baby with her. Steve was about three when Julia again brought him back to the farm, where his early upbringing was undertaken by his great uncle Claude. Julia reported to have gone off to California to try her luck as a salesperson in a Los Angelos store while the thin and wiry little boy settled down to enjoy what he has called "the happiest days of my childhood." Steve lived with his great uncle Claude until he was nine years old. Steve, in adulthood, retained a deep regret for his great uncle, a sign that relations were excellent between them. "He was a very good man. Very strong, very fair." I learned a lot from him. Neile (Adams) McQueen, Steve's first wife, who receied a hospitable welcome from Claude and Eva Thomson when Steve brought her to visit the year before Claude's death, found the old wooden house, the farm, and the people it in, pure American Gothic. Steve's great uncle and aunt were farm people, older people and very strict. Something was right and something was wrong, there was no in between. She saw the tiny room up under the eave Steve had occupied, and when she left, Neile felt she knew where Steve came from and where some of his principles came from.

Claude is buried in the Rehoboth Cemetery in Slater.

"Mac" Thomson and mother

PIKE MC FALL "MAC" THOMSON, born 22 August 1907, near Slater, Missouri, son of Claude W. and Lecho Nellie (McFall) Thomson. When he was very young, his parents separated, and he lived with John and Mary Richardson several years of his childhood. He grew up with the name of Mac, not knowing his real name until 1947, when he was forty years old. He used Mac on his marriage licenses, voting records, and real estate deeds, among others. He married Bessie Richardson and later divorced her. They had four children: Mary Lou, Joanne, Claude, and Lecho. The family lived in Slater and St. Louis, where Mac worked on the Chicago and Alton Railroad. After the divorce, Mac moved to Chicago, Illinois, where he met and married Emily Genevieve Nieman, 10 July 1943. Here he took employment with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad as a fireman and later an engineer. Mac and Emily had one child while living in Chicago, Beverly Anne. In 1944, they moved to Garrett, Indiana, on Peters Street across from the present day St. Joseph's School, and later on High Street. It was in Garrett that sons Ernest McFall and Clarence William Mac were born. The family later moved to just north of Corunna, about one quarter of a mile, and in 1957, they moved to Randolph Street, Garrett, where he lived the rest of his life. Mac was an avid fisherman, traveling every year to the Lake of the Ozarks, Missouri, where he spent his vacations with his family. He retired in 1973, after forty years of service, thirty-seven years of which were with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mac died 12 September 1977, while fishing in his boat on Lake of the Ozarks near Rocky Mount, Morgan County, Missouri. His remains were cremated and his ashed were sprinkled on the Lake of the Ozarks off the fishing pier at Eagan's Twin Coves Resort, where the family vacationed every year, near Laurie, Missouri.

Crawford, and moved to St. Louis, where they had one child, Julia Crawford, who later married William McQueen. Julia was only nineteen when Steve was born. After her marriage broke up, Julia took her child to Slater, Missouri, to live with her uncle, Claude W. Thomson. Julia and Steve only stayed a short while, due to crowded conditions as Julia's cousin, Pike McFall Thomson, and his family were also living there, doubling up due to the Depression. Julia and child then returned to Indianapolis, for almost three years, only to return to Slater and leave her child with her uncle Claude to be raised for the six years while she moved to Los Angelos, California. Dr. Floyd Coleman Family

FLOYD COLEMAN and EVA moved to Waterloo, Indiana, in January of 1948, from U.S. Army service in Battle Creek, Michigan, to fill a void left by the death of family physician Dr. Ethan Ish. DeKalb County doctors were heavily overworked trying to meet the medical needs of this area. Competition in medical care was minimal. Among the active medical doctors in DeKalb County were Loren Jinnings, Charles Weirich, Charles Novy, Kantzer, and the late Patch A.V. Hines, Harry Covell, Bonnell Souder, Everett Rogers, C.B. Hathaway, and Perry Reynolds. In 1948, the charge for an office visit was two or three dollars and this often included medication.

In 1952, Dr. Coleman volunteered to serve as deputy coroner for Dr. Perry Reynolds of Garrett until he resigned as coroner. Dr. Coleman was then appointed by Governor Henry Schricker to finish the term of office. He was then elected for two consecutive terms as County Coroner.

From 1948 until 1965, the Coleman family grew from three to eight children: David, now a

TWA Pilot, living in Escondido, California, married Janet Miller of Nebraska; Janet Lucas, former Miss DeKalb County, a social worker, living in Portland, Oregon, married John Howard Lucas; Diann McBride, a teacher, living in Kokomo, Indiana, married Tom McBride; Anita Diehl, wife of Pastor Ralph Diehl, Calvary Chapel, Waterloo, Indiana; Brenda Harris, living in Lubbock, Texas, husband Mike is minister of music, Trinity Church; Loretta Smith, wife of Dr. Thomas Smith, Bluffton Clinic, Bluffton, Indiana; Stan Coleman, graduate of Oral Roberts University, taking post graduate work at Tulsa University where he is also serving as associate professor of English, married Christine Cain; Rachel is a student at Oral Roberts University working for a degree in psychology and German and plans to study in Germany this year.

The World War II baby boom was in bloom and for several years Dr. Coleman attended at nearly one hundred thirty deliveries per year until 1968.

In 1958, Dr. Coleman earned his private pilot license and flew J-3's Taylor-Crafts and Stinsons single engine, logging nearly one thousand hours. On one return trip from Detroit at night the navigational equipment in the old Stinson failed and Coleman piloted the plane to the old Auburn airport with the help of TV and radio towers, as well as the city lights. VFR flights often necessitated railroad lines as an aid to navigation.

Among Dr. Coleman's ambitions was to serve in medical mission work. Short terms, two to eight weeks, were spent in British Honduras, Belize, in Central America in association with Youth with a Mission and Nigeria, Africa. Other globe trotting included the Philippines, Hong Kong, Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Panama, and Europe.

In 1968, Coleman was first elected to serve in the Indiana State Legislature, representing DeKalb and Steuben Counties, where he served through 1976. Among many bills he authored and introduced, were stable year round time for Indiana, Right turn of Red, and Auto Drunk Driving Laws.

Dr. Coleman and his wife, Eva, were raised to worship in the Acapella Church of Christ, and were instrumental in helping that church be established in Waterloo in 1948, first meeting in the Town Hall. In 1952, that congregation built a new worship house at Washington and Maple Streets, which has become the Waterloo Calvary Chapel, where Dr. Coleman is an elder in the growing church under the pastorate of Ralph Diehl.

After the great Miami hurricane of 1926, he moved his family back to Butler, Indiana, DeKalb County, where he worked as a barber for Ellis Kissinger until 1930. The depression, at its height, he decided to take his family west to Las Vegas, Nevada. Las Vegas was not a good move for the family. Brownie brought his three sons and youngest daughter back to Butler to raise. He resumed his practice as a barber, and although his earnings were meager, there was always room at his table for the extra kids his children would bring home. The kids Brownie befriended in the mid 1930's did not forget the kindness he bestowed upon them. During the war, Brownie received many letters of thanks for the good times they shared with him and his children.

DANIEL KEPLER, born in Pennsylvania, in 1810. He was reared a farmer and had an active interest in public affairs. He married Hannah (Boyer), 29 December 1829. Hannah was also a native of Pennsylvania, born in 1818. He moved his family to Stark County, Ohio, with a view to bettering their condition. The farm was located in Greauga Township.

Daniel's two oldest children were born in Ohio, but the other three were born in Pennsylvania. This would indicate they moved back to Pennsylvania for a few years or Hannah desired to give birth in her home state.

In the fall of 1837, Daniel moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, and settled in Franklin Township, later moving to Smithfield Township. An early Sessions of Commissioners book listed Daniel as Chairman in laying out the Jonesville and Auburn State Road.

Upon viewing the deeds in the Auburn Courthouse, Daniel sold eighty acres, 8 November 1845, for the sum of two hundred dollars. In signing off on this property, Hannah used her mark, for she could not write.

In later years, Daniel moved to Steuben County and continued farming. His sons Alfred and Elias developed valuable farms and livestock in DeKalb County. Jeremiah established himself in Steuben County and carried on the family tradition of farming.

JEREMIAH KEPLER, born in Ohio, 3 October 1834. He was the first child of Daniel and Hannah (Boyer) Kepler, both from Pennsylvania. Jeremiah was three years old when his parents moved into DeKalb County, Indiana. Very little is known about his childhood years, but he must have seen a few of the vanishing Potawatomie Indians and the staging events that led to the Civil War.

In 1853 on Christmas Day, Samuel Dunham, Justice of the Peace, joined Susannah Griffith and Jeremiah in marriage. Susannah is the daughter of John and Jemima (Gossage) Griffith, both early DeKalb County settlers.

In Steuben and DeKalb Counties, farming was the leading occupation and a way of life. Jeremiah established his farming career in Steuben County near Fish Lake. He reared six children to maturity. They were Frank, Burton J., Charles, Eliza, Frances E., and Jeremiah B. Caring for the horses and other farm chores kept his children occupied and provided the basic training for future farmers.

When his father-in-law, John Griffith, died, he inherited a share of the Griffith farm. This share was sold immediately to his brother-in-law, Leman Griffith, for the small sum of one hundred and seventy-three dollars. It is believed that the low price was in the spirit of goodwill and to assist in smoothly settling the estate. Two years later, Leman died from a wound he received at the Battle of Chickamauga.

Most of the land Jeremiah owned and farmed was east of Hamilton Lake. In 1870, he sold ninety-seven acres to Simpson Watkins for the sum of three thousand five hundred dollars. This land was later developed by the Watkins' into the well known lake resort, Cold Springs.

You can't stop progress, but Jeremiah knew how to handle certain situation with forethought. An example of this would be his selling the railroad right of way in 1890. He had O.D. Ashley, Railroad Trustee, agree to install fences on both sides, one over bridge wagon crossing and one grade wagon crossing. In addition to the sale price of four hundred dollars, the railroad would have to maintain the crossing in good repair.

Jeremiah had a long and full life in and around Hamilton, Indiana. He died 7 February 1916, at the age of eighty-two. His sons, Burton J., Jeremiah B., Frank, and Charles maintained residence in Steuben County.

FORREST RAY NICHOLAS, born 12 November 1902, in a log house, northeast of Garrett, Indiana, in Keyser Township, son of William Milo and Amanda Estella (Friend) Nicholas. Dr. Clevenger came through deep snow to deliver him. When Forrest was two years old, the family moved east a half mile to the African School house into Richland Township. In the log house a ladder served as the stairway to the upstairs is remembered by Forrest. His paternal grandparents were Salvin and Marrietta (Beaird) Nicholas. His great grandparents were George and Susanna (Snyder) Beaird and great great grandparents were John and Elizabeth (Haltz) Snyder. His maternal grandparents were Norris and Susanna (Deter) Friend and his great great grandparents were George and Elizabeth (Sanders) Deter and Michael and Eliza (Miller) Friend.

His school days started in a one room schoolhouse, Sixteen School, and graduated from the eighth grade from West Richland School, southwest of Corunna with Jay Olinger as his teacher. He taught him enough to make a living without high school education.

Forrest and Adah Fay Goe were married 6 December 1928, at the parsonage of the Auburn Church of the Nazarene, by Reverend Cornelius. Both are members of the Garrett Church of the Nazarene. He has been a Sunday School teacher of junior boys or adults for about forty years.

Forrest was employed by Ray Harris, contractor, reconstructing U.S. 6 between Kendallville and Waterloo. He was paid fifteen dollars for a ten hour day, and furnished the tractor and fuel to operate it. He had tried farming, dairying, hogs, sheep, and never found the success beekeeping had given him. Mr. Nicholas started out as a small beekeeper, owning twenty-two colonies. The bee inspector found disease in twenty of the colonies. These diseased bees had to be burned, leaving him nearly out of the bee business. At one time, he was the largest beekeeper in the state with approximately two thousand colonies, which were placed in sixty different locations. The yield in a good year was one and a half tons of beeswax and about seventy-six tons of honey. The honey after processed is placed in fifty-five gallon barrels and sold to a wholesaler or from self service from the honey farm. He built his own honey house and shop equipment.

In 1938, he was a state bee inspector and received four dollars a day. Some days he started at 6:00a.m. and ended at 1:00a.m. the next day.

Mr. Nicholas has a sawmill which was a dream since his grandfather, Salvin, had one on this same farm. This has been a hobby which has been beneficial to his bee business. His great grandfather, George Beaird, was a carpenter and coffin maker. The coffins were made of walnut lumber. George Beaird's two daughters, Marrietta (Beaird) Nicholas and Henrietta (Beaird) Jones, polished the coffins with beeswax and a hot iron and lined the interior. The logs for the coffins were hauled to Spencerville and sawed with a water-powered sawmill. A stick the length of the deceased was brought to determine the size of the coffin for which he received seventy-five cents to make the coffin and perform the duties of an undertaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas live in the house built by George Beaird more than a hundred years ago. Grandfather, Salvin Nicholas, operated a steam engine thresher. He threshed oats for two cents and wheat for three cents a bushel.

IRA BRANDON, was a carpenter, who helped build several buildings in Auburn. One of them was the downtown Lutheran Church. In the late 1890's, he took his wife and four children: Larry, Ruth, Charles Merrit, and Hugh, to Brainard, Minnesota. There he worked with his brother-in-law, Ira Watt, building creameries. His son, Worden Brandon, was born while they were in Minnesota.

During this time, the news of the Alaskan Gold Rush began to stir the interest of Ira, so that he took his son, Charles Merrit, on an exploratory trip to the Klondike region of Alaska. He was completely taken with the excitement of finding gold. He returned to Minnesota to leave his five young children there, and took his wife along as cook to go back to the Klondike to pan for gold. They were gone approximately a year. They did not find enough gold to pay their expenses. They did find a large garnet which was later made into a necklace for their eldest son's wife, Mildred, who married Larry, as a wedding present.

After returning from Alaska, the family moved back to Auburn to their cement block home which Ira's father, Isaac, had built for them. PLEASANT MEMORIES

In my fancy I now seem to see
A building of ancient hue;
It was built long ago for you and me
To provide for the purpose then due.
It was not a mansion of great design,
Neither tall nor wide nor long,
But there was something within its confine
That made it both broad and strong.
For in it was moulding the lives of the youth
For the days and the years yet to be;
I did not then know it, but forsooth,
It was doing the same for me.
It was there that I learned to read and to write
And with others to work and to play;
I also found when I tried to do right
There was help for me on my way.
There were others there in that quaint retreat
Some younger, some older by far,
Both boys and girls to make it complete
And their names I recall what they are.
There was John and Mary and Alice and Guy
And others, you know what they are;
All Happy and learning as the days went by
Glad days that away seem so far.
And the games that we played indeed were quite fine
They were blackman, and marbles and tag;
We also played ball but the preference of mine
Was post office when none cared to lag.
Though the building I mean may no longer be standing
In memory the picture is fine,
And I plainly see myself now landing
In that Old School House of Mine.

WALTER D. STUMP was born on 14 July 1886, near Wolf Lake in Washington Township, Noble County, Indiana. His father was Daniel D. Stump and his mother was Jessie (Smith) Stump. Daniel was born in Canada in the early 1860's, being one of twelve children of Noah Stump. Noah Stump and his family moved to Elkhart County, Indiana, where Daniel met and married Jessie Smith, whose father was a dunkard minister. Daniel and Jessie moved to Noble County into a log house on the farm which was the birthplace of Walter, Albert, and Charles Stump. Albert became a prominent lawyer in Indianapolis until his death, after serving in World War I and later graduating from Indiana University School of Law. Charles remained on the farm and was engaged in farming all of his life.

Walter Stump attended Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana, and taught school in Noble County to secure the funds to continue his education. He then attended and graduated from Valparaiso University Law School. Shortly after he was married, 29 April 1911, to Clementine Hartsock, who was a resident of Washington Township, Noble County, and lived about one mile west of the home of Walter's parents. Walter and Clementine had attended Tri-State College at the same time, shortly before and after their marriage.

After Walter obtained his law degree, he and Clementine settled upon Auburn as the location where Walter would begin the practice of law, and they would make their home. In the inquiry as to the exact site where he would begin his practice, Walter contacted P.V. Hoffman, a long time practicing lawyer in Auburn. Hoffman invited Walter to form a partnership for the practice of law, which offer was accepted and the firm of Hoffman and Stump was established.

Shortly afterward, the clouds of the First World War became ominous and the War soon became a reality. Imbued with a sense of patriotism that has never been excelled, Walter became instrumental in forming Company K, made up of men from DeKalb County, and Walter was selected their Captain. From early 1917 and through most of 1919, Walter served in the 137th Field Artillery Regiment in training and in action in France. He was honorably discharged as a Captain.

After World War I, Walter was actively and successfully engaged in the practice of law in Auburn, mostly as a sole practitioner but for a short time, shared an office with Lloyd Gatten and with Clarence McClintock.

On 7 March 1942, three months to the day after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, the extreme patriotic love of his country caused Walter D. Stump, at fifty-five and a half years of age, to close his law office and again answer the call to duty in the armed forces of the United States. He served in the African and Italian campaigns with decorated distinction until his honorable discharge as Lieutenant Colonel 13 March 1946.

He returned to Auburn and reopened his law practice with the intention of forming a partnership with his son, Harold, upon his son's release from duty with the United States Marine Corps in World War II. Walter was urged to fill the ticket for the office of Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court. He responded by becoming a candidate for the office in the election of 1946. He was elected Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court and served two six-year terms. He declined to run for a third term and became a partner of Phillip Butler in the law practice until his failing health and death 6 February 1962.

Throughout his lifetime, he was a member of the Presbyterian Church and was active in many civic groups. He was frequently invited to speak on nonpolitical occasions and enjoyed the distinction of being an eloquent and effective public speaker, particularly on patriotic and religious themes.

Clementine (Hartsock) Stump was born near Fostoria, Ohio, 27 August 1886, daughter of

Elijah and Mary Hartsock. She was one of eight children, the last of whom, Leora Carpenter, died in the fall of 1986. Her family moved to Washington Township in Noble County, Indiana, while she was quite young. They settled one mile west of the family farm of Daniel D. Stump, the father of Walter D. Stump, with whom she was joined in marriage 29 April 1911. She finished public school and took two years of secretarial classes at Tri-State College at Angola, Indiana. Clementine and Walter D. Stump were the parents of one child, a son, Harold D. Stump.

Clementine Stump was a charter member of the Auburn American Legion Auxiliary Post 97, a member of the Rebekah Lodge and of the Order of the Eastern Star. She was also active in several ladies' groups in the Auburn Presbyterian Church. Clementine Stump died 9 July 1970.

Harold and Letha Stump

HAROLD D. STUMP, born 28 October 1917, in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana. His father was Walter D. Stump and his mother was Clementine (Hartsock) Stump. He attended public school in Auburn, graduating from Auburn High School in 1935. He attended Indiana University, receiving an AB degree in 1939, and a JD degree from the Indiana University School of Law at Bloomington in January, 1942.

His genealogy appears in the resume of the family of Walter D. Stump in this sesquicentennial history.

After receiving his JD degree, he became a Special Agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and was assigned to the field offices of Washington, D.C., Des Moines, Iowa, and New York City, in which capacity he served until 5 May 1944, when he resigned and enlisted in the United States Marine Corps. After basic training, he was drill instructor at Parris Island, South Carolina, Marine Base for three months when he requested and was assigned to the 12th Marine Regiment of the 3rd Marine Division. He served in the Pacific Theater of Operations in World War II with the 3rd Marine Division through the conquest of Iwo Jima. At the surrender of Japan, he was assigned to the 3rd Amphibious Corps, a multi-faceted military unit formed and based at Tientsin, China, fifty miles southeast from Peking, to slow the advance of the Chinese Communist forces in the effort to drive the Chinese Nationalist forces out of China. After being in Tientsin until May of 1946, he was returned to the States and honorably discharged from the United States Marine Corps in July, 1946.

He returned to Auburn to practice law with his father, Walter D. Stump; however, since his father was a candidate for Judge of DeKalb Circuit Court in 1946 and elected to such office, Harold began the private practice of law in the office of his father as his father assumed the bench. He practiced law in Auburn until the 1958 election when he was elected to the bench as Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court, succeeding his father, who declined to seek the office for a third term. During the period of his law practice, Harold was appointed as the first Judge of the newly created City Court of the City of Auburn, which office he held until he was elected Judge of the DeKalb Circuit Court. He was thereafter elected to five successive terms of the DeKalb Circuit Court with his term ending 31 December 1988.

He was very active in civic, welfare, youth, and many other community groups until his election as Circuit Court Judge reduced the number of activities in which he could appropriately participate. He was one of the principal organizers and supporters of Region II of Foster Care Services, Incorporated, serving the Indiana Counties of DeKalb, LaGrange, Noble, Steuben, Wells, and Whitley in Northeast Indiana.

On 5 May 1968, Harold D. Stump was married to Letha Mae (Grogg) Smith. Letha is the daughter of Oscar D. and Laura (Pepple) Grogg and was born in Keyser Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 8 August 1914. She was one of seven children of Oscar and Laura Grogg. The names of her siblings are Jay Grogg, Edith Custer, George Grogg, Howard Grogg, Albert Grogg, and O. Dale Sam Grogg. Her paternal grandparents were Peter Grogg and Mary (Baker) Grogg of DeKalb County and her maternal grandparents were George Pepple and Catherine (Dunn) Pepple, also of DeKalb County. Oscar D. Grogg operated the brickyard and kiln northwest of Auburn, where the bricks were made that were used to build the Sacred Heart Hospital in Garrett.

Harold and Letha Stump have one adopted daughter, Dianna Sue Stump (now Rhoads), born 13 July 1950. Dianna finished public school at DeKalb Central High School and obtained her LPN certificate from the Ball Hospital, Muncie, Indiana. She now lives in Mandeville, Louisiana. Letha has a son, Delano Troyer, born 7 April 1934. After completing high school, he served in the Korean War and upon his return from the war, he was employed at International Harvester for thirty years. He is presently in the construction trade and resides in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Harold has a daughter, Caroline Stump (now Tomanica), born 14 October 1947. Caroline graduated magna cum laude with an AB degree from Western Michigan University, and after obtaining her Masters degree, taught school in the Schaumberg, Illinois, High School for thirteen years. She returned to DeKalb County and is employed in the Steuben County Department of Public Welfare. Harold and Letha have three grandchildren: Ryan, Michelle, and Angela Rhoads, and Letha has three additional grandchildren: Allen, Roxanne, and Laura Troyer.

Letha Stump was employed in the offices of the engineering department of International Harvester in Fort Wayne, Indiana, for nineteen years, and later worked at DeKalb Memorial Hospital for three years prior to her marriage to Harold Stump. She has remained active in voluntary programs at DeKalb Memorial Hospital.

Harold and Letha were involved in raising, training, and showing of Tennessee Walking Horses for several years. Their hobbies include fishing, traveling, and nature studies. They are members of the Auburn Presbyterian Church, and reside on the bank of Cedar Creek on Morning Star Road just outside of the city of Auburn.

My Life. (MABEL KISER)

"I was born January 3, 1896, in Delaware, Ohio, the fourth child of William C. Hill and his wife, Blanche Steed. Before I was a year old, my mother died and I was adopted by Samuel J. Kiser and his wife, Jennie Johnson. My foster parents lived on a farm near Powell, Ohio, at that time, but during the Panic of 1899, they sold the farm and went to Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, the home of Mother's family.

"We eventually settled in Jeanette where my father worked at the carpenter trade. I started to school in Jeanette and almost completed the fourth grade there before we moved to the farm east of Waterloo which I now own. We made this move in 1906, and that fall I started attending the 'Ridge' school, east of Waterloo. My first teacher there was a young man named Ben Miller. He now lives between Waterloo and Auburn on what was known as 'one of the Rohm farms.'

Mabel Kiser Homestead

"In 1910, my parents became dissatisfied with the new teacher at the Ridge and began paying my tuition to the Waterloo Town Schools. My seventh and eighth grade teacher was Isaac Cosper, a resident of Auburn according to the last news I had of him. I graduated from Waterloo High School in 1915, at which time Alfred L. Moudy was Superintendent of Schools.

"I entered Indiana University the fall of that year. In 1916, my parents were divorced and Mother moved to Bloomington to make a home for me.

"It was during the World War in 1918, and while I was still in college that I met by surviving brother and my sister for the first time. The second child of my natural parents, Albert Hill, had died of a contagious disease while a ward of the Children's Home at Delaware, Ohio. My older brother, William Carl Hill, was married and was living in Delaware. He died in 1946, following an operation. My sister had been adopted by a family living in Columbus and her name had been changed to Mary Nuell Wagner. She died December 26, 1949, at Torrence State Hospital near Latrobe, Pennsylvania.

"I graduated from Indiana University in 1919, and went to Frankfort to teach French in the high school there. I taught at Frankfort for seven years, during which time (1923) Mother died.

"In 1926, I went to Paris to study at the Sorbonne, taking a new course planned for the benefit of foreign teachers of French. Most of the students were Americans or Germans, but there were a few Dutch and a Norwegian, a teacher at Oslo, with whom I became rather well acquainted.

"While in France in 1926 and again in 1930, I lived with an elderly woman of aristocratic family and excellent education whose inheritance had been almost wiped out during the war and the depression of 1926. Madame Colmard was of Norman blood but had lived many years in Paris on the fringe of court social circles. When I knew her, she was living in complete retirement on the Left Bank. We became close friends and under her influence I became semi-Parisian myself.

"When I returned from France the first time, I learned that I had been assigned to teach French in Harrison Tech High School in Chicago, on the basis of my test grades on the last teachers' examination. I got the news from my Frankfort High School Principal. So I boarded a train at once without unpacking my suitcases and arrived in Chicago on Labor Day. The following morning, I reported at the Harrison office with almost a conviction that I was following a mirage. The clerk whom I approached however said: 'Yes, Miss Kiser' and ushered me into the office of Mr. Frank L. Morse. This busy man shook hands with an almost speechless me, welcomed me to Harrison and handed me a sheaf of programs and other documents. Then he sent me out to meet my first class. Thus abruptly, I began twenty-one years of teaching in the Chicago school system.

"I retired at the end of 1947 to take over from my father the management of my farm. He had sold out about 1920 and in 1935, I had bought it back for a retirement home for him and for me. My father was ninety-three when he left the farm and went to town to live. In 1954, he entered the Methodist Memorial Home at Warren, Indiana. Eighteen months later he died there at the age of one hundred and one.

"For a time after, I retired from teaching, I tried to continue with diversified farming, but I found it too much for me to manage both physically and financially. A long illness (Subacute Rheumatic Fever) depleted my working capital and I found myself unable to keep up the repairs on my buildings. I gave up first my poultry, then my herd of registered polled Shorthorn cattle. Last year, I sold my flock of sheep, except four pets.

"When I asked for the guardianship, I still had two milk goats, a buck and a kid in addition to the four sheep and I had a small kennel of registered collie dogs. The sheep and goats were sold and the dogs were either sold, given away, or leased to other kennels."

The above was written by Mabel Kiser and read at her funeral in June, 1986.

To this union were born five children: Cheryl Ann, born 29 July 1950, married Fred Ortin, 10 July 1971, one daughter, Diana Michelle, born 27 September 1972, and second marriage to Steven Pingry, 20 January 1979, one son, Brian James, born 12 August 1980; James Allen, born 7 February 1952; Kenneth Eugene, born 24 October 1953, married Barbara (Ventzke) Nous Keith, 3 June 1978, children: Michael Nous, born 3 March 1962, David Nous, born 9 July 1964, Brian Nous, born 1 July 1966, Laurie Nous, born 9 November 1969; Debra Kay, born 30 april 1955, married Patrick Berry, 27 July 1974, children: Brent Allan, born 21 January 1974, April Lyn, born 7 April 1980; Jonell Marie, born 15 November 1956, married Gary Hartman, 12 September 1981, children: Tyler William and Amy Christine.

POLLY WOLFE, lived an active life until past ninety years of age and then died suddenly of a stroke. In this family there were six children, who lived to adulthood: William, Allen, Samuel, Melissa, Matilda, and Lucinda. All six children, except Lucinda, who married a man named Hendricks and lived in or near White Pigeon, Michigan, married and lived their entire lives in Franklin Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. Matilda married a man by the name of Rohrabaugh.

The Wolfe family came to DeKalb County, Indiana, from Ohio, around the mid 1800's. They were River Brethren, a religious sect almost as strict in many beliefs as the Mennonites. Like most Pennsylvania Dutch, German pioneers of that time, the Wolfe family had many superstitions and believed in co-ordinating many of their daily activities with the proper time of the moon.

MELISSA WOLFE, daughter of Polly Wolfe, married Amaziah Meyers, a Civil War veteran. They were the parents of five sons: James, Samuel, Jacob, Andrew, and Thomas.

When the youngest son, Andrew, was little more than an infant, Melissa decided to leave her husband and return to DeKalb County. The oldest son, James, continued to live with his father and his father's relatives where Amaziah remained until his death. He was buried in a cemetery a few miles northwest of Milford, Indiana.

With her other four sons, Melissa made the trip of more than fifty miles with a team of horses hitched to a wagon loaded with household goods and a cow tied behind.

Back in DeKalb County, Melissa rented a small house several miles northwest of Waterloo on the edge of what then was wooded, swampy area. A great number of turtle doves perched in the trees and Tom said that as long as he lived the call of turtle doves reminded him of how, as a small boy, the sound made him feel lonely and sad. The boys must have been alone much of the time, for Melissa had to make their living by working for others in any way she could, sewing, cleaning, or field work, such as shocking grain. Often it was a meager living. One winter, Tom remembered, there was practically nothing to eat but cornmeal, cooked or baked in various ways.

As soon as the boys were old enough to do any kind of work for others, they were hired out, usually for no money, just room and necessary clothing.

Some years after Tom's mother brought her family back to DeKalb County, and after either a divorce from her husband or his death, Melissa married her first husband's cousin, Levi Myers. This second husband was a quiet, even-tempered, gentle man, respected and loved by his stepsons and later by his grandchildren. Besides a stepfather, Tom and his brothers also acquired a stepsister, Amanda, who married Herman Hamman, a farmer, machinist, and sawmill operator living in Smithfield Township, northwest of Waterloo.

Tom Myers Family

THOMAS "TOM" ELSWORTH MYERS, the son of Amaziah, a Civil War Veteran, and Melissa (Wolfe) Myers, born 17 March 1867, on a farm between Leesburg and Milford, in Kosciusko County, Indiana. He was the third son, James and Samuel being older. Jacob and Andrew were his younger brothers.

Tom went to live with the Oscar Taylor family. Here there were many hours of hard work, for Tom was expected to "earn his keep," but neither Oscar nor his wife, Elizabeth "Libby" were unkind to him. Elizabeth cooked and served big, hearty meals and urged all to eat. In fact, her often repeated saying was "If you don't eat, you can't work." After several years with the Taylor family, Tom again lived with his own family on their farm east of Taylor's Corner School in Franklin Township, DeKalb Coaunty. Here Tom and his brothers did the farm work in summer and, especially with his brother Sam, spent most of the winter months logging.

Recreation for Tom during his teen and twenty years was of the usual rural variety of that time, spelling bees, singing schools, and other such get-togethers. Tom's sister, Amanda, played the foot-pumped organ and sang. Tom also sang and together they attended many of the old time sing-alongs held in rural one room schoolhouses. Probably it was at one of these musicals or spelling bees that Tom met his future wife, Minnie Lautzenhiser, who taught school in both Smithfield and Franklin Townships.

Tom's education had been limited to the few years he had been able to attend a nearby one room rural school. He must have been good in mathematics and, no doubt encouraged to do so by Oscar Taylor, who now had a bank in Hamilton, Indiana, and perhaps by Minnie as well, Tom decided to get more formal education. He entered Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana, and earned the degree of Bachelor of Commercial Science in the spring of 1897. That summer he also attended a Chicago business school, enrolling in a short course in banking procedures.

Plans, however, are often changed by conditions outside our power. It was the Panic of 1897-1898, now called a depression or recession, that cast Tom in the role of a farmer, instead of a banker. Considering Tom's enjoyment of the outdoors, of growing crops and of livestock, and of his independent nature, one feels that he was happier as a farmer than he could have been as a banker.

On 31 October 1897, at the age of thirty, Tom married Minnie Lautzenhiser, his "intended" for several years.

Although it must have been very difficult for him to do so due to back injuries which he suffered in a fall from the top of the barn, Tom farmed with horsedrawn machinery for many years. He added to the original seventy-six acre farm by first buying a four acre corner which the road had cut off from his quarter section of land and a number of years later by purchasing the eighty acres which lay between his farm and Minnie's family's farm to the east.

Always looking for ways to make improvements and growth in his farming procedures, in 1916, Tom bought a silo and a number of feeder beef steers. During the erection of the silo, Tom, while he himself was pulling together the top hoop on the silo, because his help didn't want to climb that high, fell from an improperly spiked scaffolding and broke a leg. Most of that winter, Tom spent in bed, but later recovered sufficiently to continue to help with farm work. During that winter, however, since responsible help seemed impossible to find, his son, Quentin, dropped out of high school in his sophomore year, which ended his formal education except for one winter course at Purdue University.

In his later years, Tom suffered from the heart condition, Angina. Although his physical condition caused him to become less active, his mind remained alert. He enjoyed reading newspapers and farm magazines and listening to radio reports until the night that he died quietly in his sleep, 16 August 1943, at the age of seventy-six.

MINNIE MAY LAUTZENHISER, born 31 October 1872, died 25 May 1957. Her mother was Elizabeth (Reichman) Lautzenhiser. The Lautzenhiser homestead is located south of Hamilton, Indiana.

Minnie first attended elementary school at Franklin Township Number Three School, known as Dutch Gap School. Later she attended the closer Franklin Township Number Two School. Following elementary school, Minnie attended the three-year Hamilton High School until her graduation in 1891. At this second annual commencement of this high school, Minnie gave an oration entitled "Self Activity in Education."

Regularly on Sundays, she attended the Hamilton Methodist Church, which then stood on the hill by the cemetery. Here one of her best remembered Sunday School teachers was George Willennar.

In preparation for teaching, Minnie attended Tri-State College for a summer term of twelve weeks and after passing the examination, which was then required annually for a teacher's license, she began her six years of teaching in the one room rural schools of DeKalb County, in both Franklin and Smithfield Townships. Since the school in the latter township was too far from home to walk the distance each day, Minnie boarded for five days each week in the home of the Township Trustee, James Blake, and his wife, who became life-long friends. During these days, the DeKalb County Superintendent of Education was C.M. Merica, who must have been well satisfied with Minnie's teaching as attested to in a very favorable recommendation for another position, should she ever want one.

On a stormy Halloween evening, in 1897, on her mother's forty-fifth and her twenty-fifth birthday, in the farm house where she was born, Minnie May Lautzenhiser and Thomas Elsworth Myers were married, 31 October 1897.

For the first year of their married life, Minnie and Tom lived with Minnie's grandfather, Jacob Lautzenhiser and his unmarried daughter, Hannah, on their farm two or three miles northeast of the Lautzenhiser homestead. Here Minnie cared for Hannah, who was suffering from a near fatal case of erysipelas in a leg, and Tom farmed for the aged Jacob.

In the fall of 1898, Minnie and Tom bought a farm which had earlier been owned by Isaac Lautzenhiser, an older brother of Ezra, about a mile west of the Lautzenhiser homestead. Here they began farming with a team of horses, a cow or two, and a sow.

To Thomas and Minnie Myers were born four children: Maynard, born 26 February 1899, died 7 April 1899; Lester Quentin, born 4 December

1901, died 8 August 1974, married Columbia Wing. They had four children: Donald, Alice, Priscilla, and John; Thelma, born 7 November 1908, died 13 June 1986, married Allen M. Emerson, 19 August 1932; Twylah, born 11 February 1911, died 18 May 1911.

Within two years tragedy struck. A son was born and died less than two months later and Tom fell while repairing a hay track in the top of the barn, injuring his spine and leaving him to some degree crippled for the remainder of his life.

For forty-five years, Minnie and Tom lived on the farm of seventy-six acres when purchased in 1898, and to which four acres and eighty acres were later added. Here Tom died on 16 August 1943. Minnie's life ended on 25 May 1957.

The early post office was at Moore's Station on the Vandalia Railroad where residents had to pick up their mail. After rural delivery was begun, one of the early mailmen was Jerry Barber, of Butler, who traveled the route in a one-horse buggy which was enclosed and had a small stove inside with a chimney through the roof. When Jerry Barber retired the route was delivered by his son, William, for many years there after by car.

John A. Yarlott had many stories of which this was a favorite. While at Hartsville College, he and a friend were the first to discover a house fire. In those days, people saved what could be removed because firefighting equipment was limited in a small town. The two young men rushed in and threw a few things out of the second floor windows. While thus engaged, they became trapped by the flames, which were feeding on the stairway. The friend quickly overturned a small table which they used as a sled to slide down the stairs to safety. His friend was Wilbur Wright and this may have been the first flight for both.

SAMUEL and BENJAMIN BAILEY, rode to DeKalb County on horseback sometime in 1837 to homestead, from Jefferson Township, Madison County, Ohio. They had to keep torches lit to keep the wolves away.

Benjamin homesteaded north of what is now County Road 68, on County Road 35. It is now the site of the Hopewell Church, and twenty acres behind for his mother, Elizabeth (Morton) Bailey. His father died in Ohio.

Samuel homesteaded south of County Road 68 on County Road 35 on what is now known as the Herman Levey Farm. Samuel hired some Indians who lived at Dunten Lake by the County Line Cheese factory to help build his cabin. Then he went back to bring his family, his wife, Polly, and six girls. They also had four boys, but they all died.

Polly died soon after their arrival here and Samuel then married Barbara Ann (Beaty) Boyle and to this union there were five boys and a girl.

They didn't have our modern day equipment so the men cut the grain and the girls tied it in bundles.

They had a lot to do with the organizing of the Hopewell Church and the politics in this area. They had two factions in the church: one wanted to belong to lodges and etc., and the other didn't. The radicals got in the church and locked the door and the liberals got a log and beat the door down. Grandpa Bill said there were more souls saved that night then ever in the history of the church. Even the minister had a black eye.

On the political side, the Republicans had the Jackson Center School. Each had their own flag. My grandfather, William Bailey, and a friend, Newt Penland, got horses from Benjamin Bailey and a cross cut saw and rode down to Jackson Center to cut down the Democrat Pole. When the pole fell the people from inside the building came out and Grandpa's horse bolted to run across the road. It threw Grandpa off and broke his collar bone. He laid in Benjamin's hay mow till his shoulder mended. Anyone who knew him knows why he had one shoulder about one inch lower than the other.

William Ellison, the oldest son of Samuel, left the farm soon after his father's death and married Caroline Louise Sodman and went into the teamster business. He hauled logs for the Thomas Sawmill in Stamets addition. Stamets addition is south of Auburn Road to the B & O Railroad to the Auburn Junction. He also worked for the Railroad and the Auburn Automobile. He last lived in the first house south of the Museum.

NATHAN WYATT, born in Virginia, 27 April 1778, and lived to the age of eighty-four years, eight months, and one day. He died 28 December 1862, and was buried in the Bear Creek Cemetery.

Mary Pelkey (Foltsie) Wyatt, his wife, was born in Maryland, 7 July 1777, and departed this life 20 September 1874, aged ninety-seven and three months.

Nathan and Mary Wyatt were married about 1800 on a public highway in Mercer County, Pennsylvania, dressed in homespun linen.

They were the parents of fifteen children, seven boys and eight girls: Samuel, Lydia, Mary, Elizabeth, Susan, Ann, John W., Jane, Thomas, Rebecca, William, Nathan, Rachel, Sedric, and James.

Nathan, Mary and their young family came in the spring of 1837 from their home in Richland County, Ohio, to Jackson Township in DeKalb County and settled near Spencerville. They cleared forty acres of land and thus acquired it from the government. Many of the Wyatt family followed them here to DeKalb County, that was then woods and wilderness, thus causing what was called the Exodus of the tribe of the Wyatts.

In the year 1848, at the cabin home of Samuel Tarney, a group met and organized the Bear Creek class of the Methodist Protestant Church. Nathan was the class leader for most of the last forty years of his life. The class met in members' homes in groves, barns, and the schoolhouse.

About the year 1850, a church house was erected in section thirteen of Jackson Township, and it was named the Bear Creek M.P. Church. About 1882, a new church house was erected in section twenty-two of Jackson Township and named Rehobath M.P. Church. The charter members were Nathan Wyatt and wife; John Wyatt and wife; Samuel Tarney and wife; Amariah Johnson and wife; Abraham Johnson and wife; William Squires and wife; William R. Moore and wife; and Samuel Widney and wife. John Wyatt, one of the charter members of this class, at the time of his death, had a continuous membership for more than sixty-seven years. Of this class nearly one hundred twenty Wyatts were members.

Nathan and Mary were exemplary Christians. They raised their family in the Christian faith. They were loved by all who knew them and Nathan's influence was always on the side of right.

Nathan was a soldier in the War of 1812. After looking over a short sketch of history of the Virginia Wyatts, it is found the Wyatt families who were pioneers to DeKalb County descended from some highly educated, respected and wealthy people. Sir Francis Wyatt was the governor of Virginia in 1621-1622 for his first term, his second being from 1639-1642. Sir Francis fell heir to Boxley, the home and estate of the Wyatts in Virginia and he was buried on the Estate. In later years, it was divided, one part was called "Old Uptown" from the sons of conquest.

John W. Wyatt Homestead

JOHN W. WYATT, son of Nathan and Mary Wyatt, born 4 April 1811, in Mercer County, Pennsylvania, and departed this life at his home, 28 July 1906, at the age of ninety-five years.

At age six, he and his family moved to Richland County, Ohio, where he grew to manhood. Being trained by religious parents, his early life was bent in the ways of morality.

On 1 April 1834, he was united in marriage with Eva Kitchen. She died early in the marriage. On 12 September 1839, he married Sarah J. Robe. The fruits of their union were four sons and seven daughters. Sarah Jane was a native of Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, born 31 October 1820.

It was in the fall of 1837, that John Wyatt came to Jackson Township to seek a location for a future home. Here, traveling through the dense woods, which were full of a thick growth of wild pea vines and prickly ash, the knees of his pants wore out as his hide too, but he bound up his knees and struggled on.

He selected government land in section thirty-four, then returned for his family, bringing them here in the fall of 1837. The deed for the land was signed by President Andrew Jackson.

John Wyatt was taken ill early on and he hired his brother-in-law, A. Squires, to cut logs and build his house, built with a puncheon floor and an outside chimney of clay and straw. In the spring, he added a hearth made of mud. During the winter months, he had nothing of any kind of food for his cattle. The poor animals would roam around the house and moan, so pitifully at night, that he would cover his head to keep out the sound, but he bought some corn meal and a barrel of sale and that with browing tree tops, brought the cattle out all right in the spring.

In 1838, he wrote, "We ran out of provision. I managed to get a bushel of corn and going nine miles to the mill by a zigzag road through the woods could not get my grist until the next day and then not, because I would not buy a jug of whiskey. I traveled that road four times and finally, to keep from starving at home, gave money for a jug, got my grist and finished my well and got good water." He gave $12.00 for a barrel of flour, $16.00 a hundred for pork, drove far and near to get corn. Roads were only a few tracks cut through forest and dense underbrush and much stuff was hauled up the St. Joe River in a boat.

On moving to Indiana, John, his wife, and fourteen others, in 1840, formed and became charter members of what was called the Bear Creek Class or later Rehobath, about the first M.P. Church formed in Indiana.

On 27 January 1888, Sarah, John's amiable and beloved wife, died.

When he died, at the age of ninety-five on 28 July 1906, he was the oldest man in the county and a record was set by him. He had owned and resided for seventy years on this same land, a record never reached before. He cleared the land, built the house, and farmed the land.

Their children were: Mary Jane, Rebecca H., William Theodore, Rachel Ann, Rebecca Ann, Matilda Jane, Magdelina Merintha, Samuel W., Andrew Robe, Euphenia E., and John Edmund.

Henry and Magdelina Porter

Magdelina had four brothers and six sisters. They were all born and raised at the Wyatt homestead in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. This home was built by her father and family just north of the DeKalb and Allen County Lines. With seven beautiful daughters and four sons, there was much activity at this home; boyfriends came often as did many relatives for family get togethers. There were many parties, bob sledding, sleighing, picnics and church meetings with this proud Wyatt family.

On 3 September 1887, she was united in marriage to Henry Allen Porter from Allen County, Indiana. He was born 3 September 1861.

Just a few years after their union, they moved into the Wyatt home to take care of her father, John W. Wyatt. They remained there until her father's death, 28 July 1906. Their two daughters were born there: Sarah Celesta, born 23 September 1889, and Jennie Gladys, born 13 January 1891.

At age thirty-two, Henry had a terrible accident that would change his life. His left arm was caught in a corn husking machine and was taken off just below the elbow, but he continued farming and overcame this handicap.

About 1922, they went to live with their daughter, Celesta Warner, and her family in Leo and remained there until their deaths.

In 1937, they had a big family gathering to help them celebrate their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

Henry died in Leo and was buried in the Leo Cemetery, on 28 April 1949.

Her family moved into the Wyatt homestead to care for her grandfather. They had many happy times with family reunions and family times together. They attended the Rehobath Church regularly.

On 26 February 1908, she was united in marriage to Eli Hiram Warner. Eli was born in Allen County, 28 June 1885. They moved to Fort Wayne, and the flood of 1913. The family lived south of Auburn for a few years before moving to Leo, Indiana, about 1922. There they formed a business, Warner Brothers with his brother, William. The store was a hub in this community, selling groceries, hardware, I.H.C. Implements, as well as bought, tested, and sold cream as well as eggs. Gasoline was pumped in front of the store for twenty-five cents a gallon.

Later the brothers dissolved the partnership and Eli retained the hardware part, adding appliances as well as DeSoto and Plymouth cars. This was a time when Plymouths were purchsed for about $600.00 and traded for a new car one year later for $100.00.

To this marriage three children were born: Orla Hiram, born 8 July 1909, in Allen County, Indiana; Cleo Velma, born 24 January 1914, in Leo, Indiana; and Jennie Regena Souder, born 17 June 1916, in Allen County, Indiana.

When they moved to Fort Wayne, about 1909, they managed a livery barn on Spy Run Avenue, where people could leave their horses as long as needed and they were fed and cared for.

They were very active in the Leo Methodist Church, serving in many areas. The home they purchased in Leo about 1922 or 1923 was an old hotel on Main Street.

Celesta died in November, 1971, and was buried in the Leo Cemetery.

Eli passed away November, 1956, and also was buried in the Leo Cemetery. He was a trustee on the Cemetery Board and was involved in helping to purchase the ground for the new burial grounds on the west side of the Main Street. Each board member was given a lot for their own burial.

While in York County, Samuel and Rebecca had three children: Matthew Kilgore Houlton, born 5 February 1796; Mary Ann Houlton, born 8 July 1799; and Samuel Houlton, born 24 October 1801. The daughter, Mary Ann, died 17 August 1801.

Samuel and Rebecca were early settlers of Ross County, Ohio, migrating there in 1802. Samuel owned land near his wife's brother, James Kilgore, who was one of the first settlers of that County, having gone there in 1796 with his brother, George. Samuel's land was on the "upper trail" of the "high banks" prairie, below Chillicothe. Samuel and Rebecca returned to York County and Rebecca, taking her mother with her, each riding a horse, returned to the new home in the wilderness. Rebecca's father went out from York County with a party conducted by Samuel, but returned to York County for the winter months, going to Ross

County again in the following spring.

While in Ross County, Samuel and Rebecca had three children: John Houlton, born 21 September 1804; Francis Houlton, born 3 February 1807; and Mary Ann Black Houlton, born 4 May 1811.

On or about the 28th day of July 1813, Samuel Houlton was drafted into service in the war with Great Britain, which had been declared on 18 June 1812. He was drafted at Highland County, Ohio, was a waggoner and teamster under wagonmaster Samuel Bell, attached to the Regiment of Ohio Militia commanded by Colonel William Keys and Major Allan Trumble. Samuel was drafted for an indefinite period and was in actual service for the term of forty days. He was honorably discharged at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, on or around the 7th day of September 1813.

On 6 February 1813, Samuel purchased two hundred acres of land in Highland County, Ohio. The family moved there and lived in a log cabin on the bank of Possum Run. The cabin was on the east side of the road from Greenfield to Cynthiana, in Madison Township. A daughter, Rebecca, was born there on 5 August 1813.

Samuel Houlton died on 2 March 1846, and his wife, Rebecca, died 21 April 1863. They were buried at the Old Burying Ground at Greenfield, Ohio, in Madison Township of Highland County.

Samuel Houlton's wife, Rebecca Kilgore, born 22 August 1772, in York County, Pennsylvania, daughter of Matthew and Mary Kilgore. Her father was born in 1737, probably in Cecil County, Maryland. He migrated from Cecil County to York County, Pennsylvania, before 1770. Matthew died there in 1815. Matthew and Mary were the parents of nine children: Ann, Thomas, George, Matthew, James, William, John, Samuel, and Rebecca.

Rebecca's father, Matthew Kilgore, was the son of Thomas and Rebecca (Lassley) Kilgore. Thomas was born about 1705, in the British Isles, probably Ireland. He migrated to America, married in about 1731, and died in 1783, in Cecil County, Maryland. His wife, Rebecca Lassley, was born about 1705, in the British Isles, migrated to America with her parents, married Thomas Kilgore and died in 1788, in Cecil County, Maryland. In 1813, when Francis was about six years old, the family moved west to the next county and settled in a log cabin on the bank of Possum Run in Madison Township of Highland County, Ohio. The cabin was on the east side of the road between Greenfield and Cynthiana. Francis grew up there, receiving a common school education. In the spring of 1839, he came to DeKalb County, Indiana, and settled on section five and eight, Franklin Township. There were four acres cleared on section five and here he built a cabin and lived ten years, then moved across the line to section eight. He was a hard working, energetic man, and cleared seventy-five acres of his land himself.

He married on 6 January 1838, in Ross

County, Ohio, to Mrs. Evaline (Kellogg) Wood, widow of Abner Wood, by whom she had four children, but one of whom was living in 1885, John K. To Mr. and Mrs. Houlton were born four children: two daughters were living in 1885; Corinna, wife of Isaac Lautzenhiser, of Edgerton, Ohio, and Mary Jane, widow of William Bratton. Mrs. Houlton died 14 October 1881. They were earnest, sincere Christians. Mr. Houlton was a member of the United Brethren and Mrs. Houlton was of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mary Jane Houlton married on 30 October 1861, in DeKalb County, Indiana, to William Bratton. William, born 19 May 1838, in Williams County, Ohio, son of John Bratton, of Edgerton, Ohio. He took charge of the Houlton homestead in August, 1879, soon after the death of Francis Houlton.

The log cabin was on the bank of Possum Run on the east side of the road between Greenfield and Cynthiana.

Mary Ann went to Williams County, Ohio, where her brothers, Samuel and John, were living. On 9 April 1833, in Williams County, she married John Fee, born 12 October 1810, in Galia County, Ohio, son of William W. and Margaret (Collins) Fee, who settled in Williams County, in 1830.

Mary Ann and her husband lived on the farm of her brother, Samuel, as renters, until 1835, when they went to Otsego Township, Steuben County, being the first white family to make their home there and located one hundred twenty acres on section thirty-two.

John Fee was a man of great energy, the man for a new country. It gave him room and brought into action his inherent force of character. He became one of the largest land owners in the county, at one time owning about fifteen hundred acres, not all in Steuben County. His home farm on sections thirty-two and thirty-three and adjoining land over the line in DeKalb County, contained about seven hundred acres, making several farms, divided among his children. SAMUEL HOULTON, born 24 October 1801, in York County, Pennsylvania, son of Samuel and Rebecca (Kilgore) Houlton. He migrated with his parents to Ross County, Ohio, in 1802. They lived on the upper trail of the high bands prairie, below Chilicothe. When Samuel was about twelve years of age, the family moved to the next county to the west and settled in Madison Township, Highland County. They lived in a log cabin on the bank of Possum Run, located on the east side of the road between Greenfield and Cynthiana.

About the age of twenty-five, Samuel left Highland County and went north to an unsettled part of western Ohio. He settled in the area now known as Edgerton, in St. Joseph Township of Williams County, Ohio. He is considered the first settler of that township and possibly the first in the county. He is known to have been in Williams County in February of 1827, when he went into partnership with Isaiah Hughes to build a sawmill on Fish Creek, about a mile north of what is now the town of Edgerton.

Samuel was married 6 February 1833, in Williams County, Ohio, to Hannah Fee. Hannah was born 19 April 1817, near Gallipolis, Ohio, in Gallia County, daughter of William and Margaret (Collins) Fee, who had migrated to Williams County in the summer of 1830. It is said it was a double wedding, the two Houlton brothers, Samuel and John, marrying the two Fee sisters, Hannah and Sarah. Williams County records show Samuel and Hannah were married 6 February 1833, and that John and Sarah were married 5 February 1833.

Samuel and Hannah were the parents of three children: Mary, William M., and Lucinda. Samuel died 17 May 1839, in Williams County, Ohio, and a year and a half later, his widow married Martin A. William M. Houlton was born 29 September 1837, in Williams County, Ohio, went to New York State and in 1857, went to Madison Township, Highland County, Ohio, to reside with his grandmother and his uncle, Matthew. Upon the death of the latter in 1871, he received the family farm, where he resided and built a new house.

William served in the Army beginning in April, 1861, when he entered for three months service as a member of the twenty-second Regiment, Ohio volunteer infantry. After serving out the time for which he was engaged, he re-enlisted, and was assigned to the first Virginia Calvary, with which he remained until it was mustered out 15 July 1865. He was a good soldier and one who was always regarded as fit for any post at which he was placed. One of his deeds of daring was the capture of the colors from the Rebel line in a fortification which the Calvary charged and took. He had three months of suffering in Libby prison and at Belle Isle, which so reduced him that he was sent home for a furlough and with permission to remain as long as he pleased, or to leave the army for good. He returned, however, as soon as able, and again took his place at the front.

William was married 15 August 1865, to Eliza L. Wilcox, of Chautauqua County, New York, by whom he had five children: Ida, the first born died, Samuel, Frank, George, and Mary.

He became a sea captain and sailed a merchant vessel with which he traded between England and American Colonies. He married in 1654 to Anna, last name unknown, born 1618, by whom he had five sons: Andrew, Jonas, Lawrence, Gabriel, and John, and five daughters: Elizabeth, Gertrude, Susanna, Sarah, and Barbara, married Peter Longacre. All of these, it is believed, were born in or near Weymouth, England, between the years of 1654 and 1675. After the years of 1675, because of political problems, the family set sail for America. Off the coast of America, the vessel was shipwrecked on the Delaware River and in the confusion of attending the wreck, two of the Friend children were overlooked and left of the sinking craft, from which they were rescued by the sailors with extreme difficulty. It seems that the father lost his life in the supreme effort to save his children from the foundering ship. The family, all except the father, reached land in safety and settled in upland in 1675. Anna lived to the ripe old age of one hundred six years. She died in 1724, and was buried at St. Paul's Cemetery in Chester, Pennsylvania.

Andrew and Isabella were the parents of four children: Israel, Charles, Rebecca, and Phillip.

Philip Sr., married "Ann" Elizabeth (Horshberg) Harsh, born 29 November 1726. They were the parents of seven children: Philip, Jr., Christople "Stophel", George, Elizabeth, John "Tobias", Cathanna "Charity", and Catherine.

NATHAN SQUIRES, son of William A. and Susan (Wyatt) Squires, born in Richland County, Ohio, 30 June 1830. He remained with his parents until manhood, assisting in the work on the farm and attending the school district.

On 15 November 1853, he married Ann S. Marshall, a native of Cornwall, England. She was born to James and Anna S. (Prout) Marshall, 17 January 1826. Her mother died when she was an infant and her father soon came to America with the baby and her sister, Elizabeth. They settled in Cleveland, Ohio. It was there that she met Nathan Squires and they were married. They came to his father's home, the late William A. Squires, in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, who had entered this land from the government in 1838, then a veritable wilderness. In 1859, they bought forty acres in Jackson Township for two hundred twenty-five dollars and there they built a log cabin.

Nathan Squires Family

On 9 August 1862, Nathan volunteered his service for his country. He served in Company A, 100th Indiana, Volunteer Infantry. He participated in the siege of Vicksburg, Chattanooga, on Missionary Ridge, where he was wounded and was in the hospital for two months. He rejoined his regiment and was with Sherman at Atlanta and on the March on the Sea. He also went through the Carolinas to Washington, where, in May, 1865, he was in the line at the the Grand Review. He bore an honorable part in fifteen battles and skirmishes and was discharged 8 June 1865.

Nathan and Ann Squires had twelve children, including one foster daughter: James W., Samuel Asher, Sidney Newton, Fillmore Adelbert, Susan Abelva, John Sherman, Wyatt Nathan, Horace Corwin, Orange Vincent, Daisy Ann, Myrtle Ellen, the later two daughters died in infancy, and Daisy Lillie Mary, the foster daughter.

At Mission Ridge, November, 1863, he was shot in the left thigh and strained his back. He was taken to the hospital at Chattanooga, Tennessee, where he remained ten days, he was also at Marietta for two weeks. In December, 1863, he was furloughed for thirty days, the time being afterward extended eighty days. He rejoined his command at Bridgeport, Tennessee, and was for sometime guard over the wagon trains.

Both of his grandfathers were in the Revolutionary War. Our comrade draws a pension, is a member of DeLong Post 67, a farmer and resided in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana.

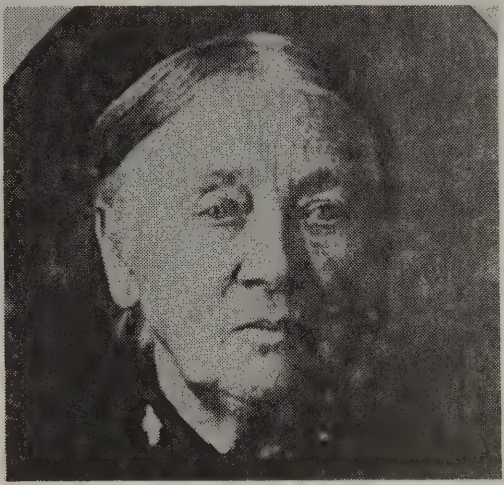
Asher Squires, mustered in 10 August 1862, died at Puducah, Kentucky, 17 August 1863

Nathan Squires, mustered in 11 August 1862, out 8 June 1865.

John W. Squires, mustered in December, 1863, out 29 August 1865.

ANN SQUIRES, daughter of James and Ann Marshal, born in London, England, January 17, 1834, died March 30, 1913, at 9:30 a.m., on the farm where she had lived and made a home for all comers since November, 1858-55 years-at the age of seventy-nine years, one month, and thirteen days.

Ann Squires never knew her mother, her mother left off this earthly life when the baby took it on. At the age of three weeks her father and sister, Elizabeth, with the baby set sail for the new world - America. After a long, tedious and perilous voyage, they arrived at Cleveland, Ohio, where she grew to young womanhood. In 1853, she visited her only sister, Elizabeth, who had married a Mr. Lang and lived near Solon, twelve miles out from Cleveland in the Garfield neighborhood. On this visit she met Nathan Squires, a young carpenter, who, together with his brother, the late Jonathan Squires, were building a farm house for Mr. Lang. Their first meeting was at the well whither she had gone for a pitcher of water and he for a drink. This meeting led to a favorable acquaintance which ripened into love and they were united in marriage, November 12, 1853, and came to his father's home, the late William A. Squires, in Jackson Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, who entered this land from the government in 1838, then a vertiable wilderness.



Ann (Marshall) Squires

Ann Squires and her husband bought their first land in 1859, the west forty of their present farm, for which they paid $225. They soon dug a well and built a cabin home and in it a fire place and chimney and moved into the house, November, 1859, before there was a window or a floor laid. When the team arrived with the family which consisted of Ann Squires and two babies, James and Samuel, and the household goods, they had to wait for the husband to saw a hole in the north side of the house through which the family entered and the goods were carried. Bed quilts served for doors for a few days.

In 1862 her husband volunteered his service and life if need be to the services of his country for a term of three years or during the war. He served in Company A, 100th Indiana Volunteer Infantry, and was mustered out of service in Washington, D.C., in 1865, at the close of the war. During these years, Ann Squires was what is every where known as a war widow and we ventured and the neighbors bear witness that under the circumstances no woman ever performed her part better.

To this union were born eleven children, eight sons and three daughters. Two daughters dying in infancy, Daisy Ann and Myrtle Ellen. John Sherman and Horace Corwin departed this life after they had attained manhood. Her husband, Nathan Squires, died April 18, 1895, since which time she had been a widow. Six sons and one foster daughter remain to mourn her departure, namely James W. of Fort Wayne, Samuel Asher, Sidney Newton, Fillmore Adelbert, Nathan Wyatt, Orange Vincent, all of Auburn, and Mrs. Bell Dancer of Elsie, Nebraska, and Mrs. Daisy Friend of Helena, Mississippi. There are also thirty-one grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren.

Ann Squires affiliated herself in early life with the Methodist Protestant Church and lived a consistent Christian life. She was not a lodge woman. She was not an author, nor an actress, nor a public lecturer, but she was truthful, honest, intelligent, and industrious. She was economical, accumulative and charitable.

She was the noblest handiwork of God - a devoted virtuous wife and a loving Christian mother - the queen of her own home.

The funeral was held at Rehobeth church, Jackson Township, on Wednesday, April 2, and interment in Evergreen Cemetery, Auburn.

PETER SHOUPE, born in the early 1800's in Germany. He married Catharine in Germany in 1834. Catharine, born 19 July 1816, in Hamberg, Germany.

In 1837, they crossed the ocean to take up residence in America. They endured the days of sea navigation, when two months were necessary to cross the old ocean. Being able to be tossed about for nine long weeks encounting rough seas and terrible storms, and being made of sturdy stuff that was common heritage of the American pioneer. They landed safely on American soil. They settled in Ohio, then moved to Indiana near Troy. There Peter Shoupe sickened and died in 1852.

Eight sons and four daughters blessed their union. One of the daughters was Caroline Shoupe, wife of Frederick H. Bunge, who lived in Wilmington Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, 1862-1914. The mother left a widow with her family to rear and because of her firm faith in God, whom she had learned in childhood to trust was equal to the task.

After five years of widowhood, she married Josiah Haviland, 28 February 1857. They located in Florence Township, Williams County, Ohio. On 5 June 1896, Josiah Haviland died.

Catharine Shoupe Haviland, having been in failing health for over a year, made her visit to her daughter, Caroline Bunge, who lived southwest of Butler, Indiana. While there, Catharine took to her bed and for six months had been kindly cared for and every want supplied. She quietly passed away 4 July 1902, at the age of eighty-six. She was buried in the Malcohm Cemetery, near Berlin, Ohio.

Frederick and Caroline Bunge

FREDERICK HENRY THEODORE BUNGE, born 4 May 1832, and his brother, Louis Ludwig Bunge, born 2 October 1834, left Germany in the fall of 1849, to avoid being drafted in the German Army. They left their parents, John and Elizabeth (Frost) Bunge, and a sister in Germany. Their decision was apparently not a popular one with their family. Louis was sixteen and Frederick was eighteen when they boarded a sailing ship for America. Their journey was harrowing as they were on the water for seventeen weeks and were blown off course to the north. They navigated between icebergs and according to their account of the voyage about froze. Their food supply ran low and the last four weeks on board they were rationed to one meal a day. Finally, they reached port in New York City. The brothers made their home in DeKalb County, Indiana.

Frederick Bunge met Caroline Shoupe, born 9 July 1841. They were married 30 October 1862, in DeKalb County. They were the parents of eight children: Josireo, born 10 January 1865, died 17 November 1887; Nettie I. (Bunge) Weeks, born 6 January 1870, died 7 May 1909; Ella Cathaine (Bunge) Pomeroy, born 14 January 1871, died 24 November 1950; John Bunge, born 4 July 1876, died 19 February 1935; Joseph Bunge, born 17 January 1881, died 14 February

1881; Frederick William Bunge, born 17 January 1882, died 3 March 1948; Dora Belle (Bunge) Ridge, born 16 July 1883, died 14 March 1961; and Nellie Olive Bunge, born 5 October 1885, died 15 August 1942.

Frederick went west to Kansas where his brother went to see about homesteading there. After a dry spell, Frederick came back to DeKalb County near Auburn, Indiana. In January of 1876, he purchased eighty acres of land in Wilmington Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, from David S. Ober for thirty dollars per acre. This was the original land on which the Ridge farm now sits near Butler.

The first barn built on the property in 1881 still is in use, although it has been added to. Frederick built the thirty-six foot by sixty-four foot barn with the help of his sons and another friend. The hued all the logs out for the barn. The logs came from the woods on the property. One of the thirty-six foot beams in the barn is black walnut. The rafters are made of Tamarack and came from a nearby muck swamp. The barn is held together with wooden pins. The old oak tree still stands at the corner of the drive like a landmark to the farm.

Caroline died 8 June 1914, aged seventy-three years, and Frederick died 17 June 1915, aged eighty-three. Interment in the Woodlawn Cemetery, Auburn, Indiana.

LOUIS LUDIOUK BUNGE, born 2 October 1834, in Germany. His parents were John and Elizabeth (Frost) Bunge. He had one brother, Frederick Henry Theodore Bunge, born 4 May 1832. Louis, at sixteen years, and Frederick, at eighteen years, left Germany in the fall of 1849, and sailed for America. Arriving in seventeen weeks, they worked their way west to DeKalb County, Indiana.

Louis was a tailor by trade before coming to America. He met Minnie Gillow, born 3 March 1838, after coming to America and they were married. They had two sons: Francis, born 1865, and Albert Merick, born 13 April 1867. Francis and Albert were born near Auburn, Indiana.

Louis went to Kansas where he got a pre-empted one hundred sixty acres for $1.25 per acre, which is not a homestead. This land was located at Lacumpton, Kansas, close to Lawrence, Kansas. They moved there in 1869. Francis was four years old at the time and Albert was two.

Louis died 9 September 1914, and Minnie died 21 April 1915.

John Ridge Family

JOHN M. RIDGE, born 26 August 1840, near Tunbridge Wells, Kent, England, to Thomas and Mary (Skinner) Ridge. He was next to the youngest of nine children.

John attended Victoria School for boys. The school building also houses the teacher's residence. It was surrounded by a high stone wall with an iron entrance gate. Discipline was very severe and often brutal. His education was interrupted when he was put to work about eight years of age.

At the age of ten, he accompanied his parents to America, on the ship Northland, where his uncle had settled several years before in Indiana. This was in 1850.

On the trip, which lasted eight weeks, many serious as well as funny experiences happened. One in particular happened to his brother, James, and a young German. On the ship were rows of compartments used to build fires for cooking. James had built a fire and left to get a kettle of water. Upon returning, he found the young German had placed his kettle on James' fire. After scuffling about the fire, James punched the German, who went flying to the floor. James had detention in the Captain's cabin for three hours. Years later, James was telling this story to a group of friends in Butler, Indiana. When he concluded, one of the listeners stepped forward and identified himself as the German lad. His name was Aldophus May! They shook hands and had a hearty laugh.

John lived with his parents in Indiana, Iowa, and back to Indiana, DeKalb County in 1861. He cast his first vote for Abraham Lincoln in November, 1864, and always voted the Republican ticket there after.

He married Lydia A. Slentz, 13 December 1868. They began house keeping on a rented farm four miles northwest of Butler, Indiana. Three children were born to this union: Ida, Cora, and Charles. Ida married Joseph Llewellyn. They lived in Waterloo, Indiana, and had one daughter, Bertha; Cora married Lowell Johnson and lived in Butler, Indiana; Charles married Dora Bunge and resided on a farm near Butler.

They have two daughters: Esther and Doris, and one son, Robert.

The family circle was first broken by the death of Lydia, 25 February 1900, who had been an invalid for many years. John had surgery in 1916, amputating his right hand after which he enjoyed good health, thankful he led a temperate and cheerful lfe in the midst of many adversities. His last four years, he spent in blindness, never seeing his only grandson.

John died 15 February 1929, and is buried in the Waterloo Cemetery. The family were members of the U.B. Church at the settlement known as Jerusalem.

Charles and Dora Ridge

CHARLES HENRY RIDGE, born 5 July 1881, in DeKalb County, son of John M. and Lydia (Slentz) Ridge of Waterloo. Charles attended school east of Waterloo on old U.S. 6. His paternal grandparents were Thomas and Mary (Skinner) Ridge, both born in England.

Dora Belle Bunge, born 16 July 1883, in DeKalb County, Butler, Indiana, daughter of Frederick H. and Caroline (Shoupe) Bunge of Butler, Indiana. Dora attended school at Moores. Her maternal grandparents were Peter and Catharine Shoupe. Both were born in Germany and immigrated to America in 1837.

Charles was a farmer and in 1915, Charles and Dora Belle (Bunge) Ridge bought the Bunge farm, where Dora had been raised. Crops raised were hay, wheat, corn, and oats. They also raised onions. They had dairy cows, horses, chickens, sheep, hogs, and ducks.

One pair of horses used for farming were named Pat and Mike. They weighed over twenty-two hundred pounds each and were formerly used for the dray service in Fort Wayne, Indiana. They were two of the best trained horses in DeKalb County. Queen was the name of the horse that pulled the buggy and sled.

Their first car bought was a model T-Ford.

The threshing machine owned by Charles Keller traveled from farm to farm thrashing grain. Charles Ridge and son, Charles Robert, were part of the team. During the Depression, hard times were experienced on the farm by many farmers. The Ridges created a route to sell butter, eggs, dressed chickens and ducks, vegetables from the farm for a living.

Charles H. Ridge served on the jury of the Federal Court in Fort Wayne. It was there he met James Angelone, who had planned to come to Butler as an attorney.

Charles was active in the Republican Party and was a member of the Advisory Board. He was a fifty year member of the Knights of Pythis Lodge in Butler, Indiana. Dora was a member of the Wilmington Township Home Demonstration Club. They were members of the Butler Methodist Church.

In 1850, they left England on the ship Northerumberland for America. Thomas had a brother, who had been in America for several years and wrote such glowing accounts of the country, he decided to go there too. The trip took eight weeks, docking in New York City, 12 January 1851.

The family traveled west by river boats and wagon to Indiana, where Thomas' brother lived, settling on a farm south of Connersville, Fayette County, Indiana, in 1853.

In the summer of 1856, the Ridge family and a few neighbors purchased land in Iowa near Sioux City and left 12 May 1857, with few possessions to stake their Iowa claims. Here they built a log cabin and enjoyed a good life until the settlement became fearful of their safety by unfriendly Sioux Indians, who made a raid on the settlers.

In the spring of 1861, the family returned to Indiana, trading their Iowa property for land in Indiana. Son, James, was living in DeKalb County, Indiana, where Thomas and family came in October, 1863. He purchased forty acres.

Members of the family served in the Civil War. William was killed at Richmond, Kentucky, August, 1862, three weeks after leaving home. He left a wife and four small children.

Cordelia (Wanamaker) Webster, born 18 March 1830, in Trumbull County, Ohio, daughter of Reverend Samuel E. Wanamaker and Maria Barbara Hake. Her paternal grandparents were Jurg Daniel Wannemacher and Susanna Everett. Her maternal grandparents was Christian Hake (Hock) She married first William Webster.

Stewart and Cordelia married 3 February 1859, in Stafford Township, DeKalb County, Indiana.

Excerpts from a letter written by Stewart:

I came west with my father from Muskingum County, Ohio, to Defiance County, Ohio, in 1834, when I was 11 years old. There were plenty of Indians and no schools. My father never sent me to school enough to learn to read. I was 16 years old and working out by the month to help support my mother when I made my first attempt to learn to write. When I was 17 years old, I took charge of my mother and family.

We were at the foot of poverty hill. We hadn't a foot of land, not even a cow or pig. Mother had a brother living about 20 miles away. I took a lease from him for 12 years--all woods. I built a cabin on it, moved my folks into it, and went to chopping by the job to keep the folks from starving. I grew up without an education, but made a home for my younger brothers and sisters and gave them a chance to attend school.

I bought my first cow about 18 months after commeoing in the woods. I spent every odd hour in improving my lease. As time rolled on, I began to raise a little grain and stock. We lived close, saved everything, kept the family together, and succeeded in buying 40 acres of land, all woods.

About that time, I began to work with carpenter and joiner tools, helped build a good many fine residences, finally became a master builder, and conducted the trade for myself. I added 80 acres more land to my 40. I had an improvement of 65 acres, an orchard, a little frame house and an old log house.

I came very near to being an 'old maid' at age 35, but I began to look around and at a fair, four miles from my home in Defiance County, Ohio, I beheld the form and features of a married lady. I fell in love with her at first sight, supposing she was single. It would have made you grieve to have seen me scratch my head when I found out my mistake, but the impression did not vanish from my mind. She lived at the edge of Indiana, 10 miles distant, and I did not see her again for a year and a half. During that time, her husband died, and in due time I sought her acquaintance.

On 3 February 1859, Cordelia and I were married. She had one son about six years old. On 15 September 1860, we had a son, Corwin Grant, and on 12 January 1868, another son, Charles Sumner, was born.

My wife held dower in the place on which she lived in DeKalb County, Indiana, and she had a comfortable frame house.
